Social Security Bill Veto Upset

"Independent Contractors" Still Excluded

Benefits For Aged And Blind Boosted

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP) — Congress passed over President Truman's veto today a bill barring many thousands of semi-independent workers from old age insurance.

The bill also increases benefits for the aged needy, for the blind, and for dependent children by $184,000,000 yearly.

The Senate voted 65 to 12—more than the necessary two-thirds—tonight to override Mr. Truman's veto. The House vote, a few hours earlier, was 297 to 75.

Both houses acted on the same day that Mr. Truman said in a veto message he could not approve legislation which might deprive an estimated 750,000 persons and their dependents of social security benefits.

House OKs Extension Of Act

Today also the House passed, 237 to 2, and sent to the Senate another social security bill. This one would add 3,500,000 persons to the old age insurance rolls—most of them employes of state and local governments or non-profit organizations.

The House vote in favor of overriding the veto was 49 more than the necessary two-thirds.

The Bill Mr. Truman vetoed would increase payments to 3,500,000 persons dependent children, blind persons and the aged and needy. The President said the increases fall short of what he asked.

But the reason for his veto was a provision which would bar "independent contractors" from old age insurance financed by payroll taxes. He said this could exclude 750,000 persons, including commission salesmen, life insurance salesmen, truck drivers and many others.

He declared that in June, 1947, the Supreme Court held that these persons are legally entitled to social security protection. (Congressional critics of this decision have called it contrary to the intent of Congress.)

Time Running Out

Mr. Truman, in his veto message assailing what he called "piecemeal attacks" on the social security program, said he was giving Congress "adequate time" to change its bill.

There appeared little chance however, that an altered bill would be adopted at this session if Congress winds up Saturday as many Republican leaders hope it can.

Similarly, there may not be time for the Senate to act on the measure which the House passed today.

This bill, sponsored by Rep. Reed (R-NY), would bring state and municipal workers and employes of non-profit organizations under the old age insurance program if their employers approved. Some smaller groups also would be included for example, college fraternity servants and employes of farm loan institutions.

CONTEST WINNER — Reba Watterson, 18, Stockton, Calif., poses at Santa Cruz, Calif., shortly after winning the "Miss California" title. She will represent California in the national contest at Atlantic City.

Coal Talks Take Backward Step

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—Soft coal operators said today John L. Lewis had renewed his ultimatum that they release the "frozen" $40,000,000 welfare fund of 1947 before talking terms of a new contract.

This was a backward step from Saturday's bargaining conference, when Lewis yielded slightly and began to discuss a new contract in general terms.

Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the mine owners' negotiators, said "I don't think the conference has made any progress since it was assembled on May 18."

A similar statement was made to reporters by Lewis after a two hour session.

"Nothing happened," he said. "There was further discussion of the resolution introduced last week to abate this controversy as provided by the law and the contract. Up to this point the operators have refused and are still discussing it."

"The mine workers ask us to assume old distress obligations dating long before the fund was set up," O'Neill told reporters.

Huge Hailstones Block Highways In Illinois

MEREDOSIA, Ill., June 14. (AP)—A sudden slashing hail and wind storm struck a 15-mile area near Meredosia today, leaving huge hailstones piled four feet deep on highways which had to be cleared with a bulldozer.

Three residents of Meredosia were injured.

Meredosia is about 75 miles north of St. Louis.

Damages was estimated to run into the thousands of dollars. Barns and outbuildings were unroofed, scores of windows were broken, and crops of wheat, corn, oats and beans were cut to shreds and driven into the ground by the hail. Telephone lines were down throughout the area.

Senate Group Approves Plans For Giant Carrier

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee stamped its approval today on Navy plans to build a 65,000-ton super-aircraft carrier.

The carrier, largest combat vessel of its kind ever proposed, is included in a $3,812,170,250 appropriation voted by the committee for Navy spending in the 12 months beginning July 1.

The committee gave the Navy $124,568,450 less than it asked, but added $125,437,000 more than the House allowed.

The Navy will have $6,000,000 to begin work on the new carrier if the bill is not changed. The House already has okayed the new ship.

Truman's Acts "Disgust" Nation, GOP Leader Says

PHILADELPHIA, June 14 (AP) — "The nation is disgusted and humiliated by the acts of its President," Carroll Reece, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said tonight.

Reece, in Philadelphia to prepare for the opening of the GOP national convention next month, told a coast-to-coast audience in a prepared radio address:

"For a little more than six months, under our constitutional system, we will have to endure that humiliation, but the day of deliverance will not be delayed beyond that period."

The Tennessean said the American Broadcasting Company "has been kind enough to ask me to comment on Mr. Truman's political barnstorming tour across the continent, and, in particular, upon his assertion that the present 80th Congress is the worst Congress in the history of our country since the period immediately after the war between the states."

Reece said the subject was "something to be approached more in sorrow than in anger."

"In all sincerity," the GOP chairman continued, "I can assure you tonight that by and large Mr. Truman has received forbearance, sympathy and co-operation from the Republican Congress. There have been times when Congress has saved Mr. Truman from himself."

Reece said that Mr. Truman had "inherited many evils when he entered the White House."

But, he continued, "he has retained most of them and has created new ones of his own."

House Group OKs 19-26 Draft Bill

6-4 Vote; Passage Next Week Certain

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The 19-through-25 draft bill was sent to the House floor today. It is practically sure to be passed this week.

The House Rules Committee cleared the bill for House action after keeping it "bottled up" for five weeks. Chairman Leo Allen (R-Ill) said the vote was 6 to 4.

House Republican leaders already had stamped "must" on the bill and it now is slated tentatively for action tomorrow. The Rules Committee voted to limit general debate to three hours, but debate on amendments may take considerably longer.

One committee member said the vote sending the bill to the House floor was as follows:

Two Members Absent

For letting the House act—Reps. Wadsworth (R-NY), Herter (R-Mass), Cox (D-Ga), Smith (D-Va), Harness (R-Ind) and Rizley (R-Okla).

Against letting the House act—Allen, and Reps. Sabath (D-Ill), Rich (R-Pa) and Chenoweth (R-Colo).

Reps. Clark (D-NC) and Brown (R-Ohio) were absent. Clark had spoken in favor of clearing the bill and Brown against clearing it.

Harnes has declared himself against the draft bill but indicated he thought the rules body should give the House itself a chance to pass on it.

The Senate passed a draft bill of its own last Thursday, 78 to 10.

Both bills provide for the drafting of non-veterans 19 through 25 for two years' service. The House bill requires men 18 through 30 to register. The Senate bill would register only those 18 through 25 and would permit 18-year-olds to volunteer for a year's training.

Short's Plan Rejected

Assuming that the House bill is passed, a conference committee would be named to iron out the comparatively minor differences between it and the Senate legislation. The first inductions probably would come within 90 days after the bill became law.

The Rules Committee vote today came after a last-ditch plea by Rep. Short (R-Mo) to "bury this bill right here." He told the committee that the dangers of the international situation have been "grossly exaggerated" and that Russia is only putting up a "diplomatic bluff."

Chairman Andrews (R-NY), of the House Armed Services Committee, appealed successfully, however, for the bill—which he introduced himself—to be released. Leaders of the armed forces have endorsed it.

Author Gertrude Atherton, 90, Dies In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14 (AP)—Novelist Gertrude Atherton, 90, died in Stanford Hospital here this afternoon after several weeks illness.

The noted author, one of the most prolific writers of her time, suffered a slight stroke on May 27, and was taken to the hospital immediately.

Her first novel, "The Doomswoman," was published in 1892. Since then, almost up to her death, she had averaged a book a year.

Perhaps her best known work was "Black Oxen," published in 1923.

One-Year Revival Of Trade Act Is Voted By Senate

Checks President's Tariff-Slash Power

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The Senate voted a limited, one-year revival of the reciprocal trade agreements program late today.

Most Republicans hailed the Senate bill as an improvement over the Trade Agreements Act which lapsed Saturday night. But Democratic leaders assailed it as limiting the President's powers so greatly as to undermine United States foreign policy.

The bill, adopted 70 to 18, permits the President to make tariff-cutting agreements with other countries. But before doing so he must wait until the Federal Tariff Commission decides how far the tariff on each item in the agreement can safely be cut without danger to United States producers.

Ives Amendment Approved

Then, if he disregards the commission's findings, the President must make a report to Congress within 30 days, giving his reasons.

The Senate approved an amendment by Sen. Ives (R-NY) requiring the commission to complete its hearings and report its findings to the President within four months. Ives said the commission otherwise would have a virtual veto power since it could delay its reports indefinitely or even fail to report at all.

Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) sharply criticized the State Department for what he called its "stubborn" opposition to the bill. He said he was "shocked" to learn that the department had refused to let senators see foreign trade records.

The Michigan Senator said the bill "strengthens" the reciprocal trade program.

Bill Goes Back To House

But Sen. Lucas (D-Ill.) declared that the bill "strikes at the very heart" of the 14-year-old trade program and threatens to force this country "back into the smugness of economic isolation."

Several Democrats shouted that the bill was a return to the high-tariff days of the Smoot-Hawley Act. Sen. Millikin (R-Colo.), sponsor of the trade bill, replied: "Utter poppycock."

Before the final vote, the Senate rejected by narrow margins Democratic moves to extend the program first for three years and then for two years.

The bill now goes back to the House, which has passed a bill curbbing the President's powers more drastically than the Senate measure. House Republican leaders have indicated they will agree to the Senate version.

House Votes To Boost Disabled Vets' Benefits

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—Two bills estimated to boost by $161,000,000 annually the benefit payments to disabled veterans and to widows and dependents of deceased veterans were passed today by the House.

Both skimmed through without a dissenting vote and went to the Senate, which has passed similar bills calling for a lesser annual expenditure. Unless the Senate accepts the House changes, the bills will go to a Senate-House conference committee for a compromise.

Morrison Apologizes

LONDON, June 14 (AP)—Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison apologized tonight to his political arch-enemy, Winston Churchill.

He withdrew a statement accusing the former prime minister of accepting £2,000 ($8,000) a year as leader of the opposition without being a proper leader.

All Is Reported Quiet In Palestine

CAIRO, June 14 (AP)—All of Palestine's scattered fronts were quiet today as the Holy Land experienced its first peaceful day in six and a half months.

The Israeli government announced it was complying with the immigration terms of the four-week armistice. Disagreement developed, however, over the question of food convoys for Jerusalem's 90,000 Jews.

The truce commission met in the Holy City to frame a report to Count Folke Bernadotte, the United Nations mediator, on the Jewish refusal to permit a check of convoys at Bab El Wad.

Bernadotte himself was on Rhodes setting up headquarters for negotiations designed to turn the present armistice into lasting peace.

He was scheduled to fly to Cairo tomorrow for talks with Arab leaders and to go to Tel Aviv, the capital of Israel, on Thursday.

Actress Seeks Divorce

LOS ANGELES, June 14 (AP) — Actress Martha Stewart sued for divorce today from Joe E. Lewis, night club comedian and Broadway stage figure.

She charged cruelty. They were married in Miami, Fla., in March, 1946, and have no children.

BELT BROKE-- Roy Adams (right), 14-year-old confessed slayer of a girl playmate, is shown talking from his Chicago jail cell yesterday with Warden Frank Sain after the warden said the youth attempted to end his life. Sain said the boy used his belt to make a noose which he suspended overhead but his suicide attempt failed when the belt broke. Adams earlier in the day pleaded innocent to a charge of murder. He had signed a statement that he smothered Nancy Schuler, 8, on May 27. (Story at bottom of page)

Anti-Lynch Bill Cleared; Chance Of Passage Slim

Senate Committee Approves Measure

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—One of the measures in President Truman's civil rights program—an anti-lynching bill—was cleared today for a possible Senate vote but imminent adjournment made chances of passage slim.

Southern Democrats have vowed they will attempt to talk to death any such legislation.

The Judiciary Committee toned down the bill it finally approved, but Sen. Eastland (D-Miss) left no doubt it is still objectionable to him.

"I am going to fight it 'till hell freezes over," he said.

Vote Is 10 To 3

Eastland is a member of the committee, which voted 10 to 3 to send the measure on to the Senate calendar. There it will join other civil rights bills—anti-poll tax and fair employment measures—which have been languishing there for months.

The Republican Policy Committee has tabbed the anti-lynching bill as the easiest of the three to pass, and has kept it on its list of "desirable" legislation. But no time for debate has ever been allocated.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich), principal author of the bill, declined to predict whether the Senate will act. He noted only that the GOP leadership has kept the measure on its priority list.

Provides Fine And Prison

The bill would make conspiracy between members of a lynch mob and officials of federal, state or local governments "to commit, instigate, incite, organize, aid or abet" a lynching a federal felony.

Conviction would carry a punishment of up to $10,000 fine and up to 20 years in prison, or both.

In addition, the bill would authorize civil suits for unlimited damages by persons injured in a lynching or attempted lynching and by the next of kin of anyone killed.

Ferguson told reporters the bill is the strongest that could be approved by the committee although "I am not satisfied with it."

NMU Orders Seamen To Obey Injunctions

Walkout Appears Off For At Least 80 Days

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—The threatened nationwide maritime strike appeared off for at least 80 days today after the federal government got three injunctions against it.

The three orders were signed by federal judges in the East and Gulf coasts, West coast and Great Lakes phases of the dispute.

They automatically brought into play the 80-day cooling-off period provided by the Taft-Hartley law, federal officials said.

Late today officers of the CIO National Maritime Union, largest of the seven unions involved, sent out instructions to all members directing that the injunctions be obeyed.

The message was signed by Joseph Curran, NMU president, and other officers representing both the right and left-wing factions in the big seamen's union.

Curran, NMU Agent Disagree

Earlier, Curran and left-wing NMU New York port agent had bickered over the union's stand on the injunctions.

The agent sent telegrams to seamen aboard ships here instructing them to prepare for a strike tomorrow midnight. Curran said he had no authority to do this.

The instructions sent by the union leaders said to "fill all requests for manning, avoid any stoppage of work which could be looked upon as contempt of the restraining order."

Violations of the injunctions, the message said, "will place our union and membership in grave jeopardy and can subject the union and its officers and members to severe penalties."

The instructions pointed out that the union hiring halls would remain in operation under the court orders.

Hearing Set For June 18

"Our compliance with this restraining order does not nullify our strike vote," the message said. "It's application is delayed only until the union is free to move."

Child Uninjured After Six-Story Fall Into Hedge

NEW YORK, June 14 (INS) —"I faw down," said two and one-half year old Kenneth Liebman today as he picked himself up in front of his home in the Parkchester section of New York.

Adults who saw young Kenneth fall from a sixth-floor apartment window almost swooned. They also called police who rushed the youngster to Fordham Hospital.

A careful examination of the child revealed no damage, but he was held for observation for a day or two, just in case.

Kenneth fell into a hedge.

Gerhard Eisler's Conviction Upheld

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—The United States Court of Appeals today upheld the contempt of Congress conviction of Gerhard Eisler, reputed "brains" of American Communists.

Eisler, a chubby little man of 51 who says he is not a foreign agent but "a German Communist x x x fighting for the right to go home," faces a year in prison and a $1,000 fine in the case.

He refused February 6, 1947, to be sworn in to testify before the House Committee on Un-American activities, without first making a statement.

Arraigned on the contempt charges April 22, 1947, he was convicted June 10, 1947 and sentenced by Justice Alexander Holtzoff, who told him:

"You would testify only on your own terms. x x x It is apparent that this defendant does not respect the institutions of this country."

Eisler was denounced by his own sister, Ruth Fischer, as "a dangerous terrorist." FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover called him "the liaison between authorities in Moscow and the Communist Party, U. S. A."

Americans Will Use Soviet Detour To Berlin

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 14. (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay said today the Americans would comply with a Russian detour to Berlin after the Soviets close the Elbe River bridge tomorrow "for repairs."

"Even if they have to drive 300 more miles?" a reporter asked Clay.

"Yes," the American military governor replied. "I cannot demand the United States' going to war just because somebody has to drive 300 more miles."

The Russian press in Berlin announced Sunday the bridge would be closed. It said detours would be provided, but did not say where and how long they would be.

Wants Action Now On Price Curbs, Housing

Thinks Legislators Should Stay On Job

LOS ANGELES, June 14 (AP) — President Truman roared a new challenge to Congress today to get busy "right now" on price controls, housing and half a dozen other "very serious situations."

"They still have time," he said. "And if they haven't time, they ought to take it."

Here in Los Angeles where he received the greatest ovation of his western campaign tour, Mr. Truman ticked off an eight-point program he wants from Congress now. For the most part, he listed the things for which he has been hammering since he left Washington June 3.

But today he added federal aid for education and health.

His eight-points:

Price controls, housing, social security expansion, a health program, a restored Labor Department, education, a farm plan including price supports, a water and flood control program.

Strikes At Wolcott, Allen

Renewing his bid for housing "at a cost which will be easy on the people who have to pay the bills," the President struck directly but not by name at Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich), of the House Banking Committee, and Chairman Leo Allen (R-Ill), of the House Rules Committee.

He said Wolcott has been "sitting on" the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill. He said Wolcott got the surprise of his life when three Republicans teamed up with 11 Democratic members to blast the bill out of the committee.

"The Rules Committee," he said, "now can roost on that bill until the Congress adjourns, unless the people of the United States wake up and do something about it, and force action."

But the rules chairman, he said, is "a little bit tougher than the banking chairman, so I doubt very much whether we will get action."

The President's new lambasting of Congress took place in a night club setting, the Cocoanut Grove of the Ambassador Hotel. The dimly-lit Oasis was filled with some 1,100 people invited by the Press Club of Greater Los Angeles.

Truman, Roosevelt Confer

Movie Radio Comedian Red Skelton set the tone for the Truman speech with a crack beforehand that Congress is "bingo with millions."

After his speech, the Chief Executive conferred for 20 minutes with James Roosevelt, son of the late President and state Democratic chairman, and prominent Southern California Democrats. They included county chairmen, and delegates to the national convention.

Roosevelt told reporters afterward that one delegate inquired whether the president will stand by his civil rights program that has brought party discontent in the South.

Roosevelt said Mr. Truman replied he had "never yet made a proposal and backed down on it."

"The President," Roosevelt said, "said he was going to keep on building up the record against the Republicans and keep the facts before the people."

The President's train left at 7 o'clock tonight for the East, with scheduled stops tonight at San Bernardino and Barstow, where he was to make platform appearances.

Gottwald Is Installed As Czech President

PRAGUE, June 14. (AP)—Klement Gottwald, stocky 51-year-old Communist, today was elected and installed as president of Czechoslovakia.

The former Premier became the republics first Communist President in a show of hands vote during a public parliamentary election. There were 296 votes for him. Apart from Gottwald and a woman member who resigned three days ago, there were only two votes unaccounted for. The Communists hold 214 of Parliament's 300 seats.

In his first official address as President, Gottwald expressed hope for continued peace "despite social and political differences that divide the world."

Youth Held For Murder Tries To Hang Himself

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—Roy Adams, 14-year-old confessed slayer of a girl playmate, won himself a 24-hour guard in the county jail today by attempting to hang himself and then having tantrums.

The suicide attempt came shortly after a Criminal Court appearance in which Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington accepted Adams' plea of innocence to a charge of murdering Nancy Schuler, eight.

The youth has signed a statement that he smothered the girl with pillows in his bedroom in the Adams apartment May 27.

Judge Harrington directed that Adams be examined by the county behavior clinic. The hearing was continued to June 25 when the clinic report is to be given the court.

Frank Sain, warden of the county jail, said that young Adams was put into a cell in the observation tier of the jail after returning from his arraignment session. There, he removed his belt, and, standing on a cot, tied one end around his neck and the other to an overhead bar of the cage-like enclosure.

Sain said the belt broke when Adams jumped off of his cot. The warden said guards reported that the youth then screamed and beat his head against the steel plate covering the lower part of his cell wall.

The Rules Committee vote today came after a last-ditch plea by Rep. Short (R-Mo) to "bury this bill right here." He told the committee that the dangers of the international situation have been "grossly exaggerated" and that Russia is only putting up a "diplomatic bluff."

Chairman Andrews (R-NY), of the House Armed Services Committee, appealed successfully, however, for the bill—which he introduced himself—to be released. Leaders of the armed forces have endorsed it.

Author Gertrude Atherton, 90, Dies In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14 (AP)—Novelist Gertrude Atherton, 90, died in Stanford Hospital here this afternoon after several weeks illness.

The noted author, one of the most prolific writers of her time, suffered a slight stroke on May 27, and was taken to the hospital immediately.

Her first novel, "The Doomswoman," was published in 1892. Since then, almost up to her death, she had averaged a book a year.

Perhaps her best known work was "Black Oxen," published in 1923.

One-Year Revival Of Trade Act Is Voted By Senate

Checks President's Tariff-Slash Power

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The Senate voted a limited, one-year revival of the reciprocal trade agreements program late today.

Most Republicans hailed the Senate bill as an improvement over the Trade Agreements Act which lapsed Saturday night. But Democratic leaders assailed it as limiting the President's powers so greatly as to undermine United States foreign policy.

The bill, adopted 70 to 18, permits the President to make tariff-cutting agreements with other countries. But before doing so he must wait until the Federal Tariff Commission decides how far the tariff on each item in the agreement can safely be cut without danger to United States producers.

Ives Amendment Approved

Then, if he disregards the commission's findings, the President must make a report to Congress within 30 days, giving his reasons.

The Senate approved an amendment by Sen. Ives (R-NY) requiring the commission to complete its hearings and report its findings to the President within four months. Ives said the commission otherwise would have a virtual veto power since it could delay its reports indefinitely or even fail to report at all.

Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) sharply criticized the State Department for what he called its "stubborn" opposition to the bill. He said he was "shocked" to learn that the department had refused to let senators see foreign trade records.

The Michigan Senator said the bill "strengthens" the reciprocal trade program.

Bill Goes Back To House

But Sen. Lucas (D-Ill.) declared that the bill "strikes at the very heart" of the 14-year-old trade program and threatens to force this country "back into the smugness of economic isolation."

Several Democrats shouted that the bill was a return to the high-tariff days of the Smoot-Hawley Act. Sen. Millikin (R-Colo.), sponsor of the trade bill, replied: "Utter poppycock."

Before the final vote, the Senate rejected by narrow margins Democratic moves to extend the program first for three years and then for two years.

The bill now goes back to the House, which has passed a bill curbing the President's powers more drastically than the Senate measure. House Republican leaders have indicated they will agree to the Senate version.

House Votes To Boost Disabled Vets' Benefits

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—Two bills estimated to boost by $161,000,000 annually the benefit payments to disabled veterans and to widows and dependents of deceased veterans were passed today by the House.

Both skimmed through without a dissenting vote and went to the Senate, which has passed similar bills calling for a lesser annual expenditure. Unless the Senate accepts the House changes, the bills will go to a Senate-House conference committee for a compromise.

Morrison Apologizes

LONDON, June 14 (AP)—Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison apologized tonight to his political arch-enemy, Winston Churchill.

He withdrew a statement accusing the former prime minister of accepting £2,000 ($8,000) a year as leader of the opposition without being a proper leader.

All Is Reported Quiet In Palestine

CAIRO, June 14 (AP)—All of Palestine's scattered fronts were quiet today as the Holy Land experienced its first peaceful day in six and a half months.

The Israeli government announced it was complying with the immigration terms of the four-week armistice. Disagreement developed, however, over the question of food convoys for Jerusalem's 90,000 Jews.

The truce commission met in the Holy City to frame a report to Count Folke Bernadotte, the United Nations mediator, on the Jewish refusal to permit a check of convoys at Bab El Wad.

Bernadotte himself was on Rhodes setting up headquarters for negotiations designed to turn the present armistice into lasting peace.

He was scheduled to fly to Cairo tomorrow for talks with Arab leaders and to go to Tel Aviv, the capital of Israel, on Thursday.

Actress Seeks Divorce

LOS ANGELES, June 14 (AP) — Actress Martha Stewart sued for divorce today from Joe E. Lewis, night club comedian and Broadway stage figure.

She charged cruelty. They were married in Miami, Fla., in March, 1946, and have no children.

BELT BROKE-- Roy Adams (right), 14-year-old confessed slayer of a girl playmate, is shown talking from his Chicago jail cell yesterday with Warden Frank Sain after the warden said the youth attempted to end his life. Sain said the boy used his belt to make a noose which he suspended overhead but his suicide attempt failed when the belt broke. Adams earlier in the day pleaded innocent to a charge of murder. He had signed a statement that he smothered Nancy Schuler, 8, on May 27. (Story at bottom of page)

Anti-Lynch Bill Cleared; Chance Of Passage Slim

Senate Committee Approves Measure

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—One of the measures in President Truman's civil rights program—an anti-lynching bill—was cleared today for a possible Senate vote but imminent adjournment made chances of passage slim.

Southern Democrats have vowed they will attempt to talk to death any such legislation.

The Judiciary Committee toned down the bill it finally approved, but Sen. Eastland (D-Miss) left no doubt it is still objectionable to him.

"I am going to fight it 'till hell freezes over," he said.

Vote Is 10 To 3

Eastland is a member of the committee, which voted 10 to 3 to send the measure on to the Senate calendar. There it will join other civil rights bills—anti-poll tax and fair employment measures—which have been languishing there for months.

The Republican Policy Committee has tabbed the anti-lynching bill as the easiest of the three to pass, and has kept it on its list of "desirable" legislation. But no time for debate has ever been allocated.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich), principal author of the bill, declined to predict whether the Senate will act. He noted only that the GOP leadership has kept the measure on its priority list.

Provides Fine And Prison

The bill would make conspiracy between members of a lynch mob and officials of federal, state or local governments "to commit, instigate, incite, organize, aid or abet" a lynching a federal felony.

Conviction would carry a punishment of up to $10,000 fine and up to 20 years in prison, or both.

In addition, the bill would authorize civil suits for unlimited damages by persons injured in a lynching or attempted lynching and by the next of kin of anyone killed.

Ferguson told reporters the bill is the strongest that could be approved by the committee although "I am not satisfied with it."

NMU Orders Seamen To Obey Injunctions

Walkout Appears Off For At Least 80 Days

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—The threatened nationwide maritime strike appeared off for at least 80 days today after the federal government got three injunctions against it.

The three orders were signed by federal judges in the East and Gulf coasts, West coast and Great Lakes phases of the dispute.

They automatically brought into play the 80-day cooling-off period provided by the Taft-Hartley law, federal officials said.

Late today officers of the CIO National Maritime Union, largest of the seven unions involved, sent out instructions to all members directing that the injunctions be obeyed.

The message was signed by Joseph Curran, NMU president, and other officers representing both the right and left-wing factions in the big seamen's union.

Curran, NMU Agent Disagree

Earlier, Curran and left-wing NMU New York port agent had bickered over the union's stand on the injunctions.

The agent sent telegrams to seamen aboard ships here instructing them to prepare for a strike tomorrow midnight. Curran said he had no authority to do this.

The instructions sent by the union leaders said to "fill all requests for manning, avoid any stoppage of work which could be looked upon as contempt of the restraining order."

Violations of the injunctions, the message said, "will place our union and membership in grave jeopardy and can subject the union and its officers and members to severe penalties."

The instructions pointed out that the union hiring halls would remain in operation under the court orders.

Hearing Set For June 18

"Our compliance with this restraining order does not nullify our strike vote," the message said. "It's application is delayed only until the union is free to move."

Child Uninjured After Six-Story Fall Into Hedge

NEW YORK, June 14 (INS)—"I faw down," said two and one-half year old Kenneth Liebman today as he picked himself up in front of his home in the Parkchester section of New York.

Adults who saw young Kenneth fall from a sixth-floor apartment window almost swooned. They also called police who rushed the youngster to Fordham Hospital.

A careful examination of the child revealed no damage, but he was held for observation for a day or two, just in case.

Gerhard Eisler's Conviction Upheld

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—The United States Court of Appeals today upheld the contempt of Congress conviction of Gerhard Eisler, reputed "brains" of American Communists.

Eisler, a chubby little man of 51 who says he is not a foreign agent but "a German Communist x x x fighting for the right to go home," faces a year in prison and a $1,000 fine in the case.

He refused February 6, 1947, to be sworn in to testify before the House Committee on Un-American activities, without first making a statement.

Arraigned on the contempt charges April 22, 1947, he was convicted June 10, 1947 and sentenced by Justice Alexander Holtzoff, who told him:

"You would testify only on your own terms. x x x It is apparent that this defendant does not respect the institutions of this country."

Americans Will Use Soviet Detour To Berlin

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 14. (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay said today the Americans would comply with a Russian detour to Berlin after the Soviets close the Elbe River bridge tomorrow "for repairs."

"Even if they have to drive 300 more miles?" a reporter asked Clay.

"Yes," the American military governor replied. "I cannot demand the United States' going to war just because somebody has to drive 300 more miles."

The Russian press in Berlin announced Sunday the bridge would be closed. It said detours would be provided, but did not say where and how long they would be.

Wants Action Now On Price Curbs, Housing

Thinks Legislators Should Stay On Job

LOS ANGELES, June 14 (AP) — President Truman roared a new challenge to Congress today to get busy "right now" on price controls, housing and half a dozen other "very serious situations."

"They still have time," he said. "And if they haven't time, they ought to take it."

Here in Los Angeles where he received the greatest ovation of his western campaign tour, Mr. Truman ticked off an eight-point program he wants from Congress now. For the most part, he listed the things for which he has been hammering since he left Washington June 3.

But today he added federal aid for education and health.

His eight-points:

Price controls, housing, social security expansion, a health program, a restored Labor Department, education, a farm plan including price supports, a water and flood control program.

Strikes At Wolcott, Allen

Renewing his bid for housing "at a cost which will be easy on the people who have to pay the bills," the President struck directly but not by name at Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich), of the House Banking Committee, and Chairman Leo Allen (R-Ill), of the House Rules Committee.

He said Wolcott has been "sitting on" the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill. He said Wolcott got the surprise of his life when three Republicans teamed up with 11 Democratic members to blast the bill out of the committee.

"The Rules Committee," he said, "now can roost on that bill until the Congress adjourns, unless the people of the United States wake up and do something about it, and force action."

But the rules chairman, he said, is "a little bit tougher than the banking chairman, so I doubt very much whether we will get action."

The President's new lambasting of Congress took place in a night club setting, the Cocoanut Grove of the Ambassador Hotel. The dimly-lit Oasis was filled with some 1,100 people invited by the Press Club of Greater Los Angeles.

Truman, Roosevelt Confer

Movie Radio Comedian Red Skelton set the tone for the Truman speech with a crack beforehand that Congress is "bingo with millions."

After his speech, the Chief Executive conferred for 20 minutes with James Roosevelt, son of the late President and state Democratic chairman, and prominent Southern California Democrats. They included county chairmen, and delegates to the national convention.

Roosevelt told reporters afterward that one delegate inquired whether the president will stand by his civil rights program that has brought party discontent in the South.

Roosevelt said Mr. Truman replied he had "never yet made a proposal and backed down on it."

"The President," Roosevelt said, "said he was going to keep on building up the record against the Republicans and keep the facts before the people."

The President's train left at 7 o'clock tonight for the East, with scheduled stops tonight at San Bernardino and Barstow, where he was to make platform appearances.

Gottwald Is Installed As Czech President

PRAGUE, June 14. (AP)—Klement Gottwald, stocky 51-year-old Communist, today was elected and installed as president of Czechoslovakia.

The former Premier became the republics first Communist President in a show of hands vote during a public parliamentary election. There were 296 votes for him. Apart from Gottwald and a woman member who resigned three days ago, there were only two votes unaccounted for. The Communists hold 214 of Parliament's 300 seats.

In his first official address as President, Gottwald expressed hope for continued peace "despite social and political differences that divide the world."

Truman's Acts "Disgust" Nation, GOP Leader Says

PHILADELPHIA, June 14 (AP) — "The nation is disgusted and humiliated by the acts of its President," Carroll Reece, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said tonight.

Reece, in Philadelphia to prepare for the opening of the GOP national convention next month, told a coast-to-coast audience in a prepared radio address:

"For a little more than six months, under our constitutional system, we will have to endure that humiliation, but the day of deliverance will not be delayed beyond that period."

The Tennessean said the American Broadcasting Company "has been kind enough to ask me to comment on Mr. Truman's political barnstorming tour across the continent, and, in particular, upon his assertion that the present 80th Congress is the worst Congress in the history of our country since the period immediately after the war between the states."

Reece said the subject was "something to be approached more in sorrow than in anger."

"In all sincerity," the GOP chairman continued, "I can assure you tonight that by and large Mr. Truman has received forbearance, sympathy and co-operation from the Republican Congress. There have been times when Congress has saved Mr. Truman from himself."

Reece said that Mr. Truman had "inherited many evils when he entered the White House."

But, he continued, "he has retained most of them and has created new ones of his own."

Youth Held For Murder Tries To Hang Himself

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—Roy Adams, 14-year-old confessed slayer of a girl playmate, won himself a 24-hour guard in the county jail today by attempting to hang himself and then having tantrums.

The suicide attempt came shortly after a Criminal Court appearance in which Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington accepted Adams' plea of innocence to a charge of murdering Nancy Schuler, eight.

The youth has signed a statement that he smothered the girl with pillows in his bedroom in the Adams apartment May 27.

Judge Harrington directed that Adams be examined by the county behavior clinic. The hearing was continued to June 25 when the clinic report is to be given the court.

Frank Sain, warden of the county jail, said that young Adams was put into a cell in the observation tier of the jail after returning from his arraignment session. There, he removed his belt, and, standing on a cot, tied one end around his neck and the other to an overhead bar of the cage-like enclosure.

Sain said the belt broke when Adams jumped off of his cot. The warden said guards reported that the youth then screamed and beat his head against the steel plate covering the lower part of his cell wall.

High Court Rules Prisoner Rates Help Of Lawyer

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—A prisoner who is incapable of defending himself "adequately" has an absolte right to the help of a lawyer in any kind of criminal case, the Supreme Court ruled today.

If that help is denied, it said, a conviction cannot stand up. The 5-4 decision made a broad extension of the court's previous rule that counsel must be provided in cases where the death penalty might be imposed.

It came in a ruling which set aside the conviction of Donald Wade, then 18, who was sentenced in Palm Beach (Fla) County Court in 1945 to serve five years for burglary.

Along with its new rule on representation by counsel, the high court handed down other findings which:

1. Overturned a lower court ruling which in some cases would have required payments up to five times the face value of National Service (military) Life Insurance policies. The Justice Department said tens of billions were involved and the whole financing structure of the federal insurance program threatened by the lower court order.

2. Denied Dr. Edward K. Barsky and 10 other leaders of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee a review of their conviction of contempt of Congress for withholding records subpoenaed by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. In effect the order upholds the fines and jail terms given all 11.

3. Refused a hearing to Kenneth Romney, former sergeant-at-arms of the House of Representatives, on his conviction of concealing a shortage in his accounts. He acted as a sort of banker for congressmen.

4. Upheld constitutionality of the War Contracts Renegotiation Act under which many millions in alleged excess profits have been recovered from war material producers.

Owners-Managers Score Greatest Earnings Gain

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP) — Despite the attention-getting pay increases won by millions of workers last year, business owners and managers apparently scored the greatest gain in earnings.

The Federal Reserve Board reported today that a survey it made recently showed that the owner-manager group moved ahead of the professional group in 1947 to clinch the number one earning spot.

The median income of executives making up the owner-manager group rose to $4,500, an increase of $800.

The doctors, lawyers, dentists and so on making up the professional group dropped into second place. Their middle income was $4,000 last year, exactly the same as the year before.

Skilled and semi-skilled workers advanced $300 in earnings last year to $3,000.

State's GOP Delegates Get Vandenberg Badges

BALTIMORE, June 14 (AP)—Maryland's delegates to next week's Republican national convention today were in receipt of a campaign badge which proclaimed:

"V for Vandenberg and Victory—Vote."

The badge came along with a letter signed "fraternally yours" by C. Leslie Hudson, described as a former member of the New Jersey Legislature.

Northwest Flood Toll Rises To 40 Known Dead

PORTLAND, Ore., June 14 (AP)—The Pacific Northwest's flood toll rose to 40 known dead and at least 28 missing today, just as the Columbia River began nearing the end of its most costly rampage.

The Columbia, miles beyond its banks, still stood at 30.2 feet this morning at Vancouver, Wash.—the same peak it reached June 1 for the first time since 1894. But upstream it was falling, and the river forecaster predicted .4 of a foot drop at Vancouver by tomorrow.

Aid Fund Voted By Senate Group

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee voted today to spend $6,125,700,000 for foreign aid this coming year. This is about $408,010,225 less than the administration requested.

The committee approved the bill after three hours of arguments. In effect it restores an estimated $1,175,000,000 of the reduction voted by the House.

Broken down into its various programs, the bill includes:

For the Economic Co-operation Administration, which is handling the aid-Europe program, $4,000,000,000. (This is in addition to $1,055,000,000 already received for the European recovery program.)

For government and relief in occupied areas $1,325,000,000. This sum includes $125,000,000 for aid to Japan and Korea to be handled by ECA.

Aid to China $460,000,000. This includes $125,000,000 earmarked for grants and aid solely for military purposes.

Greek-Turkish aid $250,000,000.

International Children's Emergency Fund $20,000,000.

International Refugee Organization $70,700,000.

Indirectly, the committee cut off another $20,000,000 from the $5,055,000,000 European recovery program by earmarking $20,000,000 of ECA funds for Trieste aid.

Coast-To-Coast Cables Are Cut By Contractor

OMAHA, June 14 (AP)—A contractor scooping out dirt for a dam near Chappell, Neb., inadvertently cut two transcontinental long distance telephone cables today. The effects were noted from coast to coast.

The cables contained 800 long distance lines and 300 telegraph lines, according to Northwestern Bell Telephone Company officials in Omaha.

NMU Orders

Judge John W. Clancy in New York (East and Gulf coasts), Judge George B. Harris in San Francisco (West coast) and Judge Emerich B. Freed in Cleveland (Great Lakes).

A spokesman for the 54 East and Gulf Coast ship operators named in Judge Clancy's order said they would follow the mandate of the court.

The injunctions were applied for on order of President Truman, who acted after receiving a report of his fact-finding board which investigated the dispute.

Judge Clancy's order said a maritime strike would "imperil the national health and safety." It directed both sides to maintain the status quo for a period of 10 days, with a further hearing set for June 18.

Taylor Unable To Attend Md. Progressive Rally

BALTIMORE, June 14 (AP)—Some 2,500 persons attended a rally of the Maryland Progressive Party tonight, donated nearly $3,000 in campaign funds but failed to hear the principal speaker scheduled to address them.

Sen. Glen Taylor (D-Idaho), vice presidential running mate of Henry Wallace, wired the gathering he could not attend because of urgent proceedings on the Senate floor.

"What this country amounts to depends on what happens to its homes"

THE FUTURE of our country depends as much on our homes as it does on our material wealth. Indeed, if we are to have confidence in the years that are ahead, we must protect the unity and security of our families.

Naturally, family happiness and security depend fundamentally on sound money management. In this, life insurance is essential. But money is not the only major problem in family life! That's why, for the past two years, the life insurance companies and their agents have brought you expert counsel on many of the other important family problems.

We are indebted to the twenty-eight men and women, recognized authorities in the fields of family welfare and social science, who have taken such an important part in this program. Their messages have covered many different problems in family life . . . personal, financial and spiritual. They have shown by specific example how family happiness can be planned.

Many people in all walks of life have found the advice of these authorities a real contribution to our national welfare. So we are planning a new series to show how families much like yours are handling these same problems in everyday life!

In effect the order upholds the fines and jail terms given all 11.

3. Refused a hearing to Kenneth Romney, former sergeant-at-arms of the House of Representatives, on his conviction of concealing a shortage in his accounts. He acted as a sort of banker for congressmen.

4. Upheld constitutionality of the War Contracts Renegotiation Act under which many millions in alleged excess profits have been recovered from war material producers.

Owners-Managers Score Greatest Earnings Gain

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP) — Despite the attention-getting pay increases won by millions of workers last year, business owners and managers apparently scored the greatest gain in earnings.

The Federal Reserve Board reported today that a survey it made recently showed that the owner-manager group moved ahead of the professional group in 1947 to clinch the number one earning spot.

The median income of executives making up the owner-manager group rose to $4,500, an increase of $800.

The doctors, lawyers, dentists and so on making up the professional group dropped into second place. Their middle income was $4,000 last year, exactly the same as the year before.

Skilled and semi-skilled workers advanced $300 in earnings last year to $3,000.

WHEN Elliott Ludington Lambert graduates from the St. Louis Police School June 26, he will doubtless become the wealthiest cop on record. Heir to the drug company millions, young Lambert will become a rookie policeman with 75 other aspirants and will pound a beat with the rest of them. Here he is shown doing a little studying while recovering from an appendix operation. (International Soundphoto)

State's GOP Delegates Get Vandenberg Badges

BALTIMORE, June 14 (AP)—Maryland's delegates to next week's Republican national convention today were in receipt of a campaign badge which proclaimed:

"V for Vandenberg and Victory—Vote."

The badge came along with a letter signed "fraternally yours" by C. Leslie Hudson, described as a former member of the New Jersey Legislature.

Northwest Flood Toll Rises To 40 Known Dead

PORTLAND, Ore., June 14 (AP)—The Pacific Northwest's flood toll rose to 40 known dead and at least 28 missing today, just as the Columbia River began nearing the end of its most costly rampage.

The Columbia, miles beyond its banks, still stood at 30.2 feet this morning at Vancouver, Wash.—the same peak it reached June 1 for the first time since 1894. But upstream it was falling, and the river forecaster predicted .4 of a foot drop at Vancouver by tomorrow.

Aid Fund Voted By Senate Group

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee voted today to spend $6,125,700,000 for foreign aid this coming year. This is about $408,010,225 less than the administration requested.

The committee approved the bill after three hours of arguments. In effect it restores an estimated $1,175,000,000 of the reduction voted by the House.

Broken down into its various programs, the bill includes:

For the Economic Co-operation Administration, which is handling the aid-Europe program, $4,000,000,000. (This is in addition to $1,055,000,000 already received for the European recovery program.)

For government and relief in occupied areas $1,325,000,000. This sum includes $125,000,000 for aid to Japan and Korea to be handled by ECA.

Aid to China $460,000,000. This includes $125,000,000 earmarked for grants and aid solely for military purposes.

Greek-Turkish aid $250,000,000.

International Children's Emergency Fund $20,000,000.

International Refugee Organization $70,700,000.

Indirectly, the committee cut off another $20,000,000 from the $5,055,000,000 European recovery program by earmarking $20,000,000 of ECA funds for Trieste aid.

Coast-To-Coast Cables Are Cut By Contractor

OMAHA, June 14 (AP)—A contractor scooping out dirt for a dam near Chappell, Neb., inadvertently cut two transcontinental long distance telephone cables today. The effects were noted from coast to coast.

The cables contained 800 long distance lines and 300 telegraph lines, according to Northwestern Bell Telephone Company officials in Omaha.

NMU Orders

Judge John W. Clancy in New York (East and Gulf coasts), Judge George B. Harris in San Francisco (West coast) and Judge Emerich B. Freed in Cleveland (Great Lakes).

A spokesman for the 54 East and Gulf Coast ship operators named in Judge Clancy's order said they would follow the mandate of the court.

The injunctions were applied for on order of President Truman, who acted after receiving a report of his fact-finding board which investigated the dispute.

Judge Clancy's order said a maritime strike would "imperil the national health and safety." It directed both sides to maintain the status quo for a period of 10 days, with a further hearing set for June 18.

Taylor Unable To Attend Md. Progressive Rally

BALTIMORE, June 14 (AP)—Some 2,500 persons attended a rally of the Maryland Progressive Party tonight, donated nearly $3,000 in campaign funds but failed to hear the principal speaker scheduled to address them.

Sen. Glen Taylor (D-Idaho), vice presidential running mate of Henry Wallace, wired the gathering he could not attend because of urgent proceedings on the Senate floor.

Key Monument Approved

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The House today passed a bill authorizing the erection of a monument here in honor of Francis Scott Key, who wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner." House approval sent the bill to President Truman.

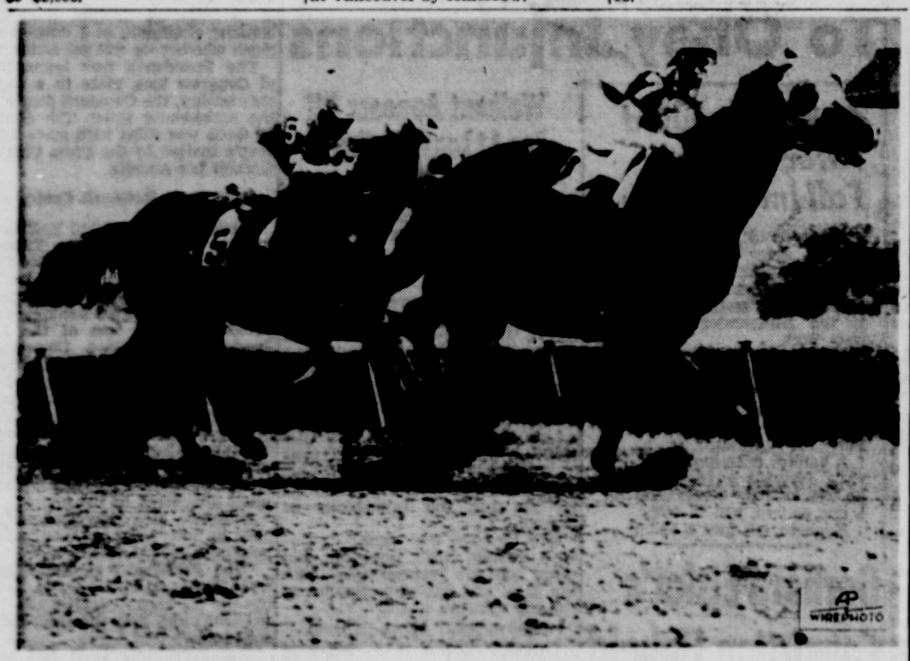
Mihai, Anne In Geneva

GENEVA, Switzerland, Tuesday, June 15 (AP)—Former King Mihai, of Romania, and his bride, Princess Anne, of Bourbon-Parma, arrived here today by air. They were married in Athens five days ago.



RIPPEY SCORES—Rippey (7) with Eric Guerin up won the Roseben Handicap at Belmont Park, N. Y., yesterday. Carrying 135 pounds, Rippey took the lead in the final two furlongs of the six-furlong sprint and won going away. Owners' Choice (5), ridden by Eddie Arcaro, is second and Buzfuz, hidden by Rippey, is third.

"What this country amounts to depends on what happens to its homes"

THE FUTURE of our country depends as much on our homes as it does on our material wealth. Indeed, if we are to have confidence in the years that are ahead, we must protect the unity and security of our families.

Naturally, family happiness and security depend fundamentally on sound money management. In this, life insurance is essential. But money is not the only major problem in family life! That's why, for the past two years, the life insurance companies and their agents have brought you expert counsel on many of the other important family problems.

We are indebted to the twenty-eight men and women, recognized authorities in the fields of family welfare and social science, who have taken such an important part in this program. Their messages have covered many different problems in family life . . . personal, financial and spiritual. They have shown by specific example how family happiness can be planned.

Many people in all walks of life have found the advice of these authorities a real contribution to our national welfare. So we are planning a new series to show how families much like yours are handling these same problems in everyday life!

DRINK-O-MAT
THE 1000-CUP DISPENSER for COCA-COLA

Here is the finest business opportunity of our time. Drink-O-Mat, the miracle cup dispenser, is now available for wide awake operators in this area.

See the brilliant, amazing operating of Drink-O-Mat. It delivers a freshly made, ice cold, sparkling drink of Coca-Cola in a sanitary cup — the best "Coke" you ever tasted — in less than 6 seconds after a coin is inserted.

An Automatic Changemaker accepts 5c — 10c — 25c and delivers the exact change along with the drink.

A few minutes of servicing sets up the machine for 1000 drinks — the equivalent of more than 41½ cases of bottles.

AT THE SHOWING you can make application for Exclusive Drink-O-Mat Agency Franchises which will be awarded to qualified individuals and companies as operators for counties, cities and towns throughout the area.

OWNERS AND MANAGERS of factories, office buildings, theaters, stores, stations and similar locations are invited to attend the showing and apply for free placement of one or more Drink-O-Mats on a profit sharing basis.

Chamber of Commerce Seeking New Members

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce has formulated plans looking to increasing its membership. This is undertaken annually and has resulted, over the years, in a gradual building of its roster until today the organization can boast of about 500 members. The purposes of such a campaign are many and those soliciting members will undoubtedly stress the value and effectiveness of such an organization geared to meet the needs of the community.

One of the chief obstacles of any organization, and especially the Chamber of Commerce, is the selfishness of many who consistently ask "What can I get out of it?" rather than "What can we do for the community." Too many business and professional men refrain from joining the Chamber because they don't think they can get enough out of it.

It should be pointed out that such organizations —and the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce is no exception—are not set up for the primary purpose of helping their members, but of helping the community at large. We are prone to think only of ourselves when we join a new group. If we thought more of the other fellow and what our membership would do to help them, we would all be much more likely to get dividends from our membership dues. A membership in the Chamber of Commerce is an investment in the improvement and growth of Cumberland.

The Chamber is, among other things, an outlet for information on the opportunities and advantages the city offers, and to see to it that prospective newcomers receive all the encouragement possible. The encouragement of small industries and manufacturing concerns employing from fifty to several hundred persons to locate here is of paramount importance. Whatever awakened spirit may result from this membership drive should be pointed toward that goal. It is an opportunity for the person who asks "What can I get out of it?" to get in an press such a program. He will not only benefit himself but the entire community.

It is not enough that a Chamber approve or disapprove proposals which may originate within civic groups or the governing bodies of the city, county and State, or give its moral support to this or that. One of the surest ways to expand and encourage the growth of the city—and that should be one of the primary purposes of the Chamber—will be the bringing of new industries to Cumberland. That poses a real challenge to the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

House Should Remove Some Draft Bill Clauses

The revival of the draft law which cleared the Senate hurdle in its race for passage, was in a House committee as this was written, ready to be sent to the floor by what appeared would be a close vote. On its passage in the Senate, it sustained some injuries which may be cleared up by the House.

The Senate adopted the bill after approving a two-year draft of youths 19 through 25 after a bitter battle. There are those who contend the draft should have been for five instead of two years. But it is difficult to see how this should weaken the measure. It seems, however, that the amendment permitting the enlistment of aliens is something that should be considered separately instead of in connection with the draft, while the civil rights argument was unfortunately injected.

The law faces trouble in the House. There is considerable coolness toward the draft on the part of some representatives and delaying tactics are expected despite the insistence of the House leadership that it be considered "must" legislation. There is always the possibility of more crippling proposals will be attached.

The draft, at best, is unpopular. But most Americans generally recognize the need for it as a means of bolstering this nation and western Europe against further Communist aggression. A weak draft bill would be taken in Europe as a sign of this nation's faltering in the face of reality.

The House has an excellent opportunity to rectify the mistakes of the Senate. It should remove injurious amendments, such as the alien enlistment provisions or proposals tied up with the highly debatable civil rights program, and restore the law to its original purpose of providing means of strengthening the United States in this critical moment in world history.

The Tragedy of Eduard Benes, Ex-Czech President

After refusing to sign the Communist constitution, Eduard Benes has resigned as president of Czechoslovakia and returned to private life. In the new police state of Czechoslovakia, Benes can hardly hope to live out the rest of his days in calm and honor. But that is not the tragedy of his life. His tragedy is that he will be compelled to look on at the methodical destruction of Czech liberties by a ruthless party which he helped to bring to power.

After Munich, Benes felt that her Western allies had abandoned his country to the mercies of Nazi Germany. He was right. But when he decided to put his trust in Soviet Russia he was tragically wrong. Benes thought he could save Czech democracy by throwing in his lot with Russia during and after the war. He even dreamed of making Czechoslovakia a link between Soviet Russia and the free Western world.

So, in return for Stalin's pledge to respect Czech sovereignty and independence, Benes agreed to turn over eastern provinces to Russia and helped Communists to key posts in his government. Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk also co-operated with Russia, because he believed his country had no other choice. But Benes actually thought Stalin wanted only peace. And he is said to have helped persuade Roosevelt to the same belief before the disastrous conferences of Teheran and Yalta.

Of course Benes was duped and his country was cruelly betrayed. Czech democracy was destroyed by the Communist coup in February and the remains were buried in the recent "election." Benes is not by any means the only man who misplaced his trust in Stalin. But it is his tragedy that he has lived to see the fata' consequences to his own people of that error in judgement.

Miscellany

Thomas Sydenham (1624-1689) has been referred to as the "English Hippocrates." He achieved fame in several fields and wrote voluminously on many subjects. His practice was large and he did not hesitate to institute heroic measures when he felt they were needed. Jamieson's column in the Canadian medical association journal, calls attention to one such treatment: "Sydenham once sent a victim of hypochrondia to Scotland, telling him to consult a certain doctor of great skill. The patient made the arduous journey by stage coach to find that no such doctor existed. He returned to London full of rage, but cured of his complaint."

Dr. Van Dellen

In another issue, a famous John Jones is described as the only American before the Revolutionary war to have written a medical book. This physician was responsible for abolishing the practice by medical men of the day of wearing wigs and carrying canes. "His colleagues swore that they would not consult him but his reputation as a surgeon was too much for them and under protest they met him and soon the wigs disappeared."

Before the discovery of vaccination by Jenner late in the 18th century, smallpox was high on the list of killers. At first, the procedure met with more opposition than encouragement from various groups but eventually was accepted. In fact, a few years later, Parliament voted Jenner grants of 30,000 pounds.

Jamieson states that while the clergymen of Geneva and Holland recommended from their pulpits that the people be vaccinated, an English clergyman declared: "Smallpox is a visitation from God, but cowpox is produced by presumptuous man." Britain was slow to accept the innovation; statues to Jenner appeared on the continent before they did in England. Moreover, the Five Nations tribe of American Indians realized the value of the plan and sent Jenner the following greeting: "We shall not fail to teach our children to speak the name of Jenner and to thank the Great Spirit for bestowing upon him so much wisdom and so much benevolence."

Russia also was grateful and Empress Catherine II "ordered that the first child to submit to vaccination in Russia be named Vaccinoff, be conveyed to St. Petersburgh in the imperial coach, be educated at public expense, and receive a pension for life."

Another sidelight on the smallpox vaccination problem is narrated by Sigerist, in the Bulletin of the History of Medicine for January-February of 1947:

"When Jenner's vaccination was being tested in England, Woodville, one of the early vaccinators, was anxious to have the opinion of his French colleagues. But France and England were at war in 1800. Nevertheless, diplomatic steps were undertaken; Tallerand, the French minister of foreign affairs, issued special passes and permits. In May, vaccine was sent from England to Paris and in July, Woodville came in person, was received as an honored guest, and performed vaccinations on French children in Boulogne and Paris."

This is a lesson in civilized international relations.

Speculations

L. D. writes: Will penicillin cure an attack of appendicitis?

REPLY

This is possible, provided the causative germs are the type that will respond to penicillin. Unfortunately, there is no way of determining beforehand whether the drug will be successful. Theoretically, streptomycin would be better because it is capable of combating the organisms that are the most frequent cause of appendicitis. These two antibiotics are used extensively, however, in treating peritonitis, the most serious complication of a ruptured appendix.

Lid Lesions

A. P. writes: What causes spots on the eyelids due to fat cells?

REPLY

Some lesions of this type are known as "milia." They consist of pinhead, yellowish-white elevations and contain greasy material from the oil-secreting glands. Another possibility is xanthoma, which is a flat or slightly raised, yellowish discoloration of the skin covering the lids near the inner aspects of the eyes. They are partial to elderly women. Both abnormalities can be removed successfully if they prove troublesome.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Supreme Court decision on quickie divorces was seven-two. It is not strange when two people cannot agree. Neither can the Supreme Court.

There hasn't been anything unanimous around these diggings since Noah turned in his weather report. The decision of the court upheld the Nevada brush-off and the Mexican elimination telegraph tournament.

The quickie marriage and divorce is a certificate with a cross-town transfer. Florida is going after some of that business for folks who want to be unhappy with perfect weather conditions.

What we cannot figure out is the Supreme Court's seven-two break. We thought eight of them were married.

Last-Minute Delay Kills Education Measure; Taft Argued For Keeping Congress In Session; Real-Estate Lobby Maneuvered Against Housing Bill

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, June 14—Congressman Edward McCowen, Ohio Republican, who has fathered the federal-aid-to-education bill in the House, moved, in a closed-door meeting recently, to call a special session of the Education and Labor Committee in order to report the bill out of committee.

He started speaking at 11:59 a. m. Before he finished his motion, the bells rang out the notice that Congress had convened at 12 noon. Technically committees are not supposed to meet while the House is in session, although it is accepted practice to wind up the pending business before adjourning.

But big Max Schwabe, Missouri Republican didn't give McCowen a chance.

"Mr. Chairman, the House is now in session," he shouted, jumping to his feet. "It is illegal for the Committee to sit while the House is in session. I move that we adjourn."

As the meeting broke up, New York's Congressman Ralph Gwinn rushed over to Schwabe, slapped him on the back and congratulated him for his parliamentary maneuver. What Schwabe did was to kill any chance of bringing the educa the bill to a final vote, since the Committee has only one final meeting day before Congress is supposed to adjourn.

Afterward, Speaker Joe Martin breathed a sigh of relief. For Schwabe's action in bottling up the education bill gets Joe and others off the hook. They can continue to blame the Education and Labor Committee.

Note—Last week this column reported Rep. Kelley, Pennsylvania Democrat, as opposed to the education bill because it did not aid church schools. Mr. Kelley now points out that he has introduced a bill giving $5,000,000 aid to nonpublic schools, but that he is for the education bill in any event. Also, Rep. Buck, New York Republican, who was described as being for the education bill if he had the courage to vote against House GOP leaders, now emphatically proclaims that he would be against the bill under any and all circumstances.

Taft vs. Speaker Martin

Senator Taft called at Speaker Martin's office last week with a long list of bills that should be given a hearing before Congress adjourns. He pointed out that it would be bad politics to leave any of these important bills in mid-air.

"We can't make it by June 19," Taft pleaded.

But Martin, now a definite candidate for the GOP nomination against Taft, was unimpressed.

"We can make it over here," he shrugged, referring to the House side of the Capitol. "If you aren't ready to quit on time, that's your concern."

Martin suggested longer hours and harder work, added that nothing on the list was important enough to bring Congress back anyhow.

Note—Afterward, Martin admitted to Republican Congressmen at a private dinner-meeting that the Senate was at a disadvantage because it couldn't control filibusters. If it was necessary for Congress to return, however, he said he preferred to wait until both political conventions are over. Taft has suggested calling Congress back between the conventions.

Russian Crisis After Adjournment

Bullish Senator Bill Langer, North Dakota Republican, ran a nickel up to twenty cents on the Senate floor the other day by joining dapper Senator Millard Tydings, Maryland Democrat, in a bet.

Tydings had a hunch a new crisis would be waiting in Europe as soon as Congress adjourned.

"Mr. President," he shouted, "I will wager you—I shall not wager much . . . ."

"Two bits?" suggested Senator Kenneth Wherry, acting majority leader.

"I will say two bits," agreed Tydings, "that we shall not be away from this Congress 30 days before Senators will hear of some change in the international situation."

Langer sidled up to him, slipped a nickel in his palm and whispered: "I want to take 20 per cent of that bet."

After Tydings wound up his remarks, he stopped by Langer's desk and plunked down a quarter.

"I think your investment is so good," explained the Maryland Senator, "that I want to buy it back at 500 per cent."

Real Estate Lobby Dies Hard

GOP friends of the real-estate lobby tried a smart, last-minute maneuver to try to block the housing bill.

Noticing that only four or five Democratic members of the House Banking and Currency Committee were present, GOP Congressman Clarence Kilburn of Malone, N. Y., quickly moved to report out the Wolcott bill minus public housing, slum clearance, and other humanitarian features of the original Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill.

"I object," declared Democrat Wright Patman of Texas. "Some of our colleagues are not present. We should have time to run them up so that they can vote on this."

"It's now 20 minutes to 2 o'clock," ruled Wolcott from the chair. "You can have until 2 o'clock to produce absent members. We vote then."

Representative Boggs of Louisiana and Mike Monroney of Oklahoma jumped into action, rounded up Democratic colleagues and all eleven were on hand to help defeat the Kilburn motion, 14 to 13, with the support of three Republicans—Hull of Wisconsin, Stratton of Illinois and Scott of Pennsylvania.

GOP Congressman Frank Sundstrom of East Orange, N. J., then moved that loans to farm housing be deleted. This put Scott, a city man from Philadelphia, on the spot.

But Scott fooled his GOP colleagues by voting "present," thus defeating the motion by a 13-to-13 tie vote. Again, Republicans Hull and Stratton, both with many farm voters, voted with the Democrats. However the desperate Republicans didn't give up. Representative John Kunkel of Harrisburg, Pa., demanded a reconsideration of the vote, still hoping Scott would switch back to the Republicans.

"Gentleman's motion is out of order," hotly contended Boggs of Louisiana.

Chairman Wolcott agreed that Boggs was right, Kunkel was ruled out of order.

Note—Besides Republicans Stratton, Hull and Scott, who put their country's welfare above party policy, Democrats who deserve a major share of the credit for forcing House action on public housing are Representatives Boggs, Patman, and Helen Gahagan Douglas of California.

MATTER OF FACT

By STEWART ALSOP

Fear In France

PARIS—

BEFORE the end of the six-power London conference on a western German government, American Ambassador Lewis Douglas turned to French Ambassador Rene Massigli and asked a question which sent a shiver down the spine of official Paris. If the Russians attempted to compel the Western powers to leave Berlin, Douglas asked, would the French government be willing to back the United States in the use of force? Massigli referred the question to the French Foreign Ministry. The answer, stripped of diplomatic decoration, was succinct. It took the form of another question: "What force?"

Better than any others, those two words epitomize the sense of terrible insecurity which colors all French thinking today. For the French, and with some reason, feel naked and exposed. Behind the bitter debate on the west German agreement, behind the French reaction to the new Russian moves in Berlin, lies fear—the fear of another war and another occupation, which a weakened France would be wholly powerless to prevent.

Again and again, the reporter in Paris hears the same argument. With America rearming, with the birth of Western Union, with the Communist political offensive in western Europe stopped dead in its tracks, the military position of the Soviet sphere is certain constantly to deteriorate in relation to the West. The Kremlin must know this. The Kremlin must also know that today nothing stands between the Red Army and the Atlantic but some Anglo-American police battalions and the eight or ten miserably under-equipped divisions of France and the Benelux countries. What more logical than that the Kremlin should seize the opportunity before it is too late? As for the atomic bomb, "Your bomb is no doubt a pretty little thing, but how will it help us here in Paris?"

In part, this sort of thing can no doubt be written off as propaganda for the French position on Germany and for American help in rearming France. Yet the fear is real. Above all the French fear another occupation by a foreign army, this time with the cooperation of a powerful minority, the Communist party. As one Frenchman put it to this reporter, "No doubt you would liberate us in the end. But in the meantime the Communists would have grafted a new political skin on France, in such a way that you could not remove the skin without killing the organism."

In the comfortably distant United States, such fears may seem neurotic. Yet they exist, and the fact is that they have been consistently aggravated by a whole sequence of events in which the United States has played a major part.

About two months ago, the French leaders were happily if erroneously convinced that, in exchange for French agreement on the formation of a western German government, the United States would quickly throw its whole vast weight behind western Europe and France. It was expected, first, that the United States would make some formal commitment to Western Union, and second, that the United States would proceed this year to help the Western Union countries, and above all France, to rearm themselves.

These hopes seemed about to be fulfilled when the joint military staffs of the Western Union countries, meeting in London, received an urgent request from Washington for an estimate of their military requirements. The estimate was hurriedly drawn up and dispatched to Washington. Then nothing more was heard from across the Atlantic. But this was only the first in a series of shocks and disappointments which have had a profound psychological effect in Paris.

When no response was forthcoming on the Western Union estimate of requirements, French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault sent the first of three notes to Secretary of State George C. Marshall, requesting a meeting in Washington. This request, like two which followed in subsequent weeks, was refused, simply because Washington knew that Bidault was certain to ask immediate help in rearming France, and Washington also knew that at the present time it was politically impossible to fulfill this request. But while this exchange was in progress, the famous Smith-Molotov exchange was published in Moscow. The French immediately—and of course quite wrongly—suspected that a deal between Moscow and Washington was about to be arranged, perhaps on the Munich pattern, in which French interests would be sacrificed.

The next step in this sequence of events was the question which Ambassador Douglas asked Ambassador Massigli. To the French, at last sadly convinced that neither an American military guaranty nor American help in rearming France would be forthcoming in the near future, this question seemed to imply the likelihood of a war—a war in which France would be quickly occupied.

The worst blow of all was of course the last—the action of the American House of Representatives in applying the Taber meat ax to E. C. A. appropriations. This has seemed to many Frenchmen the final, dreary proof that the United States is not a dependable ally in the struggle between East and West, in which France occupies a position so frighteningly exposed. Largely as a result of all this (partly, too, as a result of the endless instability of the French government) official Paris now suffers from a sense of insecurity which gives rise in some quarters to something close to downright hysteria. This profound feeling of insecurity, whether or not it is justified, is about the most important political fact on the Continent today. Election year or no election year, it is a fact which the American government must recognize, and with which it must be prepared to deal.

GOP Must Nominate Strongest Candidate For The Presidency

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 14—The most obvious fact about the two national conventions and yet the one that seems to have been analyzed the least is the strategy which caused the Democrats to decide to hold their gathering two weeks after the Republicans.

That two-week interval may become the most important period of all—a fateful time in which the outcome of the election itself may be decisively influenced.

Up to now the Republicans have felt certain they would win in November no matter who is nominated. But this has been assumed on the theory that Truman would be the Democratic nominee and that Wallace would stay in the race.

But nothing is cut and dried in American politics—this year, least of all. It is necessary to make some other assumptions.

First, if Speaker Martin is named as the result of pressure by the "isolationists"—or "nationalists," as they prefer to call themselves—what would the Democratic party do? The cry would arise from all factions of the party that the Democrats must put up their strongest possible candidate. This means that President Truman would be urged to step aside. It might even happen that, by prearrangement, he would be given the nomination and then would decline and place in nomination someone else. The name most often heard is that of General Eisenhower. Curiously enough, the General's name has been proposed again and again by the 'left wing" groups in the party so it appears that they, who would naturally be expected to object to a military man, would accept him. The certainity that General Eisenhower would sweep the country would be the determining factor.

"Obvious, Overriding Reason"

How could General Eisenhower be persuaded to run? In his letter he spoke of some "obvious and overriding reason" that could cause him to accept a draft. What more "overriding" reason could there be than the possibility that the United States would repudiate the Marshall Plan and revert to an "isolationist" position? Whether or not one agrees that this is a just implication from the choice of a candidate like Speaker Martin, it certainly would afford the Democrats a chance to persuade Mr. Truman to retire and General Eisenhower to run.

Let it be assumed, on the other hand, that someone with the internationalist view—Senator Vandenberg, for example—is nominated. What then would the Democrats do? It is certain that General Eisenhower would not then accept nomination—in fact, it is reported that he might come out in support of the Michigan Senator. Since Senator Vandenberg is a strong candidate, this must inevitably renew intensely the pressure among the Democrats to persuade President Truman not to run. The necessity for nominating a strong man who could give Vandenberg a real race, and perhaps persuade Wallace to withdraw, would then become paramount.

Not Foregone Conclusion

By reason of the fact that the Democrats have two weeks to think things over after the Republican convention has been held, the outcome of the Democratic convention cannot be regarded as a foregone conclusion, even though it is known now that Mr. Truman has a majority of the delegates. He can exercise control of a majority in his own behalf or for some other candidate.

There are hints from the President's entourage in the west that despite his outward show of confidence, Mr. Truman is well aware of the opposition to him in his own party. The formula that has to be found is one that apparently vindicates him and doesn't humiliate him.

The answer could be a complimentary nomination by acclamation and then a nominating speech by the President himself, asking the convention to name the candidate who can best unit all factions of the party.

It could happen. The Republicans would be foolish to assume that it couldn't happen. They would be ill-advised to nominate a weak candidate on the mistaken assumption that Truman and Wallace will be their oppenents.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Roosevelt and Truman

The Presidency of the United States is a tough job under any circumstances, but when, in addition, a man adds to his burdens the role of being someone not himself, of acting a role for which he is fitted neither by nature nor by experience, he cannot but fail. Were Harry Truman to be Harry Truman and not an imitation of Franklin D. Roosevelt, it is altogether probable that he would have retained the popularity that was his during his first year in office.

Roosevelt was extraordinary not in his charm nor in his knoweldge nor in his capabilities. He possessed a capacity to make men do what they did not wish to do. He exuded power and success.

Few of those closest to him altogether believed in his abilities or in the soundness of his judgments, as the present murrain of memoirs indicates, but they knew that he was able to gain popular if not intimate approval.

His speeches, never written by himself, were trifling documents, as anyone can know who reads them, or better still, listens to them now from N.B.C. recordings. But the public regarded him as a great orator, even though he often said what he did not mean. One need only read the Harry Hopkins memoirs, and to read them against the Roosevelt speeches of the identical period, to discover the discrepancy between the word and the deed. Nevertheless, a large part of the public believed him and still does. To some he is almost a god.

Substance, reality is unrelated to this adulation, but the fact of it is beyond doubt. Roosevelt could take the people's money and make a campaign trip without too much concern. Everybody knew that the inspection trip was a fraud, but somehow Roosevelt could get away with the fraud without opposition. He got away with so much without opposition. It fitted his personality and the times.

Harry Truman has a different personality. He is the small man. He lacks the majestic sweep, the broad manner, the assurance that comes from wealth and Groton and Harvard if nothing else. Roosevelt's mother, born among the kingly white folk of Hongkong, had it; for these China Coast white folk lived and ruled like feudal lords and came to believe that those beneath them were vassals to be treated with condescending noblesse oblige. It was easy to tell a lie if it was a lie for a good purpose.

Harry Truman cannot do that. He is the kind of person who always gives himself away or is always found out. Maybe Cal Collidge was that kind of man, but Cal was wise enough to be Cal Coolidge and not try to be a Theodore Roosevelt or a Woodrow Wilson. He remained himself. He did not hire experts to tell him how to speak what they told him to say. He did not train down his nasal so that he sounded like someone else after the country had become accustomed to him sounding like himself. He had no Sam Rosenman in his entourage to tell him how the Master did it.

Harry Truman might have left a lovable memory of himself in the White House had he never departed from his own personality. Of course, the liberals would not have liked him, for they, often being snobs, only speak of the common man but generally despise him. They would have accused him of being a conservative, which he undoubtedly is by nature; they would have ridiculed him, which they do anyhow.

Whoever advised Harry Truman to try to look like a Stork Club liberal treated him shabbily, for one must be that sort of thing to look it. And the imitation serves no purpose, for these pseudo-intellectuals will never be for Truman. First they turned to Eisenhower, then to Stassen, then to Vandenberg and now apparently they are for Austin. But never, never can they be for Truman, for he is really only a simple American, which they dislike.

That is why this "non-political" trip is such a failure. The public senses the fraud and responds accordingly. Harry Truman cannot get away with a fraud. He is too honest at heart.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

These days the only ring a girl can get is the one on her finger. If a guy calls her up, he's either a doctor or a bookie.

The phone shortage is making people desperate. One guy called the phone company from a booth and yelled for the manager to give him a 25-foot extension cord. When the manager told him, "but, sir, you haven't got a private phone," the guy screamed, "I know . . . I just want to hang myself."

My brother went down to apply for a phone and they told him he had to be sick to qualify for one. By the time he got to the manager he was sick enough for a phone. But when he called the doctor, the operator told him the Doc didn't have his phone yet either.

I've a party line myself, and it's really confusing . . . if I get a line, it's a miracle of the bells.

You know, I don't mind sharing a phone, but when the other party wants me to split the bill, that's too much.

They've even taken the phone away from the bookies in town. It's now "win, place . . . and talk louder, I have no phone."

One bookie I know now uses pigeons to place his bets. It didn't work out, though . . . the bird got a hot tip in the 4th, and a statue in Griffith Park won $40.

Everyone's worried but Crosby . . . with his ears he gets long distance with the help of nature . . . anyone here seen Don Ameche?

Chamber of Commerce Seeking New Members

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce has formulated plans looking to increasing its membership. This is undertaken annually and has resulted, over the years, in a gradual building of its roster until today the organization can boast of about 500 members. The purposes of such a campaign are many and those soliciting members will undoubtedly stress the value and effectiveness of such an organization geared to meet the needs of the community.

One of the chief obstacles of any organization, and especially the Chamber of Commerce, is the selfishness of many who consistently ask "What can I get out of it?" rather than "What can we do for the community." Too many business and professional men refrain from joining the Chamber because they don't think they can get enough out of it.

It should be pointed out that such organizations—and the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce is no exception—are not set up for the primary purpose of helping their members, but of helping the community at large. We are prone to think only of ourselves when we join a new group. If we thought more of the other fellow and what our membership would do to help them, we would all be much more likely to get dividends from our membership dues. A membership in the Chamber of Commerce is an investment in the improvement and growth of Cumberland.

The Chamber is, among other things, an outlet for information on the opportunities and advantages the city offers, and to see to it that prospective newcomers receive all the encouragement possible. The encouragement of small industries and manufacturing concerns employing from fifty to several hundred persons to locate here is of paramount importance. Whatever awakened spirit may result from this membership drive should be pointed toward that goal. It is an opportunity for the person who asks "What can I get out of it?" to get in an press such a program. He will not only benefit himself but the entire community.

It is not enough that a Chamber approve or disapprove proposals which may originate within civic groups or the governing bodies of the city, county and State, or give its moral support to this or that. One of the surest ways to expand and encourage the growth of the city—and that should be one of the primary purposes of the Chamber—will be the bringing of new industries to Cumberland. That poses a real challenge to the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

House Should Remove Some Draft Bill Clauses

The revival of the draft law which cleared the Senate hurdle in its race for passage, was in a House committee as this was written, ready to be sent to the floor by what appeared would be a close vote. On its passage in the Senate, it sustained some injuries which may be cleared up by the House.

The Senate adopted the bill after approving a two-year draft of youths 19 through 25 after a bitter battle. There are those who contend the draft should have been for five instead of two years. But it is difficult to see how this should weaken the measure. It seems, however, that the amendment permitting the enlistment of aliens is something that should be considered separately instead of in connection with the draft, while the civil rights argument was unfortunately injected.

The law faces trouble in the House. There is considerable coolness toward the draft on the part of some representatives and delaying tactics are expected despite the insistence of the House leadership that it be considered "must" legislation. There is always the possibility of more crippling proposals will be attached.

The draft, at best, is unpopular. But most Americans generally recognize the need for it as a means of bolstering this nation and western Europe against further Communist aggression. A weak draft bill would be taken in Europe as a sign of this nation's faltering in the face of reality.

The House has an excellent opportunity to rectify the mistakes of the Senate. It should remove injurious amendments, such as the alien enlistment provisions or proposals tied up with the highly debatable civil rights program, and restore the law to its original purpose of providing means of strengthening the United States in this critical moment in world history.

The Tragedy of Eduard Benes, Ex-Czech President

After refusing to sign the Communist constitution, Eduard Benes has resigned as president of Czechoslovakia and returned to private life. In the new police state of Czechoslovakia, Benes can hardly hope to live out the rest of his days in calm and honor. But that is not the tragedy of his life. His tragedy is that he will be compelled to look on at the methodical destruction of Czech liberties by a ruthless party which he helped to bring to power.

After Munich, Benes felt that her Western allies had abandoned his country to the mercies of Nazi Germany. He was right. But when he decided to put his trust in Soviet Russia he was tragically wrong. Benes thought he could save Czech democracy by throwing in his lot with Russia during and after the war. He even dreamed of making Czechoslovakia a link between Soviet Russia and the free Western world.

So, in return for Stalin's pledge to respect Czech sovereignty and independence, Benes agreed to turn over eastern provinces to Russia and helped Communists to key posts in his government. Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk also co-operated with Russia, because he believed his country had no other choice. But Benes actually thought Stalin wanted only peace. And he is said to have helped persuade Roosevelt to the same belief before the disastrous conferences of Teheran and Yalta.

Of course Benes was duped and his country was cruelly betrayed. Czech democracy was destroyed by the Communist coup in February and the remains were buried in the recent "election." Benes is not by any means the only man who misplaced his trust in Stalin. But it is his tragedy that he has lived to see the fatal consequences to his own people of that error in judgement.

Miscellany

Thomas Sydenham (1624-1689) has been referred to as the "English Hippocrates." He achieved fame in several fields and wrote voluminously on many subjects. His practice was large and he did not hesitate to institute heroic measures when he felt they were needed. Jamieson's column in the Canadian medical association journal, calls attention to one such treatment: "Sydenham once sent a victim of hypochrondia to Scotland, telling him to consult a certain doctor of great skill. The patient made the arduous journey by stage coach to find that no such doctor existed. He returned to London full of rage, but cured of his complaint."

Dr. Van Dellen

In another issue, a famous John Jones is described as the only American before the Revolutionary war to have written a medical book. This physician was responsible for abolishing the practice by medical men of the day of wearing wigs and carrying canes. "His colleagues swore that they would not consult him but his reputation as a surgeon was too much for them and under protest they met him and soon the wigs disappeared."

Before the discovery of vaccination by Jenner late in the 18th century, smallpox was high on the list of killers. At first, the procedure met with more opposition than encouragement from various groups but eventually was accepted. In fact, a few years later, Parliament voted Jenner grants of 30,000 pounds.

Jamieson states that while the clergymen of Geneva and Holland recommended from their pulpits that the people be vaccinated, an English clergyman declared: "Smallpox is a visitation from God, but cowpox is produced by presumptuous man." Britain was slow to accept the innovation; statues to Jenner appeared on the continent before they did in England. Moreover, the Five Nations tribe of American Indians realized the value of the plan and sent Jenner the following greeting: "We shall not fail to teach our children to speak the name of Jenner and to thank the Great Spirit for bestowing upon him so much wisdom and so much benevolence."

Russia also was grateful and Empress Catherine II "ordered that the first child to submit to vaccination in Russia be named Vaccinoff, be conveyed to St. Petersburgh in the imperial coach, be educated at public expense, and receive a pension for life."

Another sidelight on the smallpox vaccination problem is narrated by Sigerist, in the Bulletin of the History of Medicine for January-February of 1947:

"When Jenner's vaccination was being tested in England, Woodville, one of the early vaccinators, was anxious to have the opinion of his French colleagues. But France and England were at war in 1800. Nevertheless, diplomatic steps were undertaken; Tallerand, the French minister of foreign affairs, issued special passes and permits. In May, vaccine was sent from England to Paris and in July, Woodville came in person, was received as an honored guest, and performed vaccinations on French children in Boulogne and Paris."

This is a lesson in civilized international relations.

Speculations

L. D. writes: Will penicillin cure an attack of appendicitis?

REPLY

This is possible, provided the causative germs are the type that will respond to penicillin. Unfortunately, there is no way of determining beforehand whether the drug will be successful. Theoretically, streptomycin would be better because it is capable of combating the organisms that are the most frequent cause of appendicitis. These two antibiotics are used extensively, however, in treating peritonitis, the most serious complication of a ruptured appendix.

Lid Lesions

A. P. writes: What causes spots on the eyelids due to fat cells?

REPLY

Some lesions of this type are known as "milia." They consist of pinhead, yellowish-white elevations and contain greasy material from the oil-secreting glands. Another possibility is xanthoma, which is a flat or slightly raised, yellowish discoloration of the skin covering the lids near the inner aspects of the eyes. They are partial to elderly women. Both abnormalities can be removed successfully if they prove troublesome.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Supreme Court decision on quickie divorces was seven-two. It is not strange when two people cannot agree. Neither can the Supreme Court.

There hasn't been anything unanimous around these diggings since Noah turned in his weather report. The decision of the court upheld the Nevada brush-off and the Mexican elimination telegraph tournament.

The quickie marriage and divorce is a certificate with a cross-town transfer. Florida is going after some of that business for folks who want to be unhappy with perfect weather conditions.

What we cannot figure out is the Supreme Court's seven-two break. We thought eight of them were married.

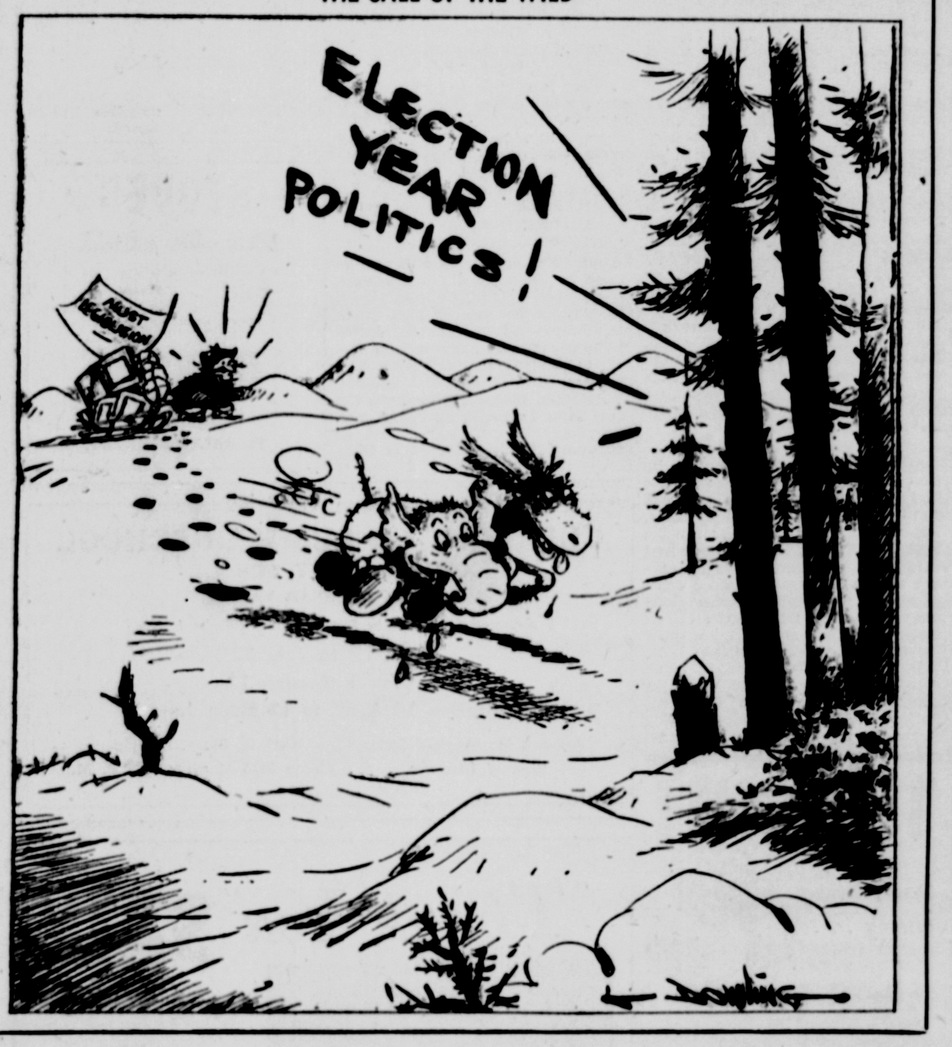
THE CALL OF THE WILD



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, June 14—Congressman Edward McCowen, Ohio Republican, who has fathered the federal-aid-to-education bill in the House, moved, in a closed-door meeting recently, to call a special session of the Education and Labor Committee in order to report the bill out of committee.

He started speaking at 11:59 a. m. Before he finished his motion, the bells rang out the notice that Congress had convened at 12 noon. Technically committees are not supposed to meet while the House is in session, although it is accepted practice to wind up the pending business before adjourning.

But big Max Schwabe, Missouri Republican didn't give McCowen a chance.

"Mr. Chairman, the House is now in session," he shouted, jumping to his feet. "It is illegal for the Committee to sit while the House is in session. I move that we adjourn."

As the meeting broke up, New York's Congressman Ralph Gwinn rushed over to Schwabe, slapped him on the back and congratulated him for his parliamentary maneuver. What Schwabe did was to kill any chance of bringing the education bill to a final vote, since the Committee has only one final meeting day before Congress is supposed to adjourn.

Afterward, Speaker Joe Martin breathed a sigh of relief. For Schwabe's action in bottling up the education bill gets Joe and others off the hook. They can continue to blame the Education and Labor Committee.

Note—Last week this column reported Rep. Kelley, Pennsylvania Democrat, as opposed to the education bill because it did not aid church schools. Mr. Kelley now points out that he has introduced a bill giving $5,000,000 aid to nonpublic schools, but that he is for the education bill in any event. Also, Rep. Buck, New York Republican, who was described as being for the education bill if he had the courage to vote against House GOP leaders, now emphatically proclaims that he would be against the bill under any and all circumstances.

Taft vs. Speaker Martin

Senator Taft called at Speaker Martin's office last week with a long list of bills that should be given a hearing before Congress adjourns. He pointed out that it would be bad politics to leave any of these important bills in mid-air.

"We can't make it by June 19," Taft pleaded.

But Martin, now a definite candidate for the GOP nomination against Taft, was unimpressed.

"We can make it over here," he shrugged, referring to the House side of the Capitol. "If you aren't ready to quit on time, that's your concern."

Martin suggested longer hours and harder work, added that nothing on the list was important enough to bring Congress back anyhow.

Note—Afterward, Martin admitted to Republican Congressmen at a private dinner-meeting that the Senate was at a disadvantage because it couldn't control filibusters. If it was necessary for Congress to return, however, he said he preferred to wait until both political conventions are over. Taft has suggested calling Congress back between the conventions.

Russian Crisis After Adjournment

Bullish Senator Bill Langer, North Dakota Republican, ran a nickel up to twenty cents on the Senate floor the other day by joining dapper Senator Millard Tydings, Maryland Democrat, in a bet.

Tydings had a hunch a new crisis would be waiting in Europe as soon as Congress adjourned.

"Mr. President," he shouted, "I will wager you—I shall not wager much . . ."

"Two bits?" suggested Senator Kenneth Wherry, acting majority leader.

"I will say two bits," agreed Tydings, "that we shall not be away from this Congress 30 days before Senators will hear of some change in the international situation."

Langer sidled up to him, slipped a nickel in his palm and whispered: "I want to take 20 per cent of that bet."

After Tydings wound up his remarks, he stopped by Langer's desk and plunked down a quarter.

"I think your investment is so good," explained the Maryland Senator, "that I want to buy it back at 500 per cent."

Real Estate Lobby Dies Hard

GOP friends of the real-estate lobby tried a smart, last-minute maneuver to try to block the housing bill.

Noticing that only four or five Democratic members of the House Banking and Currency Committee were present, GOP Congressman Clarence Kilburn of Malone, N. Y., quickly moved to report out the Wolcott bill minus public housing, slum clearance, and other humanitarian features of the original Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill.

"I object," declared Democrat Wright Patman of Texas. "Some of our colleagues are not present. We should have time to run them up so that they can vote on this."

"It's now 20 minutes to 2 o'clock," ruled Wolcott from the chair. "You can have until 2 o'clock to produce absent members. We vote then."

Representative Boggs of Louisiana and Mike Monroney of Oklahoma jumped into action, rounded up Democratic colleagues and all eleven were on hand to help defeat the Kilburn motion, 14 to 13, with the support of three Republicans—Hull of Wisconsin, Stratton of Illinois and Scott of Pennsylvania.

GOP Congressman Frank Sundstrom of East Orange, N. J., then moved that loans to farm housing be deleted. This put Scott, a city man from Philadelphia, on the spot.

But Scott fooled his GOP colleagues by voting "present," thus defeating the motion by a 13-to-13 tie vote. Again, Republicans Hull and Stratton, both with many farm voters, voted with the Democrats. However the desperate Republicans didn't give up. Representative John Kunkel of Harrisburg, Pa., demanded a reconsideration of the vote, still hoping Scott would switch back to the Republicans.

"Gentleman's motion is out of order," hotly contended Boggs of Louisiana.

Chairman Wolcott agreed that Boggs was right, Kunkel was ruled out of order.

Note—Besides Republicans Stratton, Hull and Scott, who put their country's welfare above party policy, Democrats who deserve a major share of the credit for forcing House action on public housing are Representatives Boggs, Patman, and Helen Gahagan Douglas of California.

MATTER OF FACT

By STEWART ALSOP

Fear In France

PARIS—

BEFORE the end of the six-power London conference on a western German government, American Ambassador Lewis Douglas turned to French Ambassador Rene Massigli and asked a question which sent a shiver down the spine of official Paris. If the Russians attempted to compel the Western powers to leave Berlin, Douglas asked, would the French government be willing to back the United States in the use of force? Massigli referred the question to the French Foreign Ministry. The answer, stripped of diplomatic decoration, was succinct. It took the form of another question: "What force?"

Better than any others, those two words epitomize the sense of terrible insecurity which colors all French thinking today. For the French, and with some reason, feel naked and exposed. Behind the bitter debate on the west German agreement, behind the French reaction to the new Russian moves in Berlin, lies fear—the fear of another war and another occupation, which a weakened France would be wholly powerless to prevent.

Again and again, the reporter in Paris hears the same argument. With America rearming, with the birth of Western Union, with the Communist political offensive in western Europe stopped dead in its tracks, the military position of the Soviet sphere is certain constantly to deteriorate in relation to the West. The Kremlin must know this. The Kremlin must also know that today nothing stands between the Red Army and the Atlantic but some Anglo-American police battalions and the eight or ten miserably under-equipped divisions of France and the Benelux countries. What more logical than that the Kremlin should seize the opportunity before it is too late? As for the atomic bomb, "Your bomb is no doubt a pretty little thing, but how will it help us here in Paris?"

In part, this sort of thing can no doubt be written off as propaganda for the French position on Germany and for American help in rearming France. Yet the fear is real. Above all the French fear another occupation by a foreign army, this time with the cooperation of a powerful minority, the Communist party. As one Frenchman put it to this reporter, "No doubt you would liberate us in the end. But in the meantime the Communists would have grafted a new political skin on France, in such a way that you could not remove the skin without killing the organism."

In the comfortably distant United States, such fears may seem neurotic. Yet they exist, and the fact is that they have been consistently aggravated by a whole sequence of events in which the United States has played a major part.

About two months ago, the French leaders were happily if erroneously convinced that, in exchange for French agreement on the formation of a western German government, the United States would quickly throw its whole vast weight behind western Europe and France. It was expected, first, that the United States would make some formal commitment to Western Union, and second, that the United States would proceed this year to help the Western Union countries, and above all France, to rearm themselves.

These hopes seemed about to be fulfilled when the joint military staffs of the Western Union countries, meeting in London, received an urgent request from Washington for an estimate of their military requirements. The estimate was hurriedly drawn up and dispatched to Washington. Then nothing more was heard from across the Atlantic. But this was only the first in a series of shocks and disappointments which have had a profound psychological effect in Paris.

When no response was forthcoming on the Western Union estimate of requirements, French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault sent the first of three notes to Secretary of State George C. Marshall, requesting a meeting in Washington. This request, like two which followed in subsequent weeks, was refused, simply because Washington knew that Bidault was certain to ask immediate help in rearming France, and Washington also knew that at the present time it was politically impossible to fulfill this request. But while this exchange was in progress, the famous Smith-Molotov exchange was published in Moscow. The French immediately—and of course quite wrongly—suspected that a deal between Moscow and Washington was about to be arranged, perhaps on the Munich pattern, in which French interests would be sacrificed.

The next step in this sequence of events was the question which Ambassador Douglas asked Ambassador Massigli. To the French, at last sadly convinced that neither an American military guaranty nor American help in rearming France would be forthcoming in the near future, this question seemed to imply the likelihood of a war—a war in which France would be quickly occupied.

The worst blow of all was of course the last—the action of the American House of Representatives in applying the Taber meat ax to E. C. A. appropriations. This has seemed to many Frenchmen the final, dreary proof that the United States is not a dependable ally in the struggle between East and West, in which France occupies a position so frighteningly exposed. Largely as a result of all this (partly, too, as a result of the endless instability of the French government) official Paris now suffers from a sense of insecurity which gives rise in some quarters to something close to downright hysteria. This profound feeling of insecurity, whether or not it is justified, is about the most important political fact on the Continent today. Election year or no election year, it is a fact which the American government must recognize, and with which it must be prepared to deal.

GOP Must Nominate Strongest Candidate For The Presidency

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 14—The most obvious fact about the two national conventions and yet the one that seems to have been analyzed the least is the strategy which caused the Democrats to decide to hold their gathering two weeks after the Republicans.

That two-week interval may become the most important period of all—a fateful time in which the outcome of the election itself may be decisively influenced.

Up to now the Republicans have felt certain they would win in November no matter who is nominated. But this has been assumed on the theory that Truman would be the Democratic nominee and that Wallace would stay in the race.

But nothing is cut and dried in American politics—this year, least of all. It is necessary to make some other assumptions.

First, if Speaker Martin is named as the result of pressure by the "isolationists"—or "nationalists," as they prefer to call themselves—what would the Democratic party do? The cry would arise from all factions of the party that the Democrats must put up their strongest possible candidate. This means that President Truman would be urged to step aside. It might even happen that, by prearrangement, he would be given the nomination and then would decline and place in nomination someone else. The name most often heard is that of General Eisenhower. Curiously enough, the General's name has been proposed again and again by the 'left wing" groups in the party so it appears that they, who would naturally be expected to object to a military man, would accept him. The certainity that General Eisenhower would sweep the country would be the determining factor.

"Obvious, Overriding Reason"

How could General Eisenhower be persuaded to run? In his letter he spoke of some "obvious and overriding reason" that could cause him to accept a draft. What more "overriding" reason could there be than the possibility that the United States would repudiate the Marshall Plan and revert to an "isolationist" position? Whether or not one agrees that this is a just implication from the choice of a candidate like Speaker Martin, it certainly would afford the Democrats a chance to persuade Mr. Truman to retire and General Eisenhower to run.

Let it be assumed, on the other hand, that someone with the internationalist view—Senator Vandenberg, for example—is nominated. What then would the Democrats do? It is certain that General Eisenhower would not then accept nomination—in fact, it is reported that he might come out in support of the Michigan Senator. Since Senator Vandenberg is a strong candidate, this must inevitably renew intensely the pressure among the Democrats to persuade President Truman not to run. The necessity for nominating a strong man who could give Vandenberg a real race, and perhaps persuade Wallace to withdraw, would then become paramount.

Not Foregone Conclusion

By reason of the fact that the Democrats have two weeks to think things over after the Republican convention has been held, the outcome of the Democratic convention cannot be regarded as a foregone conclusion, even though it is known now that Mr. Truman has a majority of the delegates. He can exercise control of a majority in his own behalf or for some other candidate.

There are hints from the President's entourage in the west that despite his outward show of confidence, Mr. Truman is well aware of the opposition to him in his own party. The formula that has to be found is one that apparently vindicates him and doesn't humiliate him.

The answer could be a complimentary nomination by acclamation and then a nominating speech by the President himself, asking the convention to name the candidate who can best unit all factions of the party.

It could happen. The Republicans would be foolish to assume that it couldn't happen. They would be ill-advised to nominate a weak candidate on the mistaken assumption that Truman and Wallace will be their oppenents.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Roosevelt and Truman

The Presidency of the United States is a tough job under any circumstances, but when, in addition, a man adds to his burdens the role of being someone not himself, of acting a role for which he is fitted neither by nature nor by experience, he cannot but fail. Were Harry Truman to be Harry Truman and not an imitation of Franklin D. Roosevelt, it is altogether probable that he would have retained the popularity that was his during his first year in office.

Roosevelt was extraordinary not in his charm nor in his knoweldge nor in his capabilities. He possessed a capacity to make men do what they did not wish to do. He exuded power and success.

Few of those closest to him altogether believed in his abilities or in the soundness of his judgments, as the present murrain of memoirs indicates, but they knew that he was able to gain popular if not intimate approval.

His speeches, never written by himself, were trifling documents, as anyone can know who reads them, or better still, listens to them now from N.B.C. recordings. But the public regarded him as a great orator, even though he often said what he did not mean. One need only read the Harry Hopkins memoirs, and to read them against the Roosevelt speeches of the identical period, to discover the discrepancy between the word and the deed. Nevertheless, a large part of the public believed him and still does. To some he is almost a god.

Substance, reality is unrelated to this adulation, but the fact of it is beyond doubt. Roosevelt could take the people's money and make a campaign trip without too much concern. Everybody knew that the inspection trip was a fraud, but somehow Roosevelt could get away with the fraud without opposition. He got away with so much without opposition. It fitted his personality and the times.

Harry Truman has a different personality. He is the small man. He lacks the majestic sweep, the broad manner, the assurance that comes from wealth and Groton and Harvard if nothing else. Roosevelt's mother, born among the kingly white folk of Hongkong, had it; for these China Coast white folk lived and ruled like feudal lords and came to believe that those beneath them were vassals to be treated with condescending noblesse oblige. It was easy to tell a lie if it was a lie for a good purpose.

Harry Truman cannot do that. He is the kind of person who always gives himself away or is always found out. Maybe Cal Collidge was that kind of man, but Cal was wise enough to be Cal Coolidge and not try to be a Theodore Roosevelt or a Woodrow Wilson. He remained himself. He did not hire experts to tell him how to speak what they told him to say. He did not train down his nasal so that he sounded like someone else after the country had become accustomed to him sounding like himself. He had no Sam Rosenman in his entourage to tell him how the Master did it.

Harry Truman might have left a lovable memory of himself in the White House had he never departed from his own personality. Of course, the liberals would not have liked him, for they, often being snobs, only speak of the common man but generally despise him. They would have accused him of being a conservative, which he undoubtedly is by nature; they would have ridiculed him, which they do anyhow.

Whoever advised Harry Truman to try to look like a Stork Club liberal treated him shabbily, for one must be that sort of thing to look it. And the imitation serves no purpose, for these pseudo-intellectuals will never be for Truman. First they turned to Eisenhower than to Stassen, then to Vandenberg and now apparently they are for Austin. But never, never can they be for Truman, for he is really only a simple American, which they dislike.

That is why this "non-political" trip is such a failure. The public senses the fraud and responds accordingly. Harry Truman cannot get away with a fraud. He is too honest at heart.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

These days the only ring a girl can get is the one on her finger. If a guy calls her up, he's either a doctor or a bookie.

The phone shortage is making people desperate. One guy called the phone company from a booth and yelled for the manager to give him a 25-foot extension cord. When the manager told him, "but, sir, you haven't got a private phone," the guy screamed, "I know . . . I just want to hang myself."

My brother went down to apply for a phone and they told him he had to be sick to qualify for one. By the time he got to the manager he was sick enough for a phone. But when he called the doctor, the operator told him the Doc didn't have his phone yet either.

I've a party line myself, and it's really confusing . . . if I get the line, it's a miracle of the bells.

You know, I don't mind sharing a phone, but when the other party wants me to split the bill, that's too much.

They've even taken the phones away from the bookies in town. It's now "win, place . . . and tail" louder, I have no phone."

One bookie I know now uses pigeons to place his bets. It didn't work out, though . . . the bird got a hot tip in the 4th, and a statue in Griffith Park won $40.

Everyone's worried but Crosby . . . with his ears he gets long distance with the help of nature . . . anyone here seen Don Ameche?

Chamber of Commerce Seeking New Members

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce has formulated plans looking to increasing its membership. This is undertaken annually and has resulted, over the years, in a gradual building of its roster until today the organization can boast of about 500 members. The purposes of such a campaign are many and those soliciting members will undoubtedly stress the value and effectiveness of such an organization geared to meet the needs of the community.

One of the chief obstacles of any organization, and especially the Chamber of Commerce, is the selfishness of many who consistently ask "What can I get out of it?" rather than "What can we do for the community." Too many business and professional men refrain from joining the Chamber because they don't think they can get enough out of it.

It should be pointed out that such organizations —and the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce is no exception—are not set up for the primary purpose of helping their members, but of helping the community at large. We are prone to think only of ourselves when we join a new group. If we thought more of the other fellow and what our membership would do to help them, we would all be much more likely to get dividends from our membership dues. A membership in the Chamber of Commerce is an investment in the improvement and growth of Cumberland.

The Chamber is, among other things, an outlet for information on the opportunities and advantages the city offers, and to see to it that prospective newcomers receive all the encouragement possible. The encouragement of small industries and manufacturing concerns employing from fifty to several hundred persons to locate here is of paramount importance. Whatever awakened spirit may result from this membership drive should be pointed toward that goal. It is an opportunity for the person who asks "What can I get out of it?" to get in an press such a program. He will not only benefit himself but the entire community.

It is not enough that a Chamber approve or disapprove proposals which may originate within civic groups or the governing bodies of the city, county and State, or give its moral support to this or that. One of the surest ways to expand and encourage the growth of the city—and that should be one of the primary purposes of the Chamber—will be the bringing of new industries to Cumberland. That poses a real challenge to the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

House Should Remove Some Draft Bill Clauses

The revival of the draft law which cleared the Senate hurdle in its race for passage, was in a House committee as this was written, ready to be sent to the floor by what appeared would be a close vote. On its passage in the Senate, it sustained some injuries which may be cleared up by the House.

The Senate adopted the bill after approving a two-year draft of youths 19 through 25 after a bitter battle. There are those who contend the draft should have been for five instead of two years. But it is difficult to see how this should weaken the measure. It seems, however, that the amendment permitting the enlistment of aliens is something that should be considered separately instead of in connection with the draft, while the civil rights argument was unfortunately injected.

The law faces trouble in the House. There is considerable coolness toward the draft on the part of some representatives and delaying tactics are expected despite the insistence of the House leadership that it be considered "must" legislation. There is always the possibility of more crippling proposals will be attached.

The draft, at best, is unpopular. But most Americans generally recognize the need for it as a means of bolstering this nation and western Europe against further Communist aggression. A weak draft bill would be taken in Europe as a sign of this nation's faltering in the face of reality.

The House has an excellent opportunity to rectify the mistakes of the Senate. It should remove injurious amendments, such as the alien enlistment provisions or proposals tied up with the highly debatable civil rights program, and restore the law to its original purpose of providing means of strengthening the United States in this critical moment in world history.

The Tragedy of Eduard Benes, Ex-Czech President

After refusing to sign the Communist constitution, Eduard Benes has resigned as president of Czechoslovakia and returned to private life. In the new police state of Czechoslovakia, Benes can hardly hope to live out the rest of his days in calm and honor. But that is not the tragedy of his life. His tragedy is that he will be compelled to look on at the methodical destruction of Czech liberties by a ruthless party which he helped to bring to power.

After Munich, Benes felt that her Western allies had abandoned his country to the mercies of Nazi Germany. He was right. But when he decided to put his trust in Soviet Russia he was tragically wrong. Benes thought he could save Czech democracy by throwing in his lot with Russia during and after the war. He even dreamed of making Czechoslovakia a link between Soviet Russia and the free Western world.

So, in return for Stalin's pledge to respect Czech sovereignty and independence, Benes agreed to turn over eastern provinces to Russia and helped Communists to key posts in his government. Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk also co-operated with Russia, because he believed his country had no other choice. But Benes actually thought Stalin wanted only peace. And he is said to have helped persuade Roosevelt to the same belief before the disastrous conferences of Teheran and Yalta.

Of course Benes was duped and his country was cruelly betrayed. Czech democracy was destroyed by the Communist coup in February and the remains were buried in the recent "election." Benes is not by any means the only man who misplaced his trust in Stalin. But it is his tragedy that he has lived to see the fatal consequences to his own people of that error in judgement.

Miscellany

Thomas Sydenham (1624-1689) has been referred to as the "English Hippocrates." He achieved fame in several fields and wrote voluminously on many subjects. His practice was large and he did not hesitate to institute heroic measures when he felt they were needed. Jamieson's column in the Canadian medical association journal, calls attention to one such treatment: "Sydenham once sent a victim of hypochrondia to Scotland, telling him to consult a certain doctor of great skill. The patient made the arduous journey by stage coach to find that no such doctor existed. He returned to London full of rage, but cured of his complaint."

Dr. Van Dellen

In another issue, a famous John Jones is described as the only American before the Revolutionary war to have written a medical book. This physician was responsible for abolishing the practice by medical men of the day of wearing wigs and carrying canes. "His colleagues swore that they would not consult him but his reputation as a surgeon was too much for them and under protest they met him and soon the wigs disappeared."

Before the discovery of vaccination by Jenner late in the 18th century, smallpox was high on the list of killers. At first, the procedure met with more opposition than encouragement from various groups but eventually was accepted. In fact, a few years later, Parliament voted Jenner grants of 30,000 pounds.

Jamieson states that while the clergymen of Geneva and Holland recommended from their pulpits that the people be vaccinated, an English clergyman declared: "Smallpox is a visitation from God, but cowpox is produced by presumptuous man." Britain was slow to accept the innovation; statues to Jenner appeared on the continent before they did in England. Moreover, the Five Nations tribe of American Indians realized the value of the plan and sent Jenner the following greeting: "We shall not fail to teach our children to speak the name of Jenner and to thank the Great Spirit for bestowing upon him so much wisdom and so much benevolence."

Russia also was grateful and Empress Catherine II "ordered that the first child to submit to vaccination in Russia be named Vaccinoff, be conveyed to St. Petersburgh in the imperial coach, be educated at public expense, and receive a pension for life."

Another sidelight on the smallpox vaccination problem is narrated by Sigerist, in the Bulletin of the History of Medicine for January-February of 1947:

"When Jenner's vaccination was being tested in England, Woodville, one of the early vaccinators, was anxious to have the opinion of his French colleagues. But France and England were at war in 1800. Nevertheless, diplomatic steps were undertaken; Tallerand, the French minister of foreign affairs, issued special passes and permits. In May, vaccine was sent from England to Paris and in July, Woodville came in person, was received as an honored guest, and performed vaccinations on French children in Boulogne and Paris."

This is a lesson in civilized international relations.

Speculations

L. D. writes: Will penicillin cure an attack of appendicitis?

REPLY

This is possible, provided the causative germs are the type that will respond to penicillin. Unfortunately, there is no way of determining beforehand whether the drug will be successful. Theoretically, streptomycin would be better because it is capable of combating the organisms that are the most frequent cause of appendicitis. These two antibiotics are used extensively, however, in treating peritonitis, the most serious complication of a ruptured appendix.

Lid Lesions

A. P. writes: What causes spots on the eyelids due to fat cells?

REPLY

Some lesions of this type are known as "milia." They consist of pinhead, yellowish-white elevations and contain greasy material from the oil-secreting glands. Another possibility is xanthoma, which is a flat or slightly raised, yellowish discoloration of the skin covering the lids near the inner aspects of the eyes. They are partial to elderly women. Both abnormalities can be removed successfully if they prove troublesome.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Supreme Court decision on quickie divorces was seven-two. It is not strange when two people cannot agree. Neither can the Supreme Court.

There hasn't been anything unanimous around these diggings since Noah turned in his weather report. The decision of the court upheld the Nevada brush-off and the Mexican elimination telegraph tournament.

The quickie marriage and divorce is a certificate with a cross-town transfer. Florida is going after some of that business for folks who want to be unhappy with perfect weather conditions.

What we cannot figure out is the Supreme Court's seven-two break. We thought eight of them were married.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, June 14—Congressman Edward McCowen, Ohio Republican, who has fathered the federal-aid-to-education bill in the House, moved, in a closed-door meeting recently, to call a special session of the Education and Labor Committee in order to report the bill out of committee.

He started speaking at 11:59 a. m. Before he finished his motion, the bells rang out the notice that Congress had convened at 12 noon. Technically committees are not supposed to meet while the House is in session, although it is accepted practice to wind up the pending business before adjourning.

But big Max Schwabe, Missouri Republican didn't give McCowen a chance.

"Mr. Chairman, the House is now in session," he shouted, jumping to his feet. "It is illegal for the Committee to sit while the House is in session. I move that we adjourn."

As the meeting broke up, New York's Congressman Ralph Gwinn rushed over to Schwabe, slapped him on the back and congratulated him for his parliamentary maneuver. What Schwabe did was to kill any chance of bringing the educa- the bill to a final vote, since the Committee has only one final meeting day before Congress is supposed to adjourn.

Afterward, Speaker Joe Martin breathed a sigh of relief. For Schwabe's action in bottling up the education bill gets Joe and others off the hook. They can continue to blame the Education and Labor Committee.

Note—Last week this column reported Rep. Kelley, Pennsylvania Democrat, as opposed to the education bill because it did not aid church schools. Mr. Kelley now points out that he has introduced a bill giving $5,000,000 aid to nonpublic schools, but that he is for the education bill in any event. Also, Rep. Buck, New York Republican, who was described as being for the education bill if he had the courage to vote against House GOP leaders, now emphatically proclaims that he would be against the bill under any and all circumstances.

Taft vs. Speaker Martin

Senator Taft called at Speaker Martin's office last week with a long list of bills that should be given a hearing before Congress adjourns. He pointed out that it would be bad politics to leave any of these important bills in mid-air.

"We can't make it by June 19," Taft pleaded.

But Martin, now a definite candidate for the GOP nomination against Taft, was unimpressed.

"We can make it over here," he shrugged, referring to the House side of the Capitol. "If you aren't ready to quit on time, that's your concern."

Martin suggested longer hours and harder work, added that nothing on the list was important enough to bring Congress back anyhow.

Note—Afterward, Martin admitted to Republican Congressmen at a private dinner-meeting that the Senate was at a disadvantage because it couldn't control filibusters. If it was necessary for Congress to return, however, he said he preferred to wait until both political conventions are over. Taft has suggested calling Congress back between the conventions.

Russian Crisis After Adjournment

Bullish Senator Bill Langer, North Dakota Republican, ran a nickel up to twenty cents on the Senate floor the other day by joining dapper Senator Millard Tydings, Maryland Democrat, in a bet.

Tydings had a hunch a new crisis would be waiting in Europe as soon as Congress adjourned.

"Mr. President," he shouted, "I will wager you—I shall not wager much . . . ."

"Two bits?" suggested Senator Kenneth Wherry, acting majority leader.

"I will say two bits," agreed Tydings, "that we shall not be away from this Congress 30 days before Senators will hear of some change in the international situation."

Langer sidled up to him, slipped a nickel in his palm and whispered: "I want to take 20 per cent of that bet."

After Tydings wound up his remarks, he stopped by Langer's desk and plunked down a quarter.

"I think your investment is so good," explained the Maryland Senator, "that I want to buy it back at 500 per cent."

Real Estate Lobby Dies Hard

GOP friends of the real-estate lobby tried a smart, last-minute maneuver to try to block the housing bill.

Noticing that only four or five Democratic members of the House Banking and Currency Committee were present, GOP Congressman Clarence Kilburn of Malone, N. Y., quickly moved to report out the Wolcott bill minus public housing, slum clearance, and other humanitarian features of the original Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill.

"I object," declared Democrat Wright Patman of Texas. "Some of our colleagues are not present. We should have time to run them up so that they can vote on this."

"It's now 20 minutes to 2 o'clock," ruled Wolcott from the chair. "You can have until 2 o'clock to produce absent members. We vote then."

Representative Boggs of Louisiana and Mike Monroney of Oklahoma jumped into action, rounded up Democratic colleagues and all eleven were on hand to help defeat the Kilburn motion, 14 to 13, with the support of three Republicans—Hull of Wisconsin, Stratton of Illinois and Scott of Pennsylvania.

GOP Congressman Frank Sundstrom of East Orange, N. J., then moved that loans to farm housing be deleted. This put Scott, a city man from Philadelphia, on the spot.

But Scott fooled his GOP colleagues by voting "present," thus defeating the motion by a 13-to-13 tie vote. Again, Republicans Hull and Stratton, both with many farm voters, voted with the Democrats. However the desperate Republicans didn't give up. Representative John Kunkel of Harrisburg, Pa., demanded a reconsideration of the vote, still hoping Scott would switch back to the Republicans.

"Gentleman's motion is out of order," hotly contended Boggs of Louisiana.

Chairman Wolcott agreed that Boggs was right, Kunkel was ruled out of order.

Note—Besides Republicans Stratton, Hull and Scott, who put their country's welfare above party policy, Democrats who deserve a major share of the credit for forcing House action on public housing are Representatives Boggs, Patman, and Helen Gahagan Douglas of California.

MATTER OF FACT

By STEWART ALSOP

Fear In France

PARIS—

BEFORE the end of the six-power London conference on a western German government, American Ambassador Lewis Douglas turned to French Ambassador Rene Massigli and asked a question which sent a shiver down the spine of official Paris. If the Russians attempted to compel the Western powers to leave Berlin, Douglas asked, would the French government be willing to back the United States in the use of force? Massigli referred the question to the French Foreign Ministry. The answer, stripped of diplomatic decoration, was succinct. It took the form of another question: "What force?"

Better than any others, those two words epitomize the sense of terrible insecurity which colors all French thinking today. For the French, and with some reason, feel naked and exposed. Behind the bitter debate on the west German agreement, behind the French reaction to the new Russian moves in Berlin, lies fear—the fear of another war and another occupation, which a weakened France would be wholly powerless to prevent.

Again and again, the reporter in Paris hears the same argument. With America rearming, with the birth of Western Union, with the Communist political offensive in western Europe stopped dead in its tracks, the military position of the Soviet sphere is certain constantly to deteriorate in relation to the West. The Kremlin must know this. The Kremlin must also know that today nothing stands between the Red Army and the Atlantic but some Anglo-American police battalions and the eight or ten miserably under-equipped divisions of France and the Benelux countries. What more logical than that the Kremlin should seize the opportunity before it is too late? As for the atomic bomb, "Your bomb is no doubt a pretty little thing, but how will it help us here in Paris?"

In part, this sort of thing can no doubt be written off as propaganda for the French position on Germany and for American help in rearming France. Yet the fear is real. Above all the French fear another occupation by a foreign army, this time with the cooperation of a powerful minority, the Communist party. As one Frenchman put it to this reporter, "No doubt you would liberate us in the end. But in the meantime the Communists would have grafted a new political skin on France, in such a way that you could not remove the skin without killing the organism."

In the comfortably distant United States, such fears may seem neurotic. Yet they exist, and the fact is that they have been consistently aggravated by a whole sequence of events in which the United States has played a major part.

About two months ago, the French leaders were happily if erroneously convinced that, in exchange for French agreement on the formation of a western German government, the United States would quickly throw its whole vast weight behind western Europe and France. It was expected, first, that the United States would make some formal commitment to Western Union, and second, that the United States would proceed this year to help the Western Union countries, and above all France, to rearm themselves.

These hopes seemed about to be fulfilled when the joint military staffs of the Western Union countries, meeting in London, received an urgent request from Washington for an estimate of their military requirements. The estimate was hurriedly drawn up and dispatched to Washington. Then nothing more was heard from across the Atlantic. But this was only the first in a series of shocks and disappointments which have had a profound psychological effect in Paris.

When no response was forthcoming on the Western Union estimate of requirements, French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault sent the first of three notes to Secretary of State George C. Marshall, requesting a meeting in Washington. This request, like two which followed in subsequent weeks, was refused, simply because Washington knew that Bidault was certain to ask immediate help in rearming France, and Washington also knew that at the present time it was politically impossible to fulfill this request. But while this exchange was in progress, the famous Smith-Molotov exchange was published in Moscow. The French immediately—and of course quite wrongly—suspected that a deal between Moscow and Washington was about to be arranged, perhaps on the Munich pattern, in which French interests would be sacrificed.

The next step in this sequence of events was the question which Ambassador Douglas asked Ambassador Massigli. To the French, at last sadly convinced that neither an American military guaranty nor American help in rearming France would be forthcoming in the near future, this question seemed to imply the likelihood of a war—a war in which France would be quickly occupied.

The worst blow of all was of course the last—the action of the American House of Representatives in applying the Taber meat ax to E. C. A. appropriations. This has seemed to many Frenchmen the final, dreary proof that the United States is not a dependable ally in the struggle between East and West, in which France occupies a position so frighteningly exposed. Largely as a result of all this (partly, too, as a result of the endless instability of the French government) official Paris now suffers from a sense of insecurity which gives rise in some quarters to something close to downright hysteria. This profound feeling of insecurity, whether or not it is justified, is about the most important political fact on the Continent today. Election year or no election year, it is a fact which the American government must recognize, and with which it must be prepared to deal.

GOP Must Nominate Strongest Candidate For The Presidency

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 14—The most obvious fact about the two national conventions and yet the one that seems to have been analyzed the least is the strategy which caused the Democrats to decide to hold their gathering two weeks after the Republicans.

That two-week interval may become the most important period of all—a fateful time in which the outcome of the election itself may be decisively influenced.

Up to now the Republicans have felt certain they would win in November no matter who is nominated. But this has been assumed on the theory that Truman would be the Democratic nominee and that Wallace would stay in the race.

But nothing is cut and dried in American politics—this year, least of all. It is necessary to make some other assumptions.

First, if Speaker Martin is named as the result of pressure by the "isolationists"—or "nationalists," as they prefer to call themselves—what would the Democratic party do? The cry would arise from all factions of the party that the Democrats must put up their strongest possible candidate. This means that President Truman would be urged to step aside. It might even happen that, by prearrangement, he would be given the nomination and then would decline and place in nomination someone else. The name most often heard is that of General Eisenhower. Curiously enough, the General's name has been proposed again and again by the 'left wing" groups in the party so it appears that they, who would naturally be expected to object to a military man, would accept him. The certainity that General Eisenhower would sweep the country would be the determining factor.

"Obvious, Overriding Reason"

How could General Eisenhower be persuaded to run? In his letter he spoke of some "obvious and overriding reason" that could cause him to accept a draft. What more "overriding" reason could there be than the possibility that the United States would repudiate the Marshall Plan and revert to an "isolationist" position? Whether or not one agrees that this is a just implication from the choice of a candidate like Speaker Martin, it certainly would afford the Democrats a chance to persuade Mr. Truman to retire and General Eisenhower to run.

Let it be assumed, on the other hand, that someone with the internationalist view—Senator Vandenberg, for example—is nominated. What then would the Democrats do? It is certain that General Eisenhower would not then accept nomination—in fact, it is reported that he might come out in support of the Michigan Senator. Since Senator Vandenberg is a strong candidate, this must inevitably renew intensely the pressure among the Democrats to persuade President Truman not to run. The necessity for nominating a strong man who could give Vandenberg a real race, and perhaps persuade Wallace to withdraw, would then become paramount.

Not Foregone Conclusion

By reason of the fact that the Democrats have two weeks to think things over after the Republican convention has been held, the outcome of the Democratic convention cannot be regarded as a foregone conclusion, even though it is known now that Mr. Truman has a majority of the delegates. He can exercise control of a majority in his own behalf or for some other candidate.

There are hints from the President's entourage in the west that despite his outward show of confidence, Mr. Truman is well aware of the opposition to him in his own party. The formula that has to be found is one that apparently vindicates him and doesn't humiliate him.

The answer could be a complimentary nomination by acclamation and then a nominating speech by the President himself, asking the convention to name the candidate who can best unit all factions of the party.

It could happen. The Republicans would be foolish to assume that it couldn't happen. They would be ill-advised to nominate a weak candidate on the mistaken assumption that Truman and Wallace will be their oppenents.

Roosevelt and Truman

The Presidency of the United States is a tough job under any circumstances, but when, in addition, a man adds to his burdens the role of being someone not himself, of acting a role for which he is fitted neither by nature nor by experience, he cannot but fail. Were Harry Truman to be Harry Truman and not an imitation of Franklin D. Roosevelt, it is altogether probable that he would have retained the popularity that was his during his first year in office.

Roosevelt was extraordinary not in his charm nor in his knoweldge nor in his capabilities. He possessed a capacity to make men do what they did not wish to do. He exuded power and success.

Few of those closest to him altogether believed in his abilities or in the soundness of his judgments, as the present murrain of memoirs indicates, but they knew that he was able to gain popular if not intimate approval.

His speeches, never written by himself, were trifling documents, as anyone can know who reads them, or better still, listens to them now from N.B.C. recordings. But the public regarded him as a great orator, even though he often said what he did not mean. One need only read the Harry Hopkins memoirs, and to read them against the Roosevelt speeches of the identical period, to discover the discrepancy between the word and the deed. Nevertheless, a large part of the public believed him and still does. To some he is almost a god.

Substance, reality is unrelated to this adulation, but the fact of it is beyond doubt. Roosevelt could take the people's money and make a campaign trip without too much concern. Everybody knew that the inspection trip was a fraud, but somehow Roosevelt could get away with the fraud without opposition. He got away with so much without opposition. It fitted his personality and the times.

Harry Truman has a different personality. He is the small man. He lacks the majestic sweep, the broad manner, the assurance that comes from wealth and Groton and Harvard if nothing else. Roosevelt's mother, born among the kingly white folk of Hongkong, had it; for these China Coast white folk lived and ruled like feudal lords and came to believe that those beneath them were vassals to be treated with condescending noblesse oblige. It was easy to tell a lie if it was a lie for a good purpose.

Harry Truman cannot do that. He is the kind of person who always gives himself away or is always found out. Maybe Cal Collidge was that kind of man, but Cal was wise enough to be Cal Coolidge and not try to be a Theodore Roosevelt or Woodrow Wilson. He remained himself. He did not hire experts to tell him how to speak what they told him to say. He did not train down his nasal so that he sounded like someone else after the country had become accustomed to him sounding like himself. He had no Sam Rosenman in his entourage to tell him how the Master did it.

Harry Truman might have left a lovable memory of himself in the White House had he never departed from his own personality. Of course, the liberals would not have liked him, for they, often being snobs, only speak of the common man but generally despise him. They would have accused him of being a conservative, which he undoubtedly is by nature; they would have ridiculed him, which they do anyhow.

Whoever advised Harry Truman to try to look like a Stork Club liberal treated him shabbily, for one must be that sort of thing to look it. And the imitation served no purpose, for these pseudo-intellectuals will never be for Truman. First they turned to Eisenhower, than to Stassen, then to Vandenberg and now apparently they are for Austin. But never, never can they be for Truman, for he is really only a simple American, which they dislike.

That is why this "non-political" trip is such a failure. The public senses the fraud and responds accordingly. Harry Truman cannot get away with a fraud. He is too honest at heart.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

These days the only ring a girl can get is the one on her finger. If a guy calls her up, he's either a doctor or a bookie.

The phone shortage is making people desperate. One guy called the phone company from a booth and yelled for the manager to give him a 25-foot extension cord. When the manager told him, "but, sir, you haven't got a private phone," the guy screamed, "I know . . . I just want to hang myself."

My brother went down to apply for a phone and they told him he had to be sick to qualify for one. By the time he got to the manager he was sick enough for a phone. But when he called the doctor, the operator told him the Doc didn't have his phone yet either.

I've a party line myself, and it's really confusing . . . if I get a line, it's a miracle of the cells.

You know, I don't mind sharing a phone, but when the other party wants me to split the bill, that's too much.

They've even taken the phones away from the bookies in town. It's now "win, place . . . and talk louder, I have no phone."

One bookie I know now uses pigeons to place his bets. It didn't work out, though . . . his bird got a hot tip in the 4th, and a statue in Griffith Park won $400.

Everyone's worried but Crosby . . . with his ears he gets long distance with the help of nature . . . anyone here seen Don Ameche?

Old Friends

Every new friend is a potential old friend—and you can't have too many old friends! With each increasing year these old friends become mellower in mind and spirit, and so much of their richness is shared with us.

During the past week I journeyed away from home to visit a few of these old friends of mine—and I picked up a new one on the way! For years this new friend had been an unseen one by communication, so that a personal meeting was an extra thrill. How fine it is to meet such a one and to discover that you had vastly more coming to you than you suspected.

But during such journeys as I have just taken, it's sad to go places where the missed ones were. Life goes on. It will go on when I drop out, and you drop out. That's the way of the world. So, how important it is that we keep clinging to the old friends while we seek to discover new ones.

It is well to bear in mind that there is no substitute for a genuine friend. Money can't take his or her place. Nor can great fame or widespread acclaim. Life is dull, and weeded with regrets, with no friends near to cheer and to give comfort, or to re-enforce one's faith. No one can die poor who owns a friend! There is comfort even in the nod of a favorite flower, or in the understanding look from the face of a dog, with his wagging tail! But the human friend is without price or substitute.

I sat in a fine men's club on this recent trip of mine, and watched the men as they came in and greeted one another. Bill, Fred, Carl, Joe. Something fine and genuine in this familiar greeting among men. Sincerity. No pretense. Interest in the other fellow's ways and problems. "How goes it, Charlie?"

John Adams and Thomas Jefferson were two great Americans—both Presidents. They had many political differences, but both were patriots who strove earnestly to build upon this western continent a great free nation. They must have had a high regard for each other, regardless of their many opposing views, for when Adams was dying his last words were: "Thomas Jefferson still survives." But he didn't survive. Both these great men went to their long sleep at about the same time. Jefferson died on July 4th, 1826—a most appropriate date!

A Message To Celanese Workers About The Union Security Election!

● Celanese employees will be given an opportunity to vote in a Union Security election on June 23, 24, and 25, 1948. Don't fall for the glib talk that the Taft-Hartley Law is good for YOU!

It was never intended to be good for YOU. It was passed to weaken and smash labor Unions, at the request of the National Association of Manufacturers. Of course, the NAM, is not opposed to Unions . . . provided they are small, weak and powerless to win benefits for their members.

● Taft, Hartley and the friends of the NAM in Congress passed this law to make it tough for men and women who are members of a Union and under Union contracts.

● Celanese workers are about to receive a first hand demonstration of how this unfair law works. Your Union contract expires on June 26, 1948. Before ANY TYPE of Union Security clause can be included in your next contract Local 1874 must win a Union Security election, conducted by the National Labor Relations Board under Taft-Hartley Law conditions. The present Union Security clause could not be kept unless the election is won.

What Are The Taft-Hartley Law Conditions?

● Well, they need a lot of explanation. The election will NOT be held under the same conditions as you elect Senators and Congressmen and other public officials. They need only receive a majority of all votes cast and they are elected. Then they can sit in Congress and pass laws such as the Taft-Hartley Law!

● But for some strange and unexplained reason the working men and women who belong to labor Unions are put in a different class when voting for the Security of their Union than when they are voting for men to represent them in the United States Congress.

● You see the Taft-Hartley Law wants to give employees a chance to bust their own Unions! So it says that before a labor Union can have a Security clause a MAJORITY OF ALL ELIGIBLE EMPLOYEES must vote "YES". Remember this carefully, the Union must not win only a majority of ALL THOSE WHO VOTE, but a majority of all employees eligible to vote, whether members of the Union or not!!!

● Perhaps you are wondering about Celanese employees who are sick, in hospital, on vacation or absent from work on election day for any other reason . . . or about those who fail to vote? Well, if they don't come out of hospital, from their sick beds, off their vacations or off their jobs and vote YES, they are automatically counted as voting AGAINST Union Security!

● You may say this is a very undemocratic and unfair procedure. We agree with you . . . but that is what the Taft-Hartley Law decrees and that is how the Union Security election of Celanese Local 1874 will be conducted.

● Fortunately, the Union locals who have already held their Union Security elections in the textile industry were fully aware of this "joker" in the Union busters law. Until June 5, 1948 there were 498 locals of the Textile Workers Union of America who won smashing victories and only 3 locals lost out their Union Security to the Taft-Hartley scheme.

● Here at Celanese we must work hard to have Local 1874 play its part as the biggest local in the Textile Workers Union of America by rolling up a smashing "YES" vote and register the biggest favorable vote yet given for Union Security!

● Every Celanese employee should make up his or her mind that they will vote in the election regardless of any obstacles or inconvenience. They should vote "YES" for Union Security and all the benefits which a strong Local Union brings, with a strong working contract. Celanese workers still remember the bad old days before they built their Union . . . they have no desire to go back to them.

● The National Labor Relations Board has scheduled June 23, 24 and 25 as election days. Voting will be at thirteen locations within the plant. The places and hours will be announced on Wednesday.

● Meanwhile, be ready! Keep your Union strong! Hold fast to that which is good! Do not be confused. March on with the thousands of Textile Workers who have refused to let their local Unions fall victim to those who seek to destroy them!

But during such journeys as I have just taken, it's sad to go places where the missed ones were. Life goes on. It will go on when I drop out, and you drop out. That's the way of the world. So, how important it is that we keep clinging to the old friends while we seek to discover new ones.

It is well to bear in mind that there is no substitute for a genuine friend. Money can't take his or her place. Nor can great fame or widespread acclaim. Life is dull, and weeded with regrets, with no friends near to cheer and to give comfort, or to re-enforce one's faith. No one can die poor who owns a friend! There is comfort even in the nod of a favorite flower, or in the understanding look from the face of a dog, with his wagging tail! But the human friend is without price or substitute.

I sat in a fine men's club on this recent trip of mine, and watched the men as they came in and greeted one another. Bill, Fred, Carl, Joe. Something fine and genuine in this familiar greeting among men. Sincerity. No pretense. Interest in the other fellow's ways and problems. "How goes it, Charlie?"

John Adams and Thomas Jefferson were two great Americans—both Presidents. They had many political differences, but both were patriots who strove earnestly to build upon this western continent a great free nation. They must have had a high regard for each other, regardless of their many opposing views, for when Adams was dying his last words were: "Thomas Jefferson still survives." But he didn't survive. Both these great men went to their long sleep at about the same time. Jefferson died on July 4th, 1826—a most appropriate date!

DA...DA...Glub!

YOU'RE right!. . . Da-Da has gone to get the Glub. (translated for the uninformed, Daddy has gone to get the bread). And when daddy returns he'll have tucked under his arm a loaf of McIntyre's BIG BOY Enriched bread, 'cause daddy knows that only the best is good enough for you. He's smart, too, for he knows when you reach for a slice of bread and it doesn't have the smooth, light texture and nourishing goodness of BIG BOY bread, you'll raise a howl that'll rock him right back on his heels. And how about the taste of BIG BOY Bread? That's something to really dribble over, eh sonny?

A Message To Celanese Workers About The Union Security Election!

● Celanese employees will be given an opportunity to vote in a Union Security election on June 23, 24, and 25, 1948. Don't fall for the glib talk that the Taft-Hartley Law is good for YOU!

It was never intended to be good for YOU. It was passed to weaken and smash labor Unions, at the request of the National Association of Manufacturers. Of course, the NAM, is not opposed to Unions . . . provided they are small, weak and powerless to win benefits for their members.

● Taft, Hartley and the friends of the NAM in Congress passed this law to make it tough for men and women who are members of a Union and under Union contracts.

● Celanese workers are about to receive a first hand demonstration of how this unfair law works. Your Union contract expires on June 26, 1948. Before ANY TYPE of Union Security clause can be included in your next contract Local 1874 must win a Union Security election, conducted by the National Labor Relations Board under Taft-Hartley Law conditions. The present Union Security clause could not be kept unless the election is won.

What Are The Taft-Hartley Law Conditions?

● Well, they need a lot of explanation. The election will NOT be held under the same conditions as you elect Senators and Congressmen and other public officials. They need only receive a majority of all votes cast and they are elected. Then they can sit in Congress and pass laws such as the Taft-Hartley Law!

● But for some strange and unexplained reason the working men and women who belong to labor Unions are put in a different class when voting for the Security of their Union than when they are voting for men to represent them in the United States Congress.

● You see the Taft-Hartley Law wants to give employees a chance to bust their own Unions! So it says that before a labor Union can have a Security clause a MAJORITY OF ALL ELIGIBLE EMPLOYEES must vote "YES". Remember this carefully, the Union must not win only a majority of ALL THOSE WHO VOTE, but a majority of all employees eligible to vote, whether members of the Union or not!!!

● Perhaps you are wondering about Celanese employees who are sick, in hospital, on vacation or absent from work on election day for any other reason . . . or about those who fail to vote? Well, if they don't come out of hospital, from their sick beds, off their vacations or off their jobs and vote YES, they are automatically counted as voting AGAINST Union Security!

● You may say this is a very undemocratic and unfair procedure. We agree with you . . . but that is what the Taft-Hartley Law decrees and that is how the Union Security election of Celanese Local 1874 will be conducted.

● Fortunately, the Union locals who have already held their Union Security elections in the textile industry were fully aware of this "joker" in the Union busters law. Until June 5, 1948 there were 498 locals of the Textile Workers Union of America who won smashing victories and only 3 locals lost out their Union Security to the Taft-Hartley scheme.

● Here at Celanese we must work hard to have Local 1874 play its part as the biggest local in the Textile Workers Union of America by rolling up a smashing "YES" vote and register the biggest favorable vote yet given for Union Security!

● Every Celanese employee should make up his or her mind that they will vote in the election regardless of any obstacles or inconvenience. They should vote "YES" for Union Security and all the benefits which a strong Local Union brings, with a strong working contract. Celanese workers still remember the bad old days before they built their Union . . . they have no desire to go back to them.

● The National Labor Relations Board has scheduled June 23, 24 and 25 as election days. Voting will be at thirteen locations within the plant. The places and hours will be announced on Wednesday.

● Meanwhile, be ready! Keep your Union strong! Hold fast to that which is good! Do not be confused. March on with the thousands of Textile Workers who have refused to let their local Unions fall victim to those who seek to destroy them!

Jane Gilchrist Becomes Bride Of Paul A. Stair

Ceremony Performed By Rev. Bowersox

The marriage of Miss Eleanor Jane Gilchrist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Gilchrist, 504 Magruder Street, to Paul A. Stair, LaVale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Stair, Johnstown, Pa., took place Saturday at 2:30 at the home of the bride's parents.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Hixon T. Bowersox, D. D., of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, before the fireplace which was banked with fern and arrangements of white delphenium, candytuff and lillies.

Mrs. William T. Mather, III, Westminster, the former Miss Naomi Enfield, was matron of honor and the bride's only attendant. Howard Irwin was best man for Mr. Stair.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Sue Vernay Thomas, Hickory, Pa., gave a short program of piano music. Miss Thomas also played the wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of sheer white crepe, fashioned with cap sleeves and peplum banded with lace. She carried a white Bible with white orchid marker and short streamers of white satin ribbon and stephanotis. A spray of the same flowers was worn in her hair.

Her matron of honor wore a sheer blue crepe and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow carnations and white iris.

Mrs. Stair is a graduate of Allegany High School and Western Maryland College, where she was a member of Iota Gamma Chi sorority. She is a charter member of the Junior Woman's Civic Club, a member of the board of directors of the Cumberland YMCA and of Maryland 4-H All Stars honorary organization.

Mr. Stair is a graduate of Penn State College, State College, Pa., and a member of Chi Phi fraternity. He is a chemical engineer at the Celanese Corporation of America, a member of the Cumberland Civic Orchestra, the American Chemical Society and the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

A reception followed the ceremony and the refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of white delphenium, white roses and gardenias with tall silver candelabra with white tapers on either side.

After a wedding trip through New York state and the New England states the couple will reside at 600 Ridgewood Avenue. For traveling the bride wore a suit of navy blue faille with white accessories and a corsage of white orchids.

Collared lizards can run on their hind legs for a distance of 30 years or more.

Twiggtown Club Begins Third Of Proposed Projects

At the June meeting of the Twiggtown Homemakers Club plans were formulated for filling hand bags as gifts to be sent to women overseas who still lack everyday necessities such a needles and pins. This will be the third of four projects mapped out for this year by the County Committee on International Relations.

The handbags to be filled in July may be used ones in good condition and are to be filled with the small necessities and luxuries so vital to happiness of women of any nationality, Mrs. Austin D. Twigg, the chairman said. Suggestions include needles, pins, hairpins, thread, thimble, buttons, handkerchiefs, note books, pencils, nail files, combs, face powder, chewing gum and mints.

The first project was the collection of warm clothing for shipment in February; the second, the packing of bath towel gift kits for shipment in May and the fourth will be shoe box Christmas gift packages to be packed at the October meeting of clubs throughout the county for shipment early in November.

Mrs. Grace Cleveland, Mrs. Edith Bowman and Mrs. June Robinette were hostesses to the club at their home, Hinkle Road. Mrs. Boyd Rice and Mrs. Susanna Dolan were guests.

Mrs. P. W. Bottenfield opened the meeting with the poem, "Unless You Help," by Leola Archer, and a song, "He Knows It All." Preceding the singing of "Dixie" by the group, Mrs. Charles Barger, Musical chairman, told briefly the story of its origin. She said how it was another famous Confederate song composed by a Northerner, Daniel Emmett, on a Sunday afternoon in 1859 for the walkaround song of a minstrel show. She explained that the word Dixie did not indicate the South but a plantation on Long Island, whose owner's name was Dix. The plantation was worked by free Negroes and they thought of it as heaven. The words were changed slightly when adopted by the Confederates.

Mrs. Wade Rice reported on the training meeting given for the Health and Nutrition chairmen by Miss Margaret McPheeters, Nutrition specialist from the University of Maryland Extension Service. She told of the demonstrations of food temperature for freezing, both in packages and jars, using strawberries, chickens gelatin salad, steak, fish and sausage.

The RWSC chairman announced that Miss Rose Ann Willison, daughter of Mrs. J. Nelson Willison, club president, had been chosen one of six girls in the state to assist at the unveiling of the portrait of Miss Venia M. Kellar to be presented to the university by the Homemakers of Maryland on Thursday during RWSC at College Park.

Mrs. George Bottenfield, Art chairman, told of the selection of 202 paintings by such famous artists as Rembrant and Van Gough, which were found hidden in salt mines in Germany and which were shown at the National Art Gallery, Washington. She also told of a bill before Congress about sending them over the nation to raise money for German children.

Mrs. Twigg, Reading chairman, reviewed "One God, the Ways We Worship Him," by Florence May Fitch. She said the book tells briefly and singly of the Jewish way, the Catholic way and the Protestant way. Speaking of the Christian religion the author says, "Even though they all worship one God all people do not worship in the same way. In America each person may make his own choice. Freedom of religion is one of the rights of free men, but most people follow the religion of their parents and there are many who do not pay much attention to religion, but all are influenced by it, for they live in a country which was founded on faith in God."

Two games, Jumble Bird Names and A Horse Wise Quiz, were directed by Mrs. Marvin Hinkle, Recreation chairman, in which Mrs. George Bottenfield and Mrs. Boyd Rice won prizes. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Wade Rice on July 10.

MARRIED HERE-- William Homer Standiford is shown as he helped his bride cut the wedding cake at the reception held Saturday following the wedding ceremony in SS. Peter and Paul Church. Mrs. Standiford is the former Miss Mary Catherine Schaaf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Schaaf, 331 Independence Street. Mr. Standiford is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Illiam, Havre de Grace.

Miss Joy Wilson Will Be Entertained At Shower

Members Of Bridal Party Are Named

Miss Mary Jane Edwards and Mrs. Robert McColley will entertain in honor of Miss Joy Wilson tonight. The party will be a miscellaneous bridal shower and is to be held at the home of Mrs. McColley, 417 Louisiana Avenue.

Miss Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin H. Wilson, Bedford Road, is to become the bride of William Bruce Douglas, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Douglas, LaVale, Saturday. The wedding ceremony is to be solemnized at 4 o'clock in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, with Rev. Hixon T. Bowersox, D.D., officiating.

Miss Lucille McKay, Zelienople, Pa., will be Miss Wilson's maid of honor and her bridesmaids will be Miss Miriam Douglas, a sister of the prospective bridegroom, Miss Norma Avers, Miss Jessie Gilbert, Swarthmore, Pa., and Mrs. James C. Metcalfe, Chestertown, the former Mary Jane Ervin.

Robert P. McDowell, Canton, O., formerly of Cumberland, will be Mr. Douglas' best man. Ushers will be Ward N. Hauger, Jr., Miles G. Thompson, Jr., Edward J. Britt, Wilkinsburg, Pa., Richard H. Jenney, Haverford, Pa., Frederick W. Lehman, Philadelphia, Robert Stuckenrath, Lewistown, Pa., and Thomas D. Truitt, West Chester, Pa.

Miss Douglas was hostess at a luncheon given in compliment of Miss Wilson and Miss Jeanne Hazelwood, fiancee of William B. Somerville, at the Cumberland Country Club, Saturday. Blue delphenium and yellow carnations centered the table and assorted spring flowers were used in the decorations throughout the room. Covers were laid for approximately 40 guests.

Miss Joy Wilson Will Be Entertained At Shower

Members Of Bridal Party Are Named

Miss Mary Jane Edwards and Mrs. Robert McColley will entertain in honor of Miss Joy Wilson tonight. The party will be a miscellaneous bridal shower and is to be held at the home of Mrs. McColley, 417 Louisiana Avenue.

Miss Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin H. Wilson, Bedford Road, is to become the bride of William Bruce Douglas, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Douglas, LaVale, Saturday. The wedding ceremony is to be solemnized at 4 o'clock in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, with Rev. Hixon T. Bowersox, D.D., officiating.

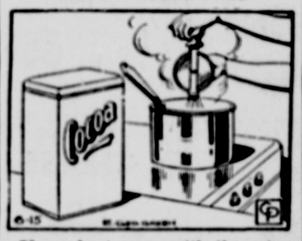
Miss Lucille McKay, Zelienople, Pa., will be Miss Wilson's maid of honor and her bridesmaids will be Miss Mirlam Douglas, a sister of the prospective bridegroom, Miss Norma Avers, Miss Jessie Gilbert, Swarthmore, Pa., and Mrs. James C. Metcalfe, Chestertown, the former Mary Jane Ervin.

Robert P. McDowell, Canton, O., formerly of Cumberland, will be Mr. Douglas' best man. Ushers will be Ward N. Hauger, Jr., Miles G. Thompson, Jr., Edward J. Britt, Wilkinsburg, Pa., Richard H. Jenney, Haverford, Pa., Frederick W. Lehman, Philadelphia, Robert Stuckenrath, Lewistown, Pa., and Thomas D. Truitt, West Chester, Pa.

Miss Douglas was hostess at a luncheon given in compliment of Miss Wilson and Miss Jeanne Hazelwood, fiancee of William B. Somerville, at the Cumberland Country Club, Saturday. Blue delphenium and yellow carnations centered the table and assorted spring flowers were used in the decorations throughout the room. Covers were laid for approximately 40 guests.

As long as they are tattooed, Tahitian natives who take off their clothes are not immodest.

WIFE PRESERVERS



If you beat cocoa with the rotary egg beater when it is made, scum will not form over the top.

Mary A. Pfister Honored At Shower

Miss Lou Ann Wright and Miss Joan Smith entertained in honor of Miss Mary Alice Pfister with a kitchen shower Saturday night at the home of Miss Wright, Park Heights.

Miss Pfister is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pfister, Mt. Savage. She will become the bride of Frank Shipe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Shipe, Mt. Savage, June 30. The bride-elect is a graduate of Beall High School and is employed by the Bell Telephone Company here.

A pink and white color scheme was carried out in a decorated umbrella suspended from the chandelier, with streamers leading to gifts displayed on the dining room table. A large pink and white cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom centered the refreshment table. Roses and peonies decorated the home.

Guests were Miss Margaret Baker, Miss Louise Mathews, Miss Louise Lancaster, Miss Therea Weimer, Miss Rose Aldrich, Mrs. George Hilton, Mrs. Henry Pfister, Mrs. William Rooney, Miss Mary Patterson, Mrs. Harry A. Smith, Mrs. M. C. Wright, Mrs. Glenn Wright, Mrs. Jack Weber, Mrs. Merrill Barnes and Miss Jackie Lee Weber.

Mother Talks To Son Stationed In Germany

Cpl. Ronald D. Jewell, stationed in Berlin, Germany, celebrated his 20th birthday by calling his mother, Mrs. Alice Jewell, Route 6, Cumberland. The call was made Saturday and Mrs. Jewell reports the "reception was very good."

A former employe of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, Cpl. Jewell trained at Aberdeen. Of his two years in service he has been with the constabulary in Germany for one and one-half years.

Brennan Named City Fire Chief

Assistant Fire Chief John E. Brennan, a veteran of 34 years with the Cumberland Fire Department, will be the city's new fire chief.

His appointment by Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan was confirmed by a four-to-one vote of Mayor and Council yesterday. Mayor Thomas S. Post

The chief-elect will assume his new duties July 15, succeeding Chief Reid C. Hoenicka, who is retiring on pension July 19 because of the city's age ruling.

Promoted with Brennan were Capt. Jeremiah T. Defibaugh and Capt. Robert P. Reid, who become assistant chiefs. Their appointments are effective July 15. Defibaugh has been with the department 26 years and Reid 27 years.

Mayor Post took exception to appointment of Brennan as chief, he said, because several men finished higher on a recent Civil Service examination.

"I will not support that order," the mayor declared, "because I would hesitate to support anyone being jumped from fourth to first place in the qualifications."

Commissioner Keegan explained the men were chosen "on seniority, equal ambition and to raise the standards and morale of the fire department."

He said Defibaugh will be made an instructor in firefighting methods when he begins his duties as assistant chief.

Council Grants Permission For Railroad Siding

Allender, Mayor Clash At Meeting

After prolonged argument by both sides, the Mayor and Council yesterday granted the C. D. Kenny Company conditional permission to build a warehouse and railroad siding on a vacant lot on Chase Street, between Beall and Paca Streets.

The conditional permission, which carries a 90-day cancellation clause, was granted unanimously only after three motions were introduced and Mayor Thomas S. Post was attacked verbally by a local labor leader.

Discussion on the project consumed more than a half hour, with labor leaders arguing for granting of the permit and school officials and a member of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission arguing against it.

It was during this discussion that a flareup between F. Patrick Allender, business agent of the local carpenters' union, and Mayor Post broke out.

The first of three motions to grant the permit was made by Commissioner Edgar Reynolds. It was seconded by Mayor Post. After James Alfred Avirett, chairman of the planning commission, attacked the motion on the grounds the proposed warehouse and siding would create a "dangerous hazard to the children of the West Side School," the mayor withdrew his second to the motion.

This action by the mayor caused Allender to jump up and demand of the mayor why he withdrew his second. The mayor neither replied to Allender nor looked at him. Allender then repeated his question, and added this second one.

"Did you withdraw your second, Mr. Mayor, because Mr. Allender is supporting that thing?"

Again, Mayor Post neither replied to the interrogation nor looked at his questioner.

A few minutes later, Allender rose and accused Mayor Post of insulting his organization. At this, the mayor apologized to the union leader, saying he had not meant to insult the union.

Allender made a strong plea for granting of the permit for the warehouse and siding. He was joined by other labor leaders.

C. E. Stutzman, president of the Allegany Trades Council, asserted "it will be beneficial to the city to have it (the warehouse) as the distribution center for this company, as it will furnish employment for quite a number of people. It is our understanding that this site is the only one that seems suitable for this purpose, and we earnestly request that this lease be granted."

In a letter to council, C. E. Bramble, recording secretary of the Building and Construction Trades Council, said "this proposed distribution center will furnish employment for Cumberland citizens and create a small industry, which we feel will be a good thing for the city."

Charles Herath, president of the West Side Parent-Teacher Association; Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Schools, and Avirett all protested against the plan. Their protests asserted there would be "great danger to the children" and much noise caused by the backing and loading and unloading of the freight cars.

Attorneys Oppose Rule Change In Criminal Cases

Association Defeats Committee Proposal

Paul M. Fletcher, assistant state's attorney, was among members of the State's Attorneys Association meeting in Ocean City over the weekend, on record opposing a rule which would give judges the right to instruct juries on the law in criminal cases.

Fletcher declared, "The Court of Appeals is not being fair and above board with the people of Maryland" in seeking the rule.

One of nine new rules of procedure in criminal cases, proposed by a sub-group of the Court of Appeals standing committee, would give judges the right to advise juries provided the jury is told it is the final judge of the law as well as the facts.

Fletcher contended that if the appellate tribunal wants to permit judges to give such advisory instructions to juries, then there should be an effort made to change the constitution accordingly.

Anselm Sodaro, William J. O'Donnell and J. Harold Grady, Baltimore assistant prosecutors led the losing fight to have the rule approved.

J. Bernard Wells, state's attornty of Baltimore and president of the Association, opposed the rule. He contended that under the present jury system, Maryland had maintained an enviable record in the trial of cases. He said he had full confidence in juries of the State and opposed "change for the sake of change."

4-H Club Makes Plans For Summer Activities

Summer activities of the Junior Extension 4-H Club include an All Star meeting next month, a corn roast following the August session at Roy Shryock's home and the appointment of a delegate for the Short Course and Club Week.

Douglas Heavner has been nominated as delegate for Club Week. Members of the committee are Marjorit Twigg, chairman, and Gloria Bohn, Harry Johnston and Joseph Steger.

At the club's last meeting held recently at the Green Ridge CCC camp, it was decided to dispense with the regular July meet. The Farm Bureau wants a delegate from the Junior Extension to attend board meetings as a non-voting member so the two groups can cooperate better. The president of the club will attend.

The enrollment fee for Weekend Camp will be $3 and a 4-H boy and girl to be selected by Gloria Bohn and Joseph Steger will be guest of the Junior Extension. Included in the camp recreation committees are:

Saturday night program, Ursula Lindner, chairman, and Marjorie Twigg, Ada Ford and Jean McCoy; Sunday morning Vespers, Louise Morgan Mace, chairman, and Rose Mary Iliff; Sunday afternoon, Betty Harper, chairman, and Jack Morgan, Rose Marie Grabenstein and Edith Lewis.

Flintstone Motorist Receives Heavy Fine

Allen E. Bridges, Route 2, Flintstone, was fined a total of $107.90 yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court after pleading not guilty on two motor charges.

The first count, leaving the scene of an accident, cost the Flintstone man $51.45, while a reckless driving count cost him $56.45. A companion of Bridges was fined $3 earlier in the proceedings.

Skid marks, which were photographed at the scene of the mishap, near 706 Baltimore Avenue, helped to convict Bridges, who narrowly missed two small boys at play when his car ran wild, crashing through a hedge and upsetting in the yard of Mrs. Clara Rice. The skid marks revealed that the car traveled about 175 feet before it came to a stop.

First Methodist School To Begin June 21

The First Methodist Church will conduct a Vacation Bible School from June 21 through July 2. The session will be from 9 until noon, Monday through Friday. The school will be for children from 4 to 14 years of age, and all of these who are not enrolled in any other school are welcome to attend.

A full program of play, handicraft, study and worship is planned, based on the idea of teaching Christian principles and developing Christian character.

The committee in charge of arrangements is Rev. William J. Elliott, Robert Llewellyn, Miss Audrey Reckley and Mrs. Albert Marple. Mrs. Dent B. Rice will direct the school. Mrs. Brooke Heavner will be in charge of the Beginners department assisted by Mrs. Earl Sills and Miss Lois Stine. Mrs. Dayton Eversole will be in charge of the Primary department assisted by Mrs. Austin Stine, Mrs. Charles Linaberg, Margaret Wertz and Mary Davis. Mrs. George Sullivan will direct the Juniors assisted by Mrs. Robert Llewellyn, Theodore Luzier and Alice Snyder.

During the school period special attention will be given to the organization of a Junior choir, directed by Mrs. Margery Chambers, director of church music. Another special feature of the school will be the taking of colored slides of the various departments in their activities. These will be shown on the screen during the closing program July 2.

A radio tube the size of a grain of rice was developed in 1947.

My Pet Peeve

(Maybe It's Yours, Too!)
Says YES MAN

Chet Coughenour

I guess every one of us has a secret gripe. Something or somebody we can very well do without. My pet peeve is a rude clerk or sales person who thinks you've got to do business with his company and treats you like a poor relative.

Maybe I'm over-sensitive . . . maybe people really don't object to this treatment. But my staff and I have always believed that the customer is doing us a pretty big favor when he enters our office—and, at Personal Finance Co., we're not shy about letting him know how grateful we are that he's chosen us.

And my staff is especially good at showing appreciation because from the day they join PERSONAL, they are trained to treat the customer as they themselves, would like to be treated.

Cumberland folks who want a loan must like the courtesy and friendliness they find at PERSONAL FINANCE CO., because so many of them have recommended us to their friends. Which proves to me, that we've been successful in doing what we set out to do; provide Cumberland folks with a friendly loan service in which honesty and the ability to make monthly payments are the chief requirements to getting a loan.

We never recommend needless borrowing. BUT if you can use $25 to $750 for a worth-while purpose—consolidating bills, repairing your home, paying medical bills—and you want to get the cash in the way that suits you best—on salary, furniture, or car I'd appreciate the chance to say "yes" to YOU . . . just as I do to 4 out of every 5 who apply for a loan here.

Just phone 721 . . . or, if you're in the neighborhood, come in and ask for me—Chet Coughenour. PERSONAL FINANCE CO., is located on the 2nd floor of the Liberty Trust Building. Open Monday thru Friday, 9 until 5. Closed Saturdays. Evenings by appointment.

During the school period special attention will be given to the organization of a Junior choir, directed by Mrs. Margery Chambers, director of church music. Another special feature of the school will be the taking of colored slides of the various departments in their activities. These will be shown on the screen during the closing program July 2.

A radio tube the size of a grain of rice was developed in 1947.

My Pet Peeve

(Maybe It's Yours, Too!)
Says YES MAN

Chet Coughenour

I guess every one of us has a secret gripe. Something or somebody we can very well do without. My pet peeve is a rude clerk or sales person who thinks you've got to do business with his company and treats you like a poor relative.

Maybe I'm over-sensitive . . . maybe people really don't object to this treatment. But my staff and I have always believed that the customer is doing us a pretty big favor when he enters our office—and, at Personal Finance Co., we're not shy about letting him know how grateful we are that he's chosen us.

And my staff is especially good at showing appreciation because from the day they join PERSONAL, they are trained to treat the customer as they themselves, would like to be treated.

Cumberland folks who want a loan must like the courtesy and friendliness they find at PERSONAL FINANCE CO., because so many of them have recommended us to their friends. Which proves to me, that we've been successful in doing what we set out to do; provide Cumberland folks with a friendly loan service in which honesty and the ability to make monthly payments are the chief requirements to getting a loan.

We never recommend needless borrowing. BUT if you can use $25 to $750 for a worth-while purpose—consolidating bills, repairing your home, paying medical bills—and you want to get the cash in the way that suits you best—on salary, furniture, or car I'd appreciate the chance to say "yes" to YOU . . . just as I do to 4 out of every 5 who apply for a loan here.

Just phone 721 . . . or, if you're in the neighborhood, come in and ask for me—Chet Coughenour. PERSONAL FINANCE CO., is located on the 2nd floor of the Liberty Trust Building. Open Monday thru Friday, 9 until 5. Closed Saturdays. Evenings by appointment.

Fort Hill And Allegany Play Today For Bi-State Title

Folk Wins 8th Straight Bout, Wallops Pratt

Walker, Klosterman, And Wade Notch Wins

Jimmie Folk, Royale A. C. junior lightweight, notched his eighth consecutive ring triumph last night when he dealt out a thorough trouncing to Ray Pratt, 122-pound negro of Portage, Pa., in one of the eight three-round matches in St. Mary's Athletic Club initial outdoor show of the season at Community Park.

A crowd of 523 paying customers witnessed the dull program.

Pratt, a slim southpaw, jolted Folk with several hard lefts to the head and body at the start of the match then Jimmie opened up with both barrels and went on to win by a decisive margin. Folk floored his opponent five times in the three-round contest and Referee Jim Kelley had counted six over the fallen Portage boy on the fifth knockdown when the gong halted hostilities.

Walker Pulls Upset

Perhaps the biggest upset on the card was recorded in the 6th bout in which Bill Walker, local 185-pound negro, outlasted the highly touted Jim Stewart, St. Mary's A. C. 185 pounder, to earn a 2-1 decision. Walker did not appear to be in the best of condition for the two-minute rounds and petered out late in the second stanza but he possessed plenty of courage and stayed in there to the finish to win the "duke." Walker floored Stewart with the first punch landed in the match and Jim fought cautiously thereafter.

In what was billed as the "main go," Tojo Wade, the clowning 150-pounder from Portage, Pa., substituting for Lou Kozarek, belted out a 3-0 decision over Bill Frazier, local 157-pounder. It was a poor feature bout.

Frankie Taranto, Portage 138-pounder, conceded Melvin Washington, local welterweight, ten pounds, and gave the local boy a walloping over the three-round route. Taranto jolted Melvin all over the small ring in the final round and the latter appeared to be lucky to go the distance. Taranto's win gave the Portage quartet an even break for the evening.

In the curtain raiser Frankie Lisanti, 130, St. Mary's A. C. won an unanimous decision over Russell Bean of the Diamond Athletic Club. It was Lisanti's fifth victory in seven starts as an amateur.

"Sonny" Lafferty Scores

"Sonny" Lafferty belted out a 3-0 verdict over Tommy Odenthal, Portage flyweight, in bout No. 2. The triumph was Lafferty's ninth against two losses.

Jimmie Deetz, Diamond A. C. flyweight, hit Tommy Lynn, of St. Mary's A. C. with everything but the ring posts to decisively defeat the latter in the 7th match on the card.

Jack Klosterman counter-punched his way to a 3-0 win over Bill Lafferty in the final match. Lafferty started out strongly but Klosterman found the range in the second round and romped off with a popular decision.

Jim Kelley refereed all of the matches. There were no knockouts registered. Gilbert Becker and Jack Rorick were the judges, "Bobby" Cavanaugh, timer, and Nelson W. Russler, announcer.

It was announced that the Diamond A. C. will hold the next show Monday, June 21 at the State Armory with "Skeets" Starkey and Bill Mann as the main go principals.

Manges Hit .563 To Lead Batters In School Loop

Shaw Topped Boxmen With 5 And 1 Record

Jimmie Manges, Fort Hill shortstop, topped the hitters of the Bi-State Interscholastic Conference during the 1948 season with an average of .563 for 10 games.

Manges rapped out 18 hits in 32 trips to the plate.

Emerick of Hyndman High was the runner-up with .452 and Earl "Lefty" Bruce was third with .419.

Clarence "Buck" Shaw of Fort Hill turned in the highest pitching average of .833 by winning five games and losing one. He made a clean sweep of the games he pitched against Allegany and LaSalle by beating each team twice. Jim Clingan of Allegany won eight and lost two.

Pat "Lefty" Creegan of LaSalle was the league's strikeout king with 91 victims. The averages:

Connie Mack Fires Potter, Dietrich Is Given Release

Latter Is Cut Loose At His Own Request

PITTSBURGH, June 14 (AP) — Connie Mack exploded one of his loudest verbal blasts in 62 years of baseball trials and tribulations today after cutting loose two veteran pitchers.

The 85-year-old owner-manager of the Philadelphia Athletics fired Nelson Potter, 36-year-old relief hurler. And he gave Bill Dietrich, dean of American League pitchers at 38, his unconditional release subject to waiver by other American League clubs.

Potter got the pink slip after losing yesterday's first game to the St. Louis Browns. Dietrich was released at his own request.

Quite frankly, Connie said he'd made "mistakes" on both men. While he was at it, the head man of the Athletics listed another "mistake"—selling pitcher Russ Christopher.

Here for an exhibition game against the Pittsburgh Pirates, the mild-mannered Philadelphia leader fairly bristled as he explained his firing of Potter.

"I said, 'were you doing your best out there?'

Paid $20,000 For Potter

"I also said to him, 'I paid $20,000 for you and that was my mistake. I don't care how good any player ever was, has been or could be. All I care about is how much good he is now.'

"That is what I've been telling all of them ever since I have been in this business."

Mack went on to say, "I admit I made a lot of bad talk in what I had to say to both Dietrich and Potter but damn it all we're out to win and when you don't win you don't play and you don't stay with my ball club."

Potter left for his home at Mt. Morris, Ill., last night following the unfortunate clubhouse incident.

It all happened after Potter relieved Lefty Lou Brissie in the eighth inning of the first game against St. Louis with the bases loaded, none out and one run in. The A's led 5 to 2.

Potter walked Joe Schultz and Paul Lehner socked a single to left, the tying run scoring on the blow and the winning run coming in on an error by outfielder Ray Coleman on the same play. Mack waved Potter to the bench after another St. Louis single drove in a run.

Mack had his run-in with Dietrich earlier.

The bespectacled right hander complained about his lack of pitching assignments and said that if he couldn't get his regular turn he'd prefer an unconditional release.

"You have it," retorted the A's manager.

Referring to Dietrich today, Mack said, "he cost me $35,000. I paid him $10,000 for signing and $12,500 each for last year and this year. I paid him in full when I let him go yesterday."

"I am always making mistakes," Mack said as he let loose pent-up ire at the two pitchers.

Admits He Made Mistake

"I made a mistake in letting Russ Christopher go," he said, referring to the pre-season trade that sent the string bean Christopher to the Cleveland Indians in a cash deal.

Asked what he intended to do about the situation that found him with only five healthy pitchers on hand, Mack said he had several deals in mind but did not desire to discuss them since he wasn't sure they could be completed.

Riggs And Kramer Score In Tourney

Pails And Segura Also Cop Matches

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., June 14 (INS)—Bobby Riggs, the defending champion from Altadena, Calif., finally swung into action today in the 21st annual National Professional Tennis Tournament.

As expected, Riggs made short work of Ernest Koslan, an unseeded player from White Plains, N. Y., 6-1, 6-1, 6-2, to gain the field of sixteen.

Jack Kramer, who is expected to give Riggs the most trouble if they collide in the final, played his second match of the tourney and experienced no difficulty.

Kramer, who is second-seeded, won from Robert Stubbs of Scarsdale, N. Y., 6-1, 6-0,6-2 to move into the field of eight.

All three of the foreign seeded players also advanced. Top seeded Dinny Pails toppled George Seewagen in a first round contest, and third-seeded Pierre Pellizza also gained the field of sixteen with a 6-1, 6-2, 6-0 win over Bill Kenney of Philadelphia.

Francisco (Pancho) Segura took his second match with a 6-4, 6-0, 6-3 victory over sixth-seeded Carl Earn of Los Angeles.

Ben Hogan Has Won $17,597 This Year

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—Ben Hogan's triumph in the National Open Golf Tournament has raised him to a not unfamiliar status—that of leading money winner of the year.

According to Professional Golfers' Association headquarters in Chicago, Hogan has now won $17,597.50 so far in 1948. The previous pacesetter, Lloyd Mangrum, now is second with $15,945. Other top money winners are Jimmy Demaret, $13,518; Bobby Locke, $13,218; Skip Alexander, $11,753; Johnny Palmer, $10,259.

POTTER SAYS MACK GOT EXCITED ABOUT LOSING BALL GAME

MT. MORRIS, Ill., June 14 (AP)—Pitcher Nelson Potter, fired by Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics, said today that "Mr. Mack just got excited about losing a ball game and flew off the handle."

Potter, arriving at his home after his dismissal in Philadelphia yesterday, said he did not exchange words with Mack when the venerable Athletic leader gave him a verbal lashing in the club-house.

"It isn't true, as Mr. Mack inferred, that I wasn't trying my best," said Potter of his relief appearance in the first game of a double-header against the St. Louis Browns.

"I told him I was doing the best I could, but, otherwise, I kept quiet. I have respect for his age.

"That's the only time anything like that happened. I won two games for him in the New York series and I saved one in Detroit. He thought I was doing all right then."

Potter said he had been informed that his firing did not place him out of baseball, "it's the same as an unconditional release—I'll have to be waived on by the other clubs," he explained. "I'll sit tight and see what happens, because I still want to play ball. I think I have a couple of major league seasons still left."

Potter works at the printing trade during the off season.

Love Post Nine Scores 18-3 Win

Lonaconing Juniors Beat Westernport

LONACONING, June 14—James P. Love Post scored its second straight victory in the western division of the Mountain District American Legion Junior Baseball League by trouncing Victory Post of Westernport here today by the score of 18-3.

Coach Harry Sallada's aggregation rapped out 13 hits, three of which were credited to Billy Johnson, who finished on the mound for the locals. Ralston got credit for the victory. One of the two hits credited to Westernport was a triple by Moran. The Box:

Mrs. Hoffa Fires Second Possible In Rifle Match

Frostburg, Fort Hill And Cumberland Win

WESTERN MD. RIFLE LEAGUE

	Won	Lost
Cumberland	4	0
Fort Hill	3	0
Frostburg	3	1
LaVale	1	2
Cold Spring	1	2
Fort Ashby	0	3
Barton	0	4

Mrs. Arthur Hoffa fired a second consecutive 400 possible in the 4th Western Maryland Rifle League any sight rifle match completed on Monday evening at the range of the Frostburg Rifle Club. This all-time League record, however, still couldn't put the hard luck Barton gunners over the top. The opposition Frostburg team posted a score of 1965-93x against Barton's 1954-84x. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yates with 396-18x and 396-22x in that order, led the Mountain City group to victory.

The rampaging Cumberland shooters ran up a total of 1983-112x which was somewhat more than sufficient to best the LaVale team which sent only two riflemen to the meet. Cumberland's Leo Leasure missed his second possible by losing the last shot of his string at 100 yards, but scored a 399-29x to pace the club. Paul Nycum and Roy Ringler were 2nd and 3rd respectively with 397-28x and 397-22x.

Fort Hill grasped an easy win from Fort Ashby, 1951-80x to 1481-27x, when the West Virginia club had only four men to represent them. Bill Elgin sparked the Fort Hill effort with a 393-23x, followed by Frank Simpson, 390-16x, and Paddy Myers, 390-14x. Fort Ashby's Dick Kauffman with 391-12x placed first for the losers.

Cold Spring was unscheduled.

Cleveland's New Challenge

No matter who picks up the two big-league pennants, the most improved team in either league this season happens to be the Veeck-Boudreau outfit known as the Cleveland Indians.

And you can add that a younger manager by the name of Lou Boudreau, plus unexpectedly brilliant aid from Gene Bearden, have been two vital factors in this new challenge. Strangely enough, Bob Feller hasn't been one of the major factors—so far. Give him time, and don't overlook Bill Veeck.

Cleveland's 1948 bid takes me back to the spring and summer of 1906 and 1907. I happened to be covering baseball in Cleveland those seasons and the Indians should have galloped in both years.

They had Nig Clarke and Harry Bemis, both .320 hitters, back of the bat. They had Claude Rossman and George Stovall at first, Larry Lajoie at second, the amazing Tuck Turner at short, Bill Bradley at third with Harry Bay, Elmer Flick and others in the outfield.

Their pitching? Nobody but Addie Joss, one of the all-time greats, Earl Moore, Bill Bernhard, Otto Hess, Dusty Rhodes, Harry Eels and a few others. A brilliant staff.

They should have galloped. But in one Eastern trip they lost Stovall, because of an injury. Lajoie was spiked out of action for six weeks. Turner, injured and out. Bradley, a broken arm. Harry Bay, a broken leg.

All told, they lost nine men after piling up a lead of 150 points in percentages. There were nine .300 hitters on this Cleveland squad, and six able pitchers. But when you have nine men badly hurt with broken arms and broken legs, there is little you can do about it except pay hospital bills.

Addie Joss, the six-foot three-inch Michigan star, pitched eight one-hit games and a perfect game against Ed Walsh. Walsh fanned 15 men, allowed two hits, and was beaten 1 to 0. Addie Joss was one of the best pitchers I ever saw, and this includes Johnson, Mathewson, Alexander and Bob Feller.

Cleveland has been a jinx city in many ways. The city on Lake Erie has run into abnormally bad luck. The Indian wigwam has won exactly one pennant in 47 years of American League competition. Tris Speaker turned the trick in 1920, a matter of 28 years ago.

It might also be noted that in recent years, Cleveland has passed Chicago and Philadelphia as a sporting center and may slip by New York in this new campaign.

Cleveland draws 85,000 for the Navy-Notre Dame game—70,000 for Paul Brown's pro-football team and it would be no shock to see Cleveland pass the Yankees this season in total baseball attendance. This means something beyond 2,000,000. Cleveland more than deserves another world series before Bob Feller fades out.

Stars Who Missed Big Show

One world series weakness is that too many stars had no chance to show at the big show.

Napoleon Lajoie, one of the greatest, was never seen in this classic. And he was something to see, the most graceful ballplayer that ever lived. And one of the game's greatest natural hitters.

Walter Johnson came to his first world series when he was on his way over the mystic hill. The earlier Walter Johnson would have joined Mathewson with three shutouts.

Bob Feller has never had a world series appearance, and Feller also is just about over the top. Feller came to Cleveland twelve years ago and he has been pouring that fast ball through for a long time. The Navy also took three or four of his best years. The Navy caught him at his peak and held him a long time.

Also after returning to baseball, Feller has given a good part of his time to outside interests, which hasn't helped his baseball. But he still would be a shining spot in any post-season championship. Feller is one of the all-time greats. He won't have to bother about his spot at Cooperstown.

Rube Waddell, a world series natural, had his lone chance in 1905 where he suffered an injured shoulder in a train scuffle. So the Mathewson - Waddell duel never came off. That would have been up in the super class, the motion picture colossal stuff.

Still many stars have made the world series grade — Mathewson, Alexander, Cobb, Ruth, Collins, Jackson, Hornsby, Grove, Wagner, Brown, Kling, Plank, Coombs, Bender, Johnson, Wood, Foxx, Frisch, Dizzy Dean, Cochrane, Dickey, too many more to mention.

It would be nice to see Feller and a few more stars, who have never made the big show, slip under the tent and mingle with the elephants.

The best series this season would be the Indians and the Giants—Cleveland and New York. This series could handle more fans. Also we could forget a number of names that have lost their lustre. Maybe they could have been in front of the spotlight too long without contributing too much. No one inherits this spot with average play.

Ballard's	3	14	.176
Mower's	1	16	.059

Lacy's Delicatets hung it on the Amvets for the third straight time this season when they chalked up a 5-4 decision over the tossers from Wolford Post in a City Softball League game yesterday at Campobello.

The victory enabled the Delicatets to extend their lead to 3½ games over the runner-up Amvets.

Each team was limited to five hits. Jack Steiner's homer with two aboard featured the Amvets' four-run rally in the first inning but thereafter Ed Decker put the opposition on a goose egg diet. Steiner also rapped a single. Crabtree, Lacy's shortstop, committed four errors and led his team at the plate with two singles.

Astor Cab pulled up a half game in the rear of the Amvets by halting the winning streak of the North End Social and Athletic Club at Stitcher Field, 5 to 2.

Jim Gaffney belted his 6th homer of the season with two aboard in the 4th and also got a single while Bill Underdonk and Bill Cumiskey each connected for two singles. Whitman got two blows for North End, one being a circuit smash.

Charley Reed's Electricians edged Mower's Bakery at East Side Field, 5-4. "Pete" Elliott starred at short for the winners while Basilio accounted for two of the Electrician's eight hits with a double and single.

Dale Fuller racked up four hits in five trips to the plate as Ballard's Cleaners outslugged Joe's Crusaders on the Rolling Mill diamond by the score of 14-11. G. Barbe's catch of Wheeler's fly in short right field in the 6th was the best fielding play. The scores:

Fort Hill And Allegany Play Today For Bi-State Title

Walker, Klosterman, And Wade Notch Wins

Jimmie Folk, Royale A. C. junior lightweight, notched his eighth consecutive ring triumph last night when he dealt out a thorough trouncing to Ray Pratt, 122-pound negro of Portage, Pa., in one of the eight three-round matches in St. Mary's Athletic Club initial outdoor show of the season at Community Park.

A crowd of 523 paying customers witnessed the dull program.

Pratt, a slim southpaw, jolted Folk with several hard lefts to the head and body at the start of the match then Jimmie opened up with both barrels and went on to win by a decisive margin. Folk floored his opponent five times in the three-round contest and Referee Jim Kelley had counted six over the fallen Portage boy on the fifth knockdown when the gong halted hostilities.

Walker Pulls Upset

Perhaps the biggest upset on the card was recorded in the 6th bout in which Bill Walker, local 185-pound negro, outlasted the highly touted Jim Stewart, St. Mary's A. C. 185 pounder, to earn a 2-1 decision. Walker did not appear to be in the best of condition for the two-minute rounds and petered out late in the second stanza but he possessed plenty of courage and stayed in there to the finish to win the "duke." Walker floored Stewart with the first punch landed in the match and Jim fought cautiously thereafter.

In what was billed as the "main go," Tojo Wade, the clowning 150-pounder from Portage, Pa., substituting for Lou Kozarek, belted out a 3-0 decision over Bill Frazier, local 157-pounder. It was a poor feature bout.

Frankie Taranto, Portage 138-pounder, conceded Melvin Washington, local welterweight, ten pounds, and gave the local boy a walloping over the three-round route. Taranto jolted Melvin all over the small ring in the final round and the latter appeared to be lucky to go the distance. Taranto's win gave the Portage quartet an even break for the evening.

In the curtain raiser Frankie Lisanti, 130, St. Mary's A. C. won an unanimous decision over Russell Bean of the Diamond Athletic Club. It was Lisanti's fifth victory in seven starts as an amateur.

"Sonny" Lafferty Scores

"Sonny" Lafferty belted out a 3-0 verdict over Tommy Odenthal, Portage flyweight, in bout No. 2. The triumph was Lafferty's ninth against two losses.

Jimmie Deetz, Diamond A. C. flyweight, hit Tommy Lynn, of St. Mary's A. C. with everything but the ring posts to decisively defeat the latter in the 7th match on the card.

Jack Klosterman counter-punched his way to a 3-0 win over Bill Lafferty in the final match. Lafferty started out strongly but Klosterman found the range in the second round and romped off with a popular decision.

Jim Kelley refereed all of the matches. There were no knockouts registered. Gilbert Becker and Jack Rorick were the judges, "Bobby" Cavanaugh, timer, and Nelson W. Russler, announcer.

It was announced that the Diamond A. C. will hold the next show Monday, June 21 at the State Armory with "Skeets" Starkey and Bill Mann as the main go principals.

Manges Hit .563 To Lead Batters In School Loop

Shaw Topped Boxmen With 5 And 1 Record

Jimmie Manges, Fort Hill shortstop, topped the hitters of the Bi-State Interscholastic Conference during the 1948 season with an average of .563 for 10 games.

Manges rapped out 18 hits in 32 trips to the plate.

Emerick of Hyndman High was the runner-up with .452 and Earl "Lefty" Bruce was third with .419.

Clarence "Buck" Shaw of Fort Hill turned in the highest pitching average of .833 by winning five games and losing one. He made a clean sweep of the games he pitched against Allegany and LaSalle by beating each team twice. Jim Clingan of Allegany won eight and lost two.

Pat "Lefty" Creegan of LaSalle was the league's strikeout king with 91 victims. The averages:

Connie Mack Fires Potter, Dietrich Is Given Release

Latter Is Cut Loose At His Own Request

PITTSBURGH, June 14 (AP) — Connie Mack exploded one of his loudest verbal blasts in 62 years of baseball trials and tribulations today after cutting loose two veteran pitchers.

The 85-year-old owner-manager of the Philadelphia Athletics fired Nelson Potter, 36-year-old relief hurler. And he gave Bill Dietrich, dean of American League pitchers at 38, his unconditional release subject to waiver by other American League clubs.

Potter got the pink slip after losing yesterday's first game to the St. Louis Browns. Dietrich was released at his own request.

Quite frankly, Connie said he'd made "mistakes" on both men. While he was at it, the head man of the Athletics listed another "mistake"—selling pitcher Russ Christopher.

Here for an exhibition game against the Pittsburgh Pirates, the mild-mannered Philadelphia leader fairly bristled as he explained his firing of Potter.

"I said, 'were you doing your best out there?'

Paid $20,000 For Potter

"I also said to him, 'I paid $20,000 for you and that was my mistake. I don't care how good any player ever was, has been or could be. All I care about is how much good he is now.'

"That is what I've been telling all of them ever since I have been in this business."

Mack went on to say, "I admit I made a lot of bad talk in what I had to say to both Dietrich and Potter but damn it all we're out to win and when you don't win you don't play and you don't stay with my ball club."

Potter left for his home at Mt. Morris, Ill., last night following the unfortunate clubhouse incident.

It all happened after Potter relieved Lefty Lou Brissie in the eighth inning of the first game against St. Louis with the bases loaded, none out and one run in. The A's led 5 to 2.

Potter walked Joe Schultz and Paul Lehner socked a single to left, the tying run scoring on the blow and the winning run coming in on an error by outfielder Ray Coleman on the same play. Mack waved Potter to the bench after another St. Louis single drove in a run.

Mack had his run-in with Dietrich earlier.

The bespectacled right hander complained about his lack of pitching assignments and said that if he couldn't get his regular turn he'd prefer an unconditional release.

"You have it," retorted the A's manager.

Referring to Dietrich today, Mack said, "he cost me $35,000. I paid him $10,000 for signing and $12,500 each for last year and this year. I paid him in full when I let him go yesterday."

"I am always making mistakes," Mack said as he let loose pent-up ire at the two pitchers.

Admits He Made Mistake

"I made a mistake in letting Russ Christopher go," he said, referring to the pre-season trade that sent the string bean Christopher to the Cleveland Indians in a cash deal.

Asked what he intended to do about the situation that found him with only five healthy pitchers on hand, Mack said he had several deals in mind but did not desire to discuss them since he wasn't sure they could be completed.

POTTER SAYS MACK GOT EXCITED ABOUT LOSING BALL GAME

MT. MORRIS, Ill., June 14 (AP)—Pitcher Nelson Potter, fired by Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics, said today that "Mr. Mack just got excited about losing a ball game and flew off the handle."

Potter, arriving at his home after his dismissal in Philadelphia yesterday, said he did not exchange words with Mack when the venerable Athletic leader gave him a verbal lashing in the club-house.

"It isn't true, as Mr. Mack inferred, that I wasn't trying my best," said Potter of his relief appearance in the first game of a double-header against the St. Louis Browns.

"I told him I was doing the best I could, but, otherwise, I kept quiet. I have respect for his age.

"That's the only time anything like that happened. I won two games for him in the New York series and I saved one in Detroit. He thought I was doing all right then."

Potter said he had been informed that his firing did not place him out of baseball, "it's the same as an unconditional release—I'll have to be waived on by the other clubs," he explained. "I'll sit tight and see what happens, because I still want to play ball. I think I have a couple of major league seasons still left."

Potter works at the printing trade during the off season.

Lonaconing Juniors Beat Westernport

LONACONING, June 14—James P. Love Post scored its second straight victory in the western division of the Mountain District American Legion Junior Baseball League by trouncing Victory Post of Westernport here today by the score of 18-3.

Coach Harry Sallada's aggregation rapped out 13 hits, three of which were credited to Billy Johnson, who finished on the mound for the locals. Ralston got credit for the victory. One of the two hits credited to Westernport was a triple by Moran. The Box:

Riggs And Kramer Score In Tourney

Pails And Segura Also Cop Matches

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., June 14 (INS)—Bobby Riggs, the defending champion from Altadena, Calif., finally swung into action today in the 21st annual National Professional Tennis Tournament.

As expected, Riggs made short work of Ernest Koslan, an unseeded player from White Plains, N. Y., 6-1, 6-1, 6-2, to gain the field of sixteen.

Jack Kramer, who is expected to give Riggs the most trouble if they collide in the final, played his second match of the tourney and experienced no difficulty.

Kramer, who is second-seeded, won from Robert Stubbs of Scarsdale, N. Y., 6-1, 6-0,6-2 to move into the field of eight.

All three of the foreign seeded players also advanced. Top seeded Dinny Pails toppled George Seewagen in a first round contest, and third-seeded Pierre Pellizza also gained the field of sixteen with a 6-1, 6-2, 6-0 win over Bill Kenney of Philadelphia.

Francisco (Pancho) Segura took his second match with a 6-4, 6-0, 6-3 victory over sixth-seeded Carl Earn of Los Angeles.

Ben Hogan Has Won $17,597 This Year

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—Ben Hogan's triumph in the National Open Golf Tournament has raised him to a not unfamiliar status—that of leading money winner of the year.

According to Professional Golfers' Association headquarters in Chicago, Hogan has now won $17,597.50 so far in 1948. The previous pacesetter, Lloyd Mangrum, now is second with $15,945. Other top money winners are Jimmy Demaret, $13,518; Bobby Locke, $13,218; Skip Alexander, $11,753; Johnny Palmer, $10,259.

Mrs. Hoffa Fires Second Possible In Rifle Match

WESTERN MD. RIFLE LEAGUE

	Won	Lost
Cumberland	4	0
Fort Hill	3	0
Frostburg	3	1
LaVale	1	2
Cold Spring	1	2
Fort Ashby	0	3
Barton	0	4

Mrs. Arthur Hoffa fired a second consecutive 400 possible in the 4th Western Maryland Rifle League any sight rifle match completed on Monday evening at the range of the Frostburg Rifle Club. This all-time League record, however, still couldn't put the hard luck Barton gunners over the top. The opposition Frostburg team posted a score of 1965-93x against Barton's 1954-84x. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yates with 396-18x and 396-22x in that order, led the Mountain City group to victory.

The rampaging Cumberland shooters ran up a total of 1983-112x which was somewhat more than sufficient to best the LaVale team which sent only two riflemen to the meet. Cumberland's Leo Leasure missed his second possible by losing the last shot of his string at 100 yards, but scored a 399-29x to pace the club. Paul Nycum and Roy Ringler were 2nd and 3rd respectively with 397-28x and 397-22x.

Fort Hill grasped an easy win from Fort Ashby, 1951-80x to 1481-27x, when the West Virginia club had only four men to represent them. Bill Elgin sparked the Fort Hill effort with a 393-23x, followed by Frank Simpson, 390-16x, and Paddy Myers, 390-14x. Fort Ashby's Dick Kauffman with 391-12x placed first for the losers.

Cold Spring was unscheduled.

Dingle Net Meet Opens This Week

City And County Champs To Compete

The Dingle tennis tournament which starts this weekend already has the best local players in the city entered in the men's singles and doubles.

Maurice Bernstein, the defending champion, is entered with Lua Sykes, winner of the city tournament last year, and Lawrence Middlecamp, who won the county tourney. Other entries are John Clemmer, William Harrison, Edward Harvey, Jimmy Stakem, Jack Evans, Walter Davis, Jr., Phil Lucas, L. E. Van Sant, John Sapp, Normap Sell, and Ned Finan.

In men's doubles seven teams so far have entered, as follows: Clemmer and Harrison, Evans and Bernstein, Bane and Sykes, Lucas and Davis, Harvey and Sell, Middlecamp and Van Sant.

Entries can be made up to Friday evening to L. E. Van Sant, 219 Greene St., in the above events as well as women's singles and mixed doubles.

Women Play Today

Women golfers of the Cumberland Country Club will engage in two tournaments today.

Eighteen hole players will participate in an odd hole tournament while nine hole players will vie in a flag tourney.

Cleveland's New Challenge

No matter who picks up the two big-league pennants, the most improved team in either league this season happens to be the Veeck-Boudreau outfit known as the Cleveland Indians.

And you can add that a younger manager by the name of Lou Boudreau, plus unexpectedly brilliant aid from Gene Bearden, have been two vital factors in this new challenge. Strangely enough, Bob Feller hasn't been one of the major factors—so far. Give him time, and don't overlook Bill Veeck.

Cleveland's 1948 bid takes me back to the spring and summer of 1906 and 1907. I happened to be covering baseball in Cleveland those seasons and the Indians should have galloped in both years.

They had Nig Clarke and Harry Bemis, both .320 hitters, back of the bat. They had Claude Rossman and George Stovall at first, Larry Lajoie at second, the amazing Tuck Turner at short, Bill Bradley at third with Harry Bay, Elmer Flick and others in the outfield.

Their pitching? Nobody but Addie Joss, one of the all-time greats, Earl Moore, Bill Bernhard, Otto Hess, Dusty Rhodes, Harry Eels and a few others. A brilliant staff.

They should have galloped. But in one Eastern trip they lost Stovall, because of an injury. Lajoie was spiked out of action for six weeks. Turner, injured and out. Bradley, a broken arm. Harry Bay, a broken leg.

All told, they lost nine men after piling up a lead of 150 points in percentages. There were nine .300 hitters on this Cleveland squad, and six able pitchers. But when you have nine men badly hurt with broken arms and broken legs, there is little you can do about it except pay hospital bills.

Addie Joss, the six-foot three-inch Michigan star, pitched eight one-hit games and a perfect game against Ed Walsh. Walsh fanned 15 men, allowed two hits, and was beaten 1 to 0. Addie Joss was one of the best pitchers I ever saw, and this includes Johnson, Mathewson, Alexander and Bob Feller.

Cleveland has been a jinx city in many ways. The city on Lake Erie has run into abnormally bad luck. The Indian wigwam has won exactly one pennant in 47 years of American League competition. Tris Speaker turned the trick in 1920, a matter of 28 years ago.

It might also be noted that in recent years, Cleveland has passed Chicago and Philadelphia as a sporting center and may slip by New York in this new campaign.

Cleveland draws 85,000 for the Navy-Notre Dame game—70,000 for Paul Brown's pro-football team and it would be no shock to see Cleveland pass the Yankees this season in total baseball attendance. This means something beyond 2,000,000. Cleveland more than deserves another world series before Bob Feller fades out.

Stars Who Missed Big Show

One world series weakness is that too many stars had no chance to show at the big show.

Napoleon Lajoie, one of the greatest, was never seen in this classic. And he was something to see, the most graceful ballplayer that ever lived. And one of the game's greatest natural hitters.

Walter Johnson came to his first world series when he was on his way over the mystic hill. The earlier Walter Johnson would have joined Mathewson with three shutouts.

Bob Feller has never had a world series appearance, and Feller also is just about over the top. Feller came to Cleveland twelve years ago and he has been pouring that fast ball through for a long time. The Navy also took three or four of his best years. The Navy caught him at his peak and held him a long time.

Also after returning to baseball, Feller has given a good part of his time to outside interests, which hasn't helped his baseball. But he still would be a shining spot in any post-season championship. Feller is one of the all-time greats. He won't have to bother about his spot at Cooperstown.

Rube Waddell, a world series natural, had his lone chance in 1905 where he suffered an injured shoulder in a train scuffle. So the Mathewson - Waddell duel never came off. That would have been up in the super class, the motion picture colossal stuff.

Still many stars have made the world series grade — Mathewson, Alexander, Cobb, Ruth, Collins, Jackson, Hornsby, Grove, Wagner, Brown, Kling, Plank, Coombs, Bender, Johnson, Wood, Foxx, Frisch, Dizzy Dean, Cochrane, Dickey, too many more to mention.

It would be nice to see Feller and a few more stars, who have never made the big show, slip under the tent and mingle with the elephants.

The best series this season would be the Indians and the Giants—Cleveland and New York. This series could handle more fans. Also we could forget a number of names that have lost their lustre. Maybe they could have been in front of the spotlight too long without contributing too much. No one inherits this spot with average play.

Ballard's	3	14	.176
Mower's	1	16	.059

Lacy's Delicatets hung it on the Amvets for the third straight time this season when they chalked up a 5-4 decision over the tossers from Wolford Post in a City Softball League game yesterday at Campobello.

The victory enabled the Delicatets to extend their lead to 3½ games over the runner-up Amvets.

Each team was limited to five hits. Jack Steiner's homer with two aboard featured the Amvets' four-run rally in the first inning but thereafter Ed Decker put the opposition on a goose egg diet. Steiner also rapped a single. Crabtree, Lacy's shortstop, committed four errors and led his team at the plate with two singles.

Astor Cab pulled up a half game in the rear of the Amvets by halting the winning streak of the North End Social and Athletic Club at Stitcher Field, 5 to 2.

Jim Gaffney belted his 6th homer of the season with two aboard in the 4th and also got a single while Bill Underdonk and Bill Cumiskey each connected for two singles. Whitman got two blows for North End, one being a circuit smash.

Charley Reed's Electricians edged Mower's Bakery at East Side Field, 5-4. "Pete" Elliott starred at short for the winners while Basilio accounted for two of the Electrician's eight hits with a double and single.

Dale Fuller racked up four hits in five trips to the plate as Ballard's Cleaners outslugged Joe's Crusaders on the Rolling Mill diamond by the score of 14-11. G. Barbe's catch of Wheeler's fly in short right field in the 6th was the best fielding play. The scores:

Dr. C. N. Foose Outlines Health Rules On Cattle

Addresses Dinner Meet Of Calf Club

The 1948 health regulations pertaining to the exhibition of cattle and other livestock at county and state fairs were outlined to members of the 4-H Dairy Club last night by Dr. C. N. Foose, Jr., local veterinarian, at their dinner meeting in the Algonquin Hotel.

Dr. Foose explained that before cattle can be exhibited at the Timonium State Fair or at any county fair in Maryland, the exhibitor must send two copies of the list of cattle entries to the Maryland State Board of Agriculture, Livestock Sanitary Service, 816 Fidelity Building, Baltimore, 1, Md., not later than 14 days before the first showing of the animals, or the entries will be considered ineligible. This list, Dr. Foose explained, should include any animals which might be used as substitute entries.

Tuberculosis and brucellosis (Bang's Disease) tests must be made.

Dr. Foose said on tuberculosis, "all cattle, including steers, must originate in an accredited herd or in a herd which was negative on the last tuberculin test. If the herd has been tested within 12 months, the cattle for exhibition must pass a negative test within 30 days of the first showing."

On brucellosis, Dr. Foose explained "all cattle, except 4-H males and females eligible to show in Standard Calf classes and steers must come from an accredited herd with all vaccinated animals over 18 months of age, and all unvaccinated animals for exhibition must be negative within 60 days of the fair. Steers need not be blood-tested, Dr. Foose explained.

Vaccinated animals under 18 months of age from an accredited herd or a clean supervised herd will be eligible for exhibition while still showing a reaction.

Explaining the term "vaccination," Dr. Foose says this means injection of Strain 19 vaccine into calves between four and eight months of age by a qualified veterinarian. A record must be filed with the Livestock Sanitary Service.

Of special interest to the Calf Club members, Dr Foose told them that 4-H Club males eligible to show in the Standard Calf classes from a herd not meeting the foregoing conditions may be shown, provided they are negative within 30 days of the show or have been vaccinated.

Four 4-H Club females eligible for the Standard Calf classes from a herd not meeting these requirements may be shown if they are over eight months old and vaccinated, or if under eight months and have a negative blood test within 30 days of the showing.

Steers may be shown without a blood test.

Speaking on swine, for those interested in the hog-raising project and hog exhibition at fairs, Dr. Foose said each animal must have passed a negative test for swine brucellosis and each animal must be treated with a proper dose of anti-hog cholera serum within 30 days of the show.

Dr. Foose encouraged the boys on their calf project and offered them any assistance necessary to help them produce better animals for showing and market. He told them the county agent and assistant agent will co-operate in the projects.

Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent and director of the Boys 4-H Club projects, exhibited a motion picture entitled "Battling Brucellosis."

Fred Miltenberger, president of the club, presided and introduced the guests.

the Paris, France, workrooms of two famous French designers.

She recently completed a cross-country demonstration tour for a leading retail chain store during which she instructed education and extension personnel in her own technique of sewing.

In announcing the program, Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, said Mrs. Bishop's background covers teaching in vocational schools, factory experience and instruction in high schools, colleges and universities of this country.

Miss Evelyn Miller, home economics supervisor, said "Mrs. Bishop is referred to as a 'real' teacher and has developed her own 'system of sewing' in which she has adapted trade methods for school and home use to increase speed of construction and high standards."

During the two weeks program which will continue through July 2, Mrs. Bishop will demonstrate while the class makes—1—a simple style cotton or rayon dress, 2—a tailored project of a wool suit or coat, or both.

At least one nationally known pattern company and several clothing apparel concerns have adopted the "Bishop-technique" for clothing construction and feature the methods in buttonhole making, collar attachments, fitting and finishing-off of the garments.

Miss Miller said yesterday that several requests for enrollment in the class had to be refused because of the limit of 40 fixed by the instructor.

Prior to accepting the invitation to conduct the local work-shop project, Mrs. Bishop completed a fitting demonstration for nationally known department store alteration officials.

Local classes are tentatively scheduled to get under way at 10 a. m. June 21, following a registration at 8:30 a. m. Thereafter instruction and demonstration will continue each day from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Michaels Leave Today

Rev. Walter Marion Michael, pastor of Centre Street Methodist Church until his recent retirement, will leave Cumberland today with Mrs. Michael and their daughter, Barbara, for their home at Kenwood Beach, Port Republic Postoffice, Md. They will remain there until the early part of September when they will move to Fort Myers Beach, Fla., for the school year.

TRIPLET CALVES-- Bossy modestly looks aside, having no vanity over having presented her owner, Earl Nelson, Lowell, W. Va., farmer, with triplet calves, believed to occur less than one time in every 8,000 births. The seven-week-old female calves, obviously healthy, have a father, of course, but his exact identity is unknown and he is being referred to by Nelson as "Greenbrier Question Mark." The Aberdeen-Angus triplets in Summers County have been named the Gold Dust Twins and Black Diamond. Associated Press photo.

Four Naval Reserves Ordered To Duty

Cruise Officer Ensign John Zullo of the Naval Reserve announced yesterday that three seaman recruits and one apprentice seaman had been ordered to active duty on installation of equipment at the new Armory.

The men are Frederick Kreiger, 23 Boone Street; Robert Nycum, Valley Road, and Ivan DeWitt, Bowling Green, all seaman recruits, and Charles Weisenmiller, 436 North Centre Street, seaman apprentice.

Ensign Zullo also said that Keye Loper, electrician mate second class, Winchester Road, would accompany him on a two-week cruise aboard the cruiser USS Albany leaving from Norfolk. The cruiser will visit Halifax, N. S., in return.

Ridgeley Legion Post To Install Officers

Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, W. Va., will hold its annual installation of officers tonight at 8 o'clock at the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club.

Following the installation, a public dance from 9 until 1 will be held with music by Jimmy Andrews orchestra. There will be no admission charge for the dance.

Celanese Official To Address Kiwanians

D. B. Hertz, New York City, assistant chief of the engineering research and development department of the Celanese Corporation of America, will be guest speaker at Thursday's meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at Central YMCA.

He will discuss the manufacture and uses of Celanese textiles, plastics and chemicals.

selected for her apearance in the Miss Maryland pageant on the same stage. The winner of the August 2 event will represent the state in Atlantic City as a contender for the title of Miss America of 1948, the week of September 6 to 12.

Every contestant in the Miss Cumberland pageant will receive gifts that will range from jewelry and a table radio to clothing and free meals and theatre tickets. The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce will present the winner with a cup, suitably engraved, and the S. T. Little Jewelry Company has given a wrist watch which also will be engraved with the winner's name and "Miss Cumberland, 1948."

A local automobile dealer will furnish a car for her use in all personal appearances from the time of the Miss Cumberland pageant to the Miss Maryland state finals.

On June 20, the day before the Miss Cumberland show, all the contestants will be the guests of the Cumberland Jaycees at the Shrine Country Club for dinner. The board of judges for the Miss Cumberland pageant also will be guests at the dinner, and will have an opportunity to meet all contestants personally before judging them in the competition the following evening. This is the procedure used at Atlantic City each year in the national finals. There the judges meet the contestants at breakfasts and lunches, getting a better idea of their poise and personality.

Many Gifts Offered

Jaycee committeemen working on the "Miss Cumberland Contest" said yesterday local business men have been cooperative in helping promote the project here, and have been generous in making numerous merchandise prizes possible.

Among merchandise prizes donated so that each contestant will receive a fair share of awards are a radio by Montgomery Ward and Company; albums of music by The Music Shop and Standard Music Shop; luggage from Schwarzenbach's; shoes from Shinnaman's; a gold locket from Harvey's Jewelry Store; matching shoes and bag from Peskins; shoes from Webb's; a hat from Fields, a formal gown from Goldman's, a formal or other attire from Cumberland Cloak and Suit Company; dinner at a local restaurant for each girl and her guest; passes to local theatres; perfume, hose, individual photographs and more awards yet to be announced.

Members of the committee assisting Jack Moore in promoting the Miss Cumberland show are Jack Hendricks, entries; Robert Barnard, judges; Marvin Inge, tickets; William New, ushers; Floyd Cozad, housing; Thomas F. Conlon, Jr., parade; Chauncey Sanners, awards; Bert Graham, transportation; and F. Allan Weatherholt, program and publicity.

DEATHS

INDOLFI RITES

A solemn requiem mass for Mrs. Antoinette Indolfi, 53, widow of Salvatore Indolfi, 913 Frederick Street, who died Friday in Allegany Hospital, was celebrated yesterday morning in St. Patrick's Catholic Church by Rev. Joseph Graziani, of St. Mary's Church.

Rev. Thomas Hardesty served as deacon and Rev. Francis Mattingly was sub-deacon. Interment took place in SS. Peter and Paul Cemetery.

Pallbearers were John and Andrea Bapillo, Jess Lopresto, Guifiano Guiseppe, Madero Frank and John Basile.

REED RITES

A funeral service will be conducted today at 9 a. m. for John L. Reed, 500 Hill Top Drive, who died Saturday morning. Rites will be in St. Patrick's Catholic Church with interment in St. Mary's Burial Park, Oldtown Road.

Pallbearers will be C. Mansberry, Edward Wolfe, John Malcolm, Bernard McGreevy, D. Wilkinson, Michael O'Neal, Jr., Arlie Twigg and Leo Ley, Jr.

ROLLINGS RITES

A funeral service for Reginald Rollings, 68, who died Saturday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Chester Wolfe, Cresap Park, will be conducted today at 11 a. m. in the Wolford Funeral Home.

Rev. David C. Watson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, will officiate and interment will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Frank Schray, Reginald Gittings, Raymond Thompson, Walter Bowman, John W. Buchholtz and William H. Buchholtz.

30 Local Owls Visit Nest At Lewistown

A delegation of 30 members of Cumberland Nest No. 90, Order of Owls, attended an initiation and banquet at Owls Nest No. 1185, Lewistown, Pa., Sunday. The trip was made by chartered bus.

Jacob Easton, Jr., president, and J. L. Davalli, secretary, accompanied the delegation and had charge of the trip.

Auxiliary Police To Meet Thursday

Cumberland's Auxiliary Police will hold an important meeting Thursday night at Canada Hose Hall, City Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn announced last night.

As a matter of prime importance will be discussed, Flynn urges all members to make an added effort to be present.

Truck Tarpaulin Cause Of Morning Fire Here

West Side firemen were called to the 900 block of Braddock Road early yesterday morning to extinguish a fire which started when a truck tarpaulin caught fire on a hot exhaust pipe.

Firemen said the truck was owned by the Filsinger Co., Eckhart, and that the tarpaulin was a complete loss.

The father of John Constable, noted English artist, intended his son for the clergy, and afterwards tried to make a miller of him, but the youth's taste was all for art. The artist was born in 1776 and died in 1837.

Charles E. Trimble Heads Fulton-Myers

Charles E. Trimble, veteran of World War II, was elected commander of Fulton-Myers Post No. 153, American Legion, last night at the post home, to succeed Willie N. Woods, veteran of World War I.

Elected to serve with him were Otho Simms, first vice commander, World War I; Ernest Beckward, second vice commander, World War II; Garland H. Darr, adjutant, World War II; David C. Gaiter, sergeant-at-arms, World War II; J. Otis G. Smith, finance officer, World War II; Lawrence J. Gaites, historian, World War II; John E. Trimble, chaplain, World War I; William F. Jones, service officer, World War I; William H. Smith, World War I, and Albert Wheeler, World War II, executive committeemen.

William F. Jones and William H. Stevens were elected delegates to the state department convention at Ocean City, with John W. Gilmore and William H. Smith, alternates.

Officers will be installed Monday, June 28, at the regular meeting at 8:30 p. m. Refreshments will be served.

The post has a membership of 50 and expects to launch a drive for more members in the near future.

H. Lee Silcox Will Address Optimists

H. Lee Silcox of the Kight Funeral Home will be guest speaker at the Cumberland Optimist Club dinner tomorrow at 6:15 p. m. in Central YMCA. His subject will be "What Makes You Tick."

The Junior Optimists have challenged the senior club to a ball game, and Francis A. Warnick has been appointed to recruit a team which he thinks can beat the youngsters, according to Robert S. Arrington, president.

Carpenters Local Re-Elects Officers

Carpenters Local No. 1024, AFL, held its annual election last night and all officers were re-elected. The installation will be held at the next regular meeting July 12.

The union officers are W. H. Moyer, president; Ralph E. Porter, Greene Street, vice president; J. E. Mullenax, Flintstone, recording secretary; J. J. Eirich, 10 Pennsylvania Avenue, financial secretary; F. Patrick Allender, 44 North Mechanic Street, treasurer and business agent; Lewis F. Weber, Goethe Street, trustee; C. C. Harper, Bedford Street, conductor; and Louis Twigg, warden.

getting a divorce and that he had not seen his fourth wife for nearly a year and had received a letter saying that she, too, had obtained a divorce.

Moore was arrested after an East Baltimore minister discovered he had married the sailor twice—to Catherine Howard and Betty Bowers, who is 18.

In going through his records, the minister said, he found the 1945 license indicated Moore had been divorced, while the 1948 one made it appear the defendant was an unmarried man.

Moore is stationed in Washington.

Dr. C. N. Foose Outlines Health Rules On Cattle

Addresses Dinner Meet Of Calf Club

The 1948 health regulations pertaining to the exhibition of cattle and other livestock at county and state fairs were outlined to members of the 4-H Dairy Club last night by Dr. C. N. Foose, Jr., local veterinarian, at their dinner meeting in the Algonquin Hotel.

Dr. Foose explained that before cattle can be exhibited at the Timonium State Fair or at any county fair in Maryland, the exhibitor must send two copies of the list of cattle entries to the Maryland State Board of Agriculture, Livestock Sanitary Service, 816 Fidelity Building, Baltimore, 1, Md., not later than 14 days before the first showing of the animals, or the entries will be considered ineligible. This list, Dr. Foose explained, should include any animals which might be used as substitute entries.

Tuberculosis and brucellosis (Bang's Disease) tests must be made.

Dr. Foose said on tuberculosis, "all cattle, including steers, must originate in an accredited herd or in a herd which was negative on the last tuberculin test. If the herd has been tested within 12 months, the cattle for exhibition must pass a negative test within 30 days of the first showing."

On brucellosis, Dr. Foose explained "all cattle, except 4-H males and females eligible to show in Standard Calf classes and steers must come from an accredited herd with all vaccinated animals over 18 months of age, and all unvaccinated animals for exhibition must be negative within 60 days of the fair. Steers need not be blood-tested, Dr. Foose explained.

Vaccinated animals under 18 months of age from an accredited herd or a clean supervised herd will be eligible for exhibition while still showing a reaction.

Explaining the term "vaccination," Dr. Foose says this means injection of Strain 19 vaccine into calves between four and eight months of age by a qualified veterinarian. A record must be filed with the Livestock Sanitary Service.

Of special interest to the Calf Club members, Dr Foose told them that 4-H Club males eligible to show in the Standard Calf classes from a herd not meeting the foregoing conditions may be shown, provided they are negative within 30 days of the show or have been vaccinated.

Four 4-H Club females eligible for the Standard Calf classes from a herd not meeting these requirements may be shown if they are over eight months old and vaccinated, or if under eight months and have a negative blood test within 30 days of the showing.

Steers may be shown without a blood test.

Speaking on swine, for those interested in the hog-raising project and hog exhibition at fairs, Dr. Foose said each animal must have passed a negative test for swine brucellosis and each animal must be treated with a proper dose of anti-hog cholera serum within 30 days of the show.

Dr. Foose encouraged the boys on their calf project and offered them any assistance necessary to help them produce better animals for showing and market. He told them the county agent and assistant agent will co-operate in the projects.

Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent and director of the Boys 4-H Club projects, exhibited a motion picture entitled "Battling Brucellosis."

Fred Miltenberger, president of the club, presided and introduced the guests.

TRIPLET CALVES—Bossy modestly looks aside, having no vanity over having presented her owner, Earl Nelson, Lowell, W. Va., farmer, with triplet calves, believed to occur less than one time in every 8,000 births. The seven-week-old female calves, obviously healthy, have a father, of course, but his exact identity is unknown and he is being referred to by Nelson as "Greenbrier Question Mark." The Aberdeen-Angus triplets in Summers County have been named the Gold Dust Twins and Black Diamond. Associated Press photo.

Four Naval Reserves Ordered To Duty

Cruise Officer Ensign John Zullo of the Naval Reserve announced yesterday that three seaman recruits and one apprentice seaman had been ordered to active duty on installation of equipment at the new Armory.

The men are Frederick Kreiger, 23 Boone Street; Robert Nycum, Valley Road, and Ivan DeWitt, Bowling Green, all seaman recruits, and Charles Weisenmiller, 436 North Centre Street, seaman apprentice.

Ensign Zullo also said that Keye Loper, electrician mate second class, Winchester Road, would accompany him on a two-week cruise aboard the cruiser USS Albany leaving from Norfolk. The cruiser will visit Halifax, N. S., in return.

Ridgeley Legion Post To Install Officers

Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, W. Va., will hold its annual installation of officers tonight at 8 o'clock at the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club.

Following the installation, a public dance from 9 until 1 will be held with music by Jimmy Andrews orchestra. There will be no admission charge for the dance.

Celanese Official To Address Kiwanians

D. B. Hertz, New York City, assistant chief of the engineering research and development department of the Celanese Corporation of America, will be guest speaker at Thursday's meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at Central YMCA.

He will discuss the manufacture and uses of Celanese textiles, plastics and chemicals.

selected for her apearance in the Miss Maryland pageant on the same stage. The winner of the August 2 event will represent the state in Atlantic City as a contender for the title of Miss America of 1948, the week of September 6 to 12.

Every contestant in the Miss Cumberland pageant will receive gifts that will range from jewelry and a table radio to clothing and free meals and theatre tickets. The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce will present the winner with a cup, suitably engraved, and the S. T. Little Jewelry Company has given a wrist watch which also will be engraved with the winner's name and "Miss Cumberland, 1948."

A local automobile dealer will furnish a car for her use in all personal appearances from the time of the Miss Cumberland pageant to the Miss Maryland state finals.

On June 20, the day before the Miss Cumberland show, all the contestants will be the guests of the Cumberland Jaycees at the Shrine Country Club for dinner. The board of judges for the Miss Cumberland pageant also will be guests at the dinner, and will have an opportunity to meet all contestants personally before judging them in the competition the following evening. This is the procedure used at Atlantic City each year in the national finals. There the judges meet the contestants at breakfasts and lunches, getting a better idea of their poise and personality.

Many Gifts Offered

Jaycee committeemen working on the "Miss Cumberland Contest" said yesterday local business men have been cooperative in helping promote the project here, and have been generous in making numerous merchandise prizes possible.

Among merchandise prizes donated so that each contestant will receive a fair share of awards are a radio by Montgomery Ward and Company; albums of music by The Music Shop and Standard Music Shop; luggage from Schwarzenbach's; shoes from Shinnaman's; a gold locket from Harvey's Jewelry Store; matching shoes and bag from Peskins; shoes from Webb's; a hat from Fields, a formal gown from Goldman's, a formal or other attire from Cumberland Cloak and Suit Company; dinner at a local restaurant for each girl and her guest; passes to local theatres; perfume, hose, individual photographs and more awards yet to be announced.

Members of the committee assisting Jack Moore in promoting the Miss Cumberland show are Jack Hendricks, entries; Robert Barnard, judges; Marvin Inge, tickets; William New, ushers; Floyd Cozad, housing; Thomas F. Conlon, Jr., parade; Chauncey Sanners, awards; Bert Graham, transportation; and F. Allan Weatherholt, program and publicity.

Mrs. Bishop

the Paris, France, workrooms of two famous French designers.

She recently completed a cross-country demonstration tour for a leading retail chain store during which she instructed education and extension personnel in her own technique of sewing.

In announcing the program, Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, said Mrs. Bishop's background covers teaching in vocational schools, factory experience and instruction in high schools, colleges and universities of this country.

Miss Evelyn Miller, home economics supervisor, said "Mrs. Bishop is referred to as a 'real' teacher and has developed her own 'system of sewing' in which she has adapted trade methods for school and home use to increase speed of construction and high standards."

During the two weeks program which will continue through July 2, Mrs. Bishop will demonstrate while the class makes—1—a simple style cotton or rayon dress, 2—a tailored project of a wool suit or coat, or both.

At least one nationally known pattern company and several clothing apparel concerns have adopted the "Bishop-technique" for clothing construction and feature the methods in buttonhole making, collar attachments, fitting and finishing-off of the garments.

Miss Miller said yesterday that several requests for enrollment in the class had to be refused because of the limit of 40 fixed by the instructor.

Prior to accepting the invitation to conduct the local work-shop project, Mrs. Bishop completed a fitting demonstration for nationally known department store alteration officials.

Local classes are tentatively scheduled to get under way at 10 a. m. June 21, following a registration at 8:30 a. m. Thereafter instruction and demonstration will continue each day from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

RETIRED BLACKSMITH-- A 93-year-old resident of Wright's Crossing, John Cowan Pearce, is reputed to be the oldest living retired blacksmith in the county. He was actively engaged in the work of blacksmithing for 53 years before his retirement in 1921.

John Cowan Pearce, 93, Is Oldest Living Retired Blacksmith In County

Practiced Trade For 53 Years

FROSTBURG — According to many retired coal mine and railroad employes, John Cowan Pearce, 93, who resides with his granddaughter, Mrs. Clementine Willetts, wife of Blaine Willetts, Wright's Crossing, is the oldest living retired blacksmith in Allegany County.

A native of "Pink Row," Lonaconing, Mrs. Pearce, who was born September 25, 1854, is a son of the late Thomas and Elizabeth Cowan Pearce. His father, a native of Cornwall, England, was a blacksmith, had four brothers who were blacksmiths and was the father of four sons, all trained in the same occupation. Mr. Pearce's only son, the late Thomas Fearce, of National, was also a blacksmith.

Mr. Pearce's mother was a daughter of the late John and Clementine Cowan. Her father, who died April 28, 1876, was one of the pioneer mining men of the Georges Creek Coal Region. He was superintendent in the early days of the region at the "Maryland Mine" at Eckhart and was in charge of the opening of the Caledonian Mine at Lonaconing and other mines at Barton. The monument in Allegany Cemetery, erected in memory of Mr Cowan and his wife, is one of the most imposing in this section.

Mr. Pearce, with the exception of one year in Missouri and 14 years in Elk Garden, W. Va., spent all of his active years in the employ of Georges Creek operators. Actively engaged in the work of blacksmithing for 53 years before he retired in 1921, he returned to the Georges Creek Region from Elk Garden in 1897 when Mine No. 7 at Klondyke was opened by the Consolidation Coal Company. Other Georges Creek companies for which he worked included the Maryland Coal Company, New Central Coal Company and the New Hampshire Coal Company, all of the Lonaconing area.

Mr. Pearce was married to the former Miss Mary Rebecca Clarkson, of Lonaconing, who died in 1920. His three children, Thomas, Isabelle and Clarkson are all deceased. He has four grandchildren, ten great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

His grandchildren, with whom he has been making his home for the past 27 years, are Mrs. Otilia Pearce Huffer, Boonsboro; Mrs. Elizabeth Pearce Thayer, Oakland; Mrs. Marie Pearce Station, Hayesville, N. C.; and Mrs. Clementine Pearce Willetts, Wright's Crossing. Mr. Pearce stated Saturday that his grandchildren and their husbands have been wonderful to him and he also expressed gratitude for the fact that he has enjoyed good health and "never suffers from an ache or a pain."

He is a member of the Presbyterian Church but, with the exception of being a member of the Red Men at Lonaconing for about a year, has never held membership in any fraternal organization.

Nothing gives him more pleasure, he said, than visits from the friends with whom he worked when Klondyke Mine was the big producer in this region. He reported that he received such a visit several days ago, when Henry Lehr, Altoona, Pa., a former resident of Frostburg, spent part of an afternoon with him at his granddaughter's home.

Church Group Will Hold Festival

W. Va. Adjutant To Address Two Keyser Clubs

Brig. Gen. Fox Is Reorganizing Guard

KEYSER.—Brig. General Charles R. Fox, Charleston, adjutant of West Virginia, who has been chosen for the 50th annual edition of "Who's Who in America," will address the Keyser Rotary Club at the weekly noon luncheon Thursday, June 17, and will address the Keyser Lions Club at the regular meeting Thursday night, it was announced yesterday by Donald C. Hott, Keyser attorney.

General Fox is the first Army Air Force officer to be designated as a state commander of a military group. He is presently reorganizing West Virginia's National Guard which is to be composed of 55 units with a strength of 5,908 officers and men. In this position, he now heads the organization that he joined 17 years ago as a private while a senior in high school.

Ground units of the guard will engage in their first over-all training maneuvers at Fort Knox, Ky., July 25 to August 8, General Fox announced this week. The state's 55 units have three air units including the 167th Fighter Squadron which is based in Charleston.

General Fox spent 16 months in China where as executive A-3 of the 14th Air Force he served as principal staff officer under Major General Claire L. Chennault for all of China's air force affairs. Most of his work was planning combat missions and in directing the training of American Chinese air force personnel. He helped establish training schools for both groups in China who were taught combat flying. He is now rebuilding the 150th Regimental combat team to carry on the tradition of the old Infantry Regiment in which he enlisted while a high school senior.

General Fox is scheduled to land at the Cumberland Municipal Airport at 11 o'clock Thursday morning in a C-47 where he will be met by a delegation from Keyser.

In 1870 the first census in Idaho showed a population of 14,999.

Mrs. Seibert To Head Women Of The Moose

FROSTBURG.—Mrs. Cecelia Seibert, Eckhart, a charter member, was elected senior regent of Frostburg Chapter No. 221, Women of the Moose, at the regular election of officers last week.

Those named to serve with her are Jennie Peebles, guide; Mary Ruffo, assistant guide; Betty Smith, sentinel; Ellen Bole, guard, and Elizabeth Sires, pianist. The chapter donated $10 to the cancer fund. Two new members, Mary Ellen Linnenbrogger and Gladys Hopkins, were received.

Paul Kenny Weds Mrs. Eleanor Jackson

FROSTBURG—Announcement is made of the marriage of Paul Kenny, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Kenny, West Main Street, to Mrs. Eleanor Jackson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Allen Jenkins, Depot Street.

The ceremony was performed Monday, June 7, in St. Michael's Catholic Church, where a nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Regis Larkin, assistant pastor.

James Kenny, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man and Mrs. Fred Morton, sister of the bride, was matron of honor.

The bride was attired in a two-piece street length dress of aquamarine with gold and white accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Morton wore a brown and white two-piece street length dress with accessories of brown and aqua and a corsage of red rosebuds.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Kenny home. The couple, who spent their honeymoon in Virginia, will reside at 96 Mechanic Street. The bridegroom is employed at the Celanese plant.

RETIRED BLACKSMITH-- A 93-year-old resident of Wright's Crossing, John Cowan Pearce, is reputed to be the oldest living retired blacksmith in the county. He was actively engaged in the work of blacksmithing for 53 years before his retirement in 1921.

John Cowan Pearce, 93, Is Oldest Living Retired Blacksmith In County

Practiced Trade For 53 Years

FROSTBURG — According to many retired coal mine and railroad employes, John Cowan Pearce, 93, who resides with his granddaughter, Mrs. Clementine Willetts, wife of Blaine Willetts, Wright's Crossing, is the oldest living retired blacksmith in Allegany County.

A native of "Pink Row," Lonaconing, Mrs. Pearce, who was born September 25, 1854, is a son of the late Thomas and Elizabeth Cowan Pearce. His father, a native of Cornwall, England, was a blacksmith, had four brothers who were blacksmiths and was the father of four sons, all trained in the same occupation. Mr. Pearce's only son, the late Thomas Pearce, of National, was also a blacksmith.

Mr. Pearce's mother was a daughter of the late John and Clementine Cowan. Her father, who died April 28, 1876, was one of the pioneer mining men of the Georges Creek Coal Region. He was superintendent in the early days of the region at the "Maryland Mine" at Eckhart and was in charge of the opening of the Caledonian Mine at Lonaconing and other mines at Barton. The monument in Allegany Cemetery, erected in memory of Mr Cowan and his wife, is one of the most imposing in this section.

Mr. Pearce, with the exception of one year in Missouri and 14 years in Elk Garden, W. Va., spent all of his active years in the employ of Georges Creek operators. Actively engaged in the work of blacksmithing for 53 years before he retired in 1921, he returned to the Georges Creek Region from Elk Garden in 1897 when Mine No. 7 at Klondyke was opened by the Consolidation Coal Company. Other Georges Creek companies for which he worked included the Maryland Coal Company, New Central Coal Company and the New Hampshire Coal Company, all of the Lonaconing area.

Mr. Pearce was married to the former Miss Mary Rebecca Clarkson, of Lonaconing, who died in 1920. His three children, Thomas, Isabelle and Clarkson are all deceased. He has four grandchildren, ten great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

His grandchildren, with whom he has been making his home for the past 27 years, are Mrs. Otilia Pearce Huffer, Boonsboro; Mrs. Elizabeth Pearce Thayer, Oakland; Mrs. Marie Pearce Station, Hayesville, N. C.; and Mrs. Clementine Pearce Willetts, Wright's Crossing. Mr. Pearce stated Saturday that his grandchildren and their husbands have been wonderful to him and he also expressed gratitude for the fact that he has enjoyed good health and "never suffers from an ache or a pain."

He is a member of the Presbyterian Church but, with the exception of being a member of the Red Men at Lonaconing for about a year, has never held membership in any fraternal organization.

Nothing gives him more pleasure, he said, than visits from the friends with whom he worked when Klondyke Mine was the big producer in this region. He reported that he received such a visit several days ago, when Henry Lehr, Altoona, Pa., a former resident of Frostburg, spent part of an afternoon with him at his granddaughter's home.

Church Group Will Hold Festival

W. Va. Adjutant To Address Two Keyser Clubs

Brig. Gen. Fox Is Reorganizing Guard

KEYSER.—Brig. General Charles R. Fox, Charleston, adjutant of West Virginia, who has been chosen for the 50th annual edition of "Who's Who in America," will address the Keyser Rotary Club at the weekly noon luncheon Thursday, June 17, and will address the Keyser Lions Club at the regular meeting Thursday night, it was announced yesterday by Donald C. Hott, Keyser attorney.

General Fox is the first Army Air Force officer to be designated as a state commander of a military group. He is presently reorganizing West Virginia's National Guard which is to be composed of 55 units with a strength of 5,908 officers and men. In this position, he now heads the organization that he joined 17 years ago as a private while a senior in high school.

Ground units of the guard will engage in their first over-all training maneuvers at Fort Knox, Ky., July 25 to August 8, General Fox announced this week. The state's 55 units have three air units including the 167th Fighter Squadron which is based in Charleston.

General Fox spent 16 months in China where as executive A-3 of the 14th Air Force he served as principal staff officer under Major General Claire L. Chennault for all of China's air force affairs. Most of his work was planning combat missions and in directing the training of American Chinese air force personnel. He helped establish training schools for both groups in China who were taught combat flying. He is now rebuilding the 150th Regimental combat team to carry on the tradition of the old Infantry Regiment in which he enlisted while a high school senior.

General Fox is scheduled to land at the Cumberland Municipal Airport at 11 o'clock Thursday morning in a C-47 where he will be met by a delegation from Keyser.

In 1870 the first census in Idaho showed a population of 14,999.

Teenage Dramas Take Bob Hope's Spot On Network

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, June 14—Comes another summer show to the NBC Tuesday night list. It is another revival for the Meet Corliss Archer teenage dramas that always heretofore have displayed themselves via CBS. On NBC the program steps into the Bob Hope time for the next 13 weeks or so. That's at 10. Janet Waldo is playing Corliss.

An hour earlier at 9 on NBC Eddie Cantor is bidding a summer adieu in his temporary new time. He will have Ozzie and Harriet as guests. Also the songs of Lena Horne. Next week a new version of the Thin Man goes into this spot.

America's Town Meeting, continuing its discussion of what candidates may or may not be nominated at the forthcoming conventions, will ask this question via ABC at 8:30: "Whom Should the Democrats Nominate for President?"

The question will be put at Harrisburg, Pa., to Sen. F. J. Myers of Pennsylvania, Ellis Arnall of Georgia, Gov. B. T. Laney of Arkansas and Max Lerner, of the New York PM.

The Boston Pops concert of ABC at 9:30 is to put on what an announcement describes as "The First American Performance" of Donald Phillips "Concerto in Jazz." Arthur Friedler does the conduction and Leo Litwin will do the piano.

Studio One of CBS at 10 for an hour will play-act "Return of the Native" with the cooperation of Michael Redgrave. It's a return engagement for Redgrave.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Notes On Etymology

A press agent at WCAU-TV in Philadelphia has rather timorously launched the verb "simulcast" into the uneasy seas of the English language. It means "to broadcast by radio and television simultaneously" and it's what a teen-age miss of my acquaintance would undoubtedly call frightfully transitive. I bring it up at this time as a symptom of the convulsions which lie ahead for the English language in the face of this ominous new medium of television.

John Crosby

H. L. Mencken had better brace himself for a flood of new words, some of them challenging, many of them plain awful. Already we have video, which is attempting to unseat the word television, as the counterpart of radio. I have yet to hear any one say "Let's turn on the video," but I expect it any day. Within a few years, according to the proponents of video, the word television will be as archaic as that other unfortunate word, wireless (which still persists in the British Empire though it never got started here).

•—•—•

Right on the heels of video are the initials TV, which are bobbing into the trade press with increasing frequency. "Fred Allen's TV plans are still uncertain but it was learned on good authority" . . To my knowledge no one has yet written it—up to this very moment—teevee but that may come too. Frankly, I'm not entirely happy with either teevee or video.

I have a sentence to test all these newly minted words, and none has yet passed the test very satisfactorily. The sentence, shouted at the top of the lungs, is: "Turn that blankety blank (teevee, video, television set) down!" There isn't a single one of them a man can really get his teeth into.

Video, it must be admitted, has not only got a good start on the rest of the competition but also has become the root of quite a little language of its own. Videogenic, for example. I have nothing against videogenic except that it sounds more like a tendency to allergy than an adjective connoting beauty. However, I draw the line at its antonym. Unvideogenic sounds like an expiring Evinrude; it's a noise, not a word and, if I have anything to do with it, it'll never be granted admission.

Another bright new word, which I've heard two or three times and have grown rather attached to, is videophobe, meaning, of course, some one who can't endure the sight of a television set. The most psychopathic videophobe I know is a girl named Ann Honeycutt, who has yet to become resigned to radio. Then there are the videophiles, a much larger group consisting almost entirely of children from five to fourteen years of age.

Television has naturally sprouted the verb telecast, easily the least manageable word around, and inevitably, telegenic. Telegenic isn't a bad little word at all but I'd rather it didn't become affixed to television because, for me, it has a special and quite different meaning. It applies to a man who can purr so soothingly over a telephone that he can persuade a girl he never met in a town he had never before set foot in to go to dinner with him. There were lots of telegenic soldiers in the Army during the war.

Meanwhile, no one has yet come up with a really suitable equivalent for the video listener. Looker? No, that word belongs to the girls, videogenic girls. An onlooker is someone who was on the sidewalk when the accident took place or possibly a man who watches excavations. It's too passive a word for the television audience. An observer isn't quite right either. An observer is a man from the State Department, an inscrutable, well dressed man who doesn't say anything but observes everything and later reports it all in code to Secretary Marshall.

There have been some feeble and misguided attempts to popularize videoscanner and telelooker. Mercifully, they have come to nothing.

Fewer Displaced Persons In U. S. Zone

FRANKFURT, Germany — (AP) — The number of displaced persons in the United States zone in Germany has dropped below 300,000 for the first time, says the International Refugee Organization (IRO). The number is 299,497 compared with a high of 692,000.

Meanwhile, U. S. Army Headquarters says that in April 1,452 displaced persons from the zone returned to their homelands and 6,725 went to other countries. Of these, 1,974 went to the United Kingdom, 1,047 to Canada and 925 to the United States.

Three lakes and part of one river flow through Heyburn State park, Idaho. The park has an area of 7,836 acres, of which 2,333 are water.

Teenage Dramas Take Bob Hope's Spot On Network

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, June 14—Comes another summer show to the NBC Tuesday night list. It is another revival for the Meet Corliss Archer teenage dramas that always heretofore have displayed themselves via CBS. On NBC the program steps into the Bob Hope time for the next 13 weeks or so. That's at 10. Janet Waldo is playing Corliss.

An hour earlier at 9 on NBC Eddie Cantor is bidding a summer adieu in his temporary new time. He will have Ozzie and Harriet as guests. Also the songs of Lena Horne. Next week a new version of the Thin Man goes into this spot.

America's Town Meeting, continuing its discussion of what candidates may or may not be nominated at the forthcoming conventions, will ask this question via ABC at 8:30: "Whom Should the Democrats Nominate for President?"

The question will be put at Harrisburg, Pa., to Sen. F. J. Myers of Pennsylvania, Ellis Arnall of Georgia, Gov. B. T. Laney of Arkansas and Max Lerner, of the New York PM.

The Boston Pops concert of ABC at 9:30 is to put on what an announcement describes as "The First American Performance" of Donald Phillips "Concerto in Jazz." Arthur Friedler does the conduction and Leo Litwin will do the piano.

Studio One of CBS at 10 for an hour will play-act "Return of the Native" with the cooperation of Michael Redgrave. It's a return engagement for Redgrave.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, June 14 (INS)—By the time you read this, Constance Bennett will be clutching in her be-diamonded fingers the screen rights to Ilka Chase's "In Bed We Cry." If you read the book when it came out two years ago, you will remember it is about a lady cosmetic queen who leaves her husband for a man who doesn't love her.

Louella Parsons

Connie wants to make it in color which would be particularly effective with the beauty parlor backgrounds.

At the time the book came out, Authoress Chase turned deaf ears to movie offers because she wanted to dramatize it and play the leading role on the stage. She did. It closed.

If it is true that Frank Capra wants to take over the entire package deal of "Little Shepherd Of Kingdom Come"—and the tip comes straight—then young John Barrymore Jr., is the luckiest actor in the world.

John is set to make his screen debut in this technicolor movie already announced for production by Jess Smith and Dink Templeton. If they can strike the right financial deal with Capra, Smith and Templeton will sell out.

The best break John Barrymore's son could get would be to have a man like Capra guide him in his first movie role.

Victor Fleming looked on the finished "Joan Of Arc" and found it so good—all $3,000,000 of it—that he is off to his private island near Vancouver.

He wants to rest and relax before tackling his next whopping director assignment with "The Robe." For the next few weeks he doesn't want to think about Hollywood or pictures. Two productions like these, following each other, take a tremendous amount of energy for the guy who has to do the real worrying.

Finally got down to Ocean House, the most beautiful beach club in the world. Marion Davies' former colonial beach home is all you have read about it and more. The thing her close friends love best about the place is that it has lost none of its original charming elegance and good taste in the conversion from a home into a club.

I was there the night Joe Schenck and Jay Paley were celebrating the purchase of the Del Mar race track with a stag dinner including trackman Charlie Carr, lawyer Greg Bautzer and a dozen others.

Atwater Kent was enjoying the sad sea waves from a table for two. And, at still another vantage spot, was Louis B. Mayer.

Hollywood in shorts: Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy are adopting a baby from a mid-west orphanage due to arrive this week.

Ann Corio, the burlesque strip teaser, wants a role with some clothes on it, so she leaves Wednesday for summer stock in the east. She opens in "Sailor Beware" on the well-groomed Strawhat Circuit starting in Woodstock, N. Y.

Paulette Goddard, who has been wearing clothes better left unnoticed, did a right about face and knocked 'em cold at Slapsy Maxie's in a divine emerald green satin, ankle-length, cocktail gown. Add a tres chic hair-do, and she all but lured the spotlight off Lena Horne.

After a long, dull spell, the night spots are beginning to pick up. It was like old times at the Mocambo with Spencer Martin and Marion Bren, Walter Kane and Donna Gibson, Barry Brennon and Marie Johnson, jiving to Bobby Ramos' hot band on a packed floor. Felice Vanderbilt, who dresses full decolletage every evening, added her customary note of "swank."

New York onlookers and eavesdroppers are beginning to wonder how much longer that Hollywood actor will continue to take those public dressings-down from his beautiful, but bad-tempered wife? They could have sold tickets for the "shows" she put on in cafes, theaters and shops.

Audrey Totter may be the girl to rekindle a flicker of romance in Brian Donlevy's bitter chest. At least, he is dating her and they are having laughs.

Which reminds me that few of her old friends see Marjorie Donlevy any more. She is living quietly in a small home she just bought and giving the night spots the go-by.

Gay party honoring Mrs. R. W. Young, of the Chicago American newspaper Youngs, at Arrowhead Springs hotel. Among those who met the charming honoree were Betty Hutton, Constance Bennett, Binnie Barnes and Henry King.

That's all today.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass
Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, as they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, June 14 (INS)—By the time you read this, Constance Bennett will be clutching in her be-diamonded fingers the screen rights to Ilka Chase's "In Bed We Cry." If you read the book when it came out two years ago, you will remember it is about a lady cosmetic queen who leaves her husband for a man who doesn't love her.

Louella Parsons

Connie wants to make it in color which would be particularly effective with the beauty parlor backgrounds.

At the time the book came out, Authoress Chase turned deaf ears to movie offers because she wanted to dramatize it and play the leading role on the stage. She did. It closed.

If it is true that Frank Capra wants to take over the entire package deal of "Little Shepherd Of Kingdom Come"—and the tip comes straight—then young John Barrymore Jr., is the luckiest actor in the world.

John is set to make his screen debut in this technicolor movie already announced for production by Jess Smith and Dink Templeton. If they can strike the right financial deal with Capra, Smith and Templeton will sell out.

The best break John Barrymore's son could get would be to have a man like Capra guide him in his first movie role.

Victor Fleming looked on the finished "Joan Of Arc" and found it so good—all $3,000,000 of it—that he is off to his private island near Vancouver.

He wants to rest and relax before tackling his next whopping director assignment with "The Robe." For the next few weeks he doesn't want to think about Hollywood or pictures. Two productions like these, following each other, take a tremendous amount of energy for the guy who has to do the real worrying.

Finally got down to Ocean House, the most beautiful beach club in the world. Marion Davies' former colonial beach home is all you have read about it and more. The thing her close friends love best about the place is that it has lost none of its original charming elegance and good taste in the conversion from a home into a club.

I was there the night Joe Schenck and Jay Paley were celebrating the purchase of the Del Mar race track with a stag dinner including trackman Charlie Carr, lawyer Greg Bautzer and a dozen others.

Atwater Kent was enjoying the sad sea waves from a table for two. And, at still another vantage spot, was Louis B. Mayer.

Hollywood in shorts: Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy are adopting a baby from a mid-west orphanage due to arrive this week.

Ann Corio, the burlesque strip teaser, wants a role with some clothes on it, so she leaves Wednesday for summer stock in the east. She opens in "Sailor Beware" on the well-groomed Strawhat Circuit starting in Woodstock, N. Y.

Paulette Goddard, who has been wearing clothes better left unnoticed, did a right about face and knocked 'em cold at Slapsy Maxie's in a divine emerald green satin, ankle-length, cocktail gown. Add a tres chic hair-do, and she all but lured the spotlight off Lena Horne.

After a long, dull spell, the night spots are beginning to pick up. It was like old times at the Mocambo with Spencer Martin and Marion Bren, Walter Kane and Donna Gibson, Barry Brennon and Marie Johnson, jiving to Bobby Ramos' hot band on a packed floor. Felice Vanderbilt, who dresses full decolletage every evening, added her customary note of "swank."

New York onlookers and eavesdroppers are beginning to wonder how much longer that Hollywood actor will continue to take those public dressings-down from his beautiful, but bad-tempered wife? They could have sold tickets for the "shows" she put on in cafes, theaters and shops.

Audrey Totter may be the girl to rekindle a flicker of romance in Brian Donlevy's bitter chest. At least, he is dating her and they are having laughs.

Which reminds me that few of her old friends see Marjorie Donlevy any more. She is living quietly in a small home she just bought and giving the night spots the go-by.

Gay party honoring Mrs. R. W. Young, of the Chicago American newspaper Youngs, at Arrowhead Springs hotel. Among those who met the charming honoree were Betty Hutton, Constance Bennett, Binnie Barnes and Henry King.

That's all today.

Youth Dies From Shotgun Wounds

John Bachtel, 16, near Red House, died yesterday morning in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, from a gunshot wound in the head. He was admitted to the hospital Saturday night.

According to Garrett County officials, Bachtel was sitting in high grass when an Oakland resident, Edward G. Schmidt, shot him accidentally.

Investigation showed that Schmidt had been groundhog hunting and one had just gotten away from him, and believing that the hair protruding from the grass was the animal, fired and wounded the victim, who was later rushed to the hospital.

Garrett County State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover last night said no charges had been preferred and none would be until a complete investigation is finished.

P. J. Sullivan Heads Mt. Savage K. Of C.

Somerset Bus Company, Union Reach Agreement

A threatened strike of Somerset Bus Company drivers was averted when company and union representatives reached an agreement Thursday night to replace a contract that expired at 12:01 a. m. Friday.

Lloyd Kimmel, superintendent of drivers of the company, said the agreement was reached at 11:50 Thursday night. The union was in negotiation with the company for two months in an effort to reach an agreement to replace a contract that was signed last year after the drivers were on strike for 105 days.

Child Wire Walker

PUEBLO, Colo.—(AP)—A neighbor happened to be watching one day as little Alice Schultz nimbly tiptoed along the top of her backyard fence and then scaled a nearby tree. The neighbor is a former circus performer and he was impressed by Alice's poise and sense of balance. The freckle-faced girl soon graduated under the neighbor's tutelage to tougher tricks.

Now at 10 Alice is one of the youngest tight wire walkers in the country and is in demand for traveling shows in several western states this summer.

Masons To Install July 6

TRI-STATE DEATHS

MRS. ELIZABETH HAVERSTICK

FROSTBURG — Mrs. Elizabeth Ann James Haverstick, 83, wife of S. Graff Haverstick, 154 Bowery Street, died yesterday afternoon from a heart attack. She had been in failing health for some time but was not confined to bed.

Mrs. Haverstick, a daughter of the late Anthony and Mary Ann Sharpe, was born in the stone house on the Vale Summit Road between Midland and Vale Summit. She was twice married, her first husband being the late William T. James, by whom she had the following surviving children, Joseph A. James and William L. James, this city; Mark S. James, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Leona Shirer, Scottsdale, Pa., and Miss Catherine A. James, Barberton, O.

Also surviving are 13 grandchildren; one great - grandchild; a brother, Anthony Sharpe; and three sisters, Mrs. Christina Walters, Turtle Creek, Pa., Mrs. Rose Logsdon, Swissvale, Pa., and Mrs. John Cadden, Louisville, Ky.

Mrs. Haverstick was a member of St. John's Episcopal Church. The body is at the residence, Bowery Street.

JANET FAYE CLARK

WESTERNPORT. — A funeral service for Janet Faye Clark, 30 month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mervel Clark, who died Saturday morning in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, from burns suffered the previous night was held yesterday afternoon at her residence, 429 Spruce Street.

Rev. Raymond L. Moore, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, Piedmont, and the Rev. William B. Orndorff, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiated. Interment was in Philos Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Harry Lee Brode, Jerry Moorehead, Robert McIntyre and Wayne Weimer. Flowerbearers included Joann Nichols, Geraldine Herman, Delores Reel, Anna Lee Henry, Dorothy Seaber and Mary Jane Broadwater.

MRS. JONES RITES

ELK GARDEN, W. Va.—A funeral service was held Saturday afternoon in Grace Methodist Church for Mrs. Sarah Alice Jones, 62, widow of Frank Jones, who died Wednesday evening at her home here.

Rev. Jonathan Edwards, pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Kitzmiller, officiated. Interment was in Elk Garden Cemetery.

Pallbearers were G. D. Dick, Lawrence Copeland, Albert Warnick, Bert Middleton, Joseph Ray and Dennis Copeland.

PHILLIP A. SHAFFER

BERLIN, Pa.—Philip A. Shaffer, 80, Berlin civic leader and veteran of two wars, died Saturday at his home here after an illness of several months. He served as a major in the Spanish-American War and was a captain in the 51st Infantry of the Sixth Division in World War I. He saw action in Vosges and Meuse-Argonne offensives.

He was active in the Berlin Water Company and served as its president and manager for many years. As a charter member of Harry Fisher Post No. 445, Amercian Legion, he filled the office of chaplain until failing health forced him to resign.

MRS. MARTHA BAGLEY

HYNDMAN, Pa. — Mrs. Martha Mason Bagley, 40, died yesterday morning at her home near State Line, where she had been a lifelong resident. She had been ill several months.

A daughter of the late Thomas and Nellie Oliver Mason, she was wed to Fred Bagley in 1926. Besides her husband the following children survive:

Fred Bagley, Jr., Sylvia Bagley, Patricia Bagley and Shirley Bagley, all at home, and one brother, Frank Mason, Gray, Pa.

Mrs. Bagley was a member of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, Ellerslie. A funeral service will be conducted Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. in the Redeemer Reformed Church, Ellerslie, with Rev. John R. Bucher, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in Cook's Mill Cemetery.

THOMAS B. GOUGH

KITZMILLER — Thomas Burton Gough, 70, died yesterday morning at his home on Centre Street after suffering a paralytic stroke a week ago. He was a retired coal miner.

Born December 21, 1877, at Bremen, Tex., Mr. Gough was a son of the late Hiram and Emily Henderson Gough. He had resided in Kitzmiller for the past 40 years. He was a member of Local 2204, United Mine Workers of America, and held membership in the Baptist Church at Independence, W. Va.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Anna Leota Gustkey Gough, survivors include six children, Mrs. Doris Rafter and Harry Gough, both of Cumberland; Mrs. Evelyn Winograd, Scituate, Mass.; Carl Gough, Rivesville, W. Va.; Mrs. Zoe Haardt, Bloomfield, N. J., and Clayton Gough, at home; one brother, James Gough, and a half-sister, Mrs. Elma Guseman, both of Uniontown, Pa.; seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Bedford Countians Launch Fund Campaign For New Hospital

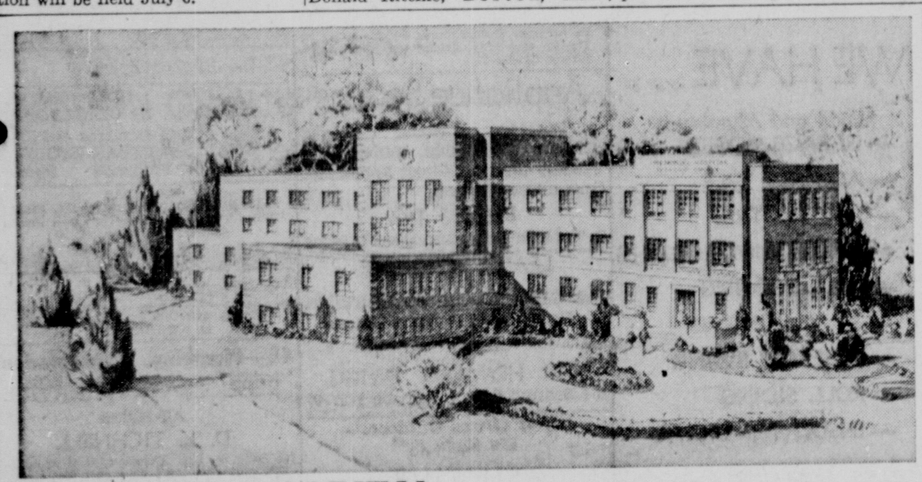
BEDFORD, Pa.—With submission and approval of a completely new set of building plans, a fund raising campaign is being launched in Bedford County for $595,000 to finance the new Bedford Memorial Hospital. The building is to be constructed at a site at Bubbling Springs between Bedford and Everett.

Paul I. Detwiler, president, said Lesley Blackburn, Everett, is general chairman of the fund campaign and it is expected that the campaign will be underway by the end of the month.

The structure was designed by Donald Ritchie, Boston, Mass., architect, and is to be a four-story structure to house all modern hospital facilities and accommodate 75 patients. The site is along the Lincoln Highway midway between Bedford and Everett, and advantage is taken of the sloping terrain in the design. Approaches will be provided to two floor levels.

Two elevators with entrances on two sides will serve the four floors.

The entrance on the first floor level is so arranged as to avoid conflict in traffic or parking, with the out-patient, emergency and service entrances, which are approached on the ground level floor.



PROPOSED HOSPITAL-- The above sketch prepared by an architect shows how the proposed Memorial Hospital of Bedford County, Pa., will look when it is erected on the site selected for it at Bubbling Springs, midway between Bedford and Everett. The board of trustees has approved plans for the building and a fund raising campaign is being launched to help finance the building. The structure is to be four stories high with accommodations for 75 patients.

Youth Dies From Shotgun Wounds

John Bachtel, 16, near Red House, died yesterday morning in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, from a gunshot wound in the head. He was admitted to the hospital Saturday night.

According to Garrett County officials, Bachtel was sitting in high grass when an Oakland resident, Edward G. Schmidt, shot him accidentally.

Investigation showed that Schmidt had been groundhog hunting and one had just gotten away from him, and believing that the hair protruding from the grass was the animal, fired and wounded the victim, who was later rushed to the hospital.

Garrett County State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover last night said no charges had been preferred and none would be until a complete investigation is finished.

Somerset Bus Company, Union Reach Agreement

A threatened strike of Somerset Bus Company drivers was averted when company and union representatives reached an agreement Thursday night to replace a contract that expired at 12:01 a. m. Friday.

Lloyd Kimmel, superintendent of drivers of the company, said the agreement was reached at 11:50 Thursday night. The union was in negotiation with the company for two months in an effort to reach an agreement to replace a contract that was signed last year after the drivers were on strike for 105 days.

Child Wire Walker

PUEBLO, Colo.—(AP)—A neighbor happened to be watching one day as little Alice Schultz nimbly tiptoed along the top of her backyard fence and then scaled a nearby tree. The neighbor is a former circus performer and he was impressed by Alice's poise and sense of balance. The freckle-faced girl soon graduated under the neighbor's tutelage to tougher tricks.

Now at 10 Alice is one of the youngest tight wire walkers in the country and is in demand for traveling shows in several western states this summer.

Bedford Countians Launch Fund Campaign For New Hospital

BEDFORD, Pa.—With submission and approval of a completely new set of building plans, a fund raising campaign is being launched in Bedford County for $595,000 to finance the new Bedford Memorial Hospital. The building is to be constructed at a site at Bubbling Springs between Bedford and Everett.

Paul I. Detwiler, president, said Lesley Blackburn, Everett, is general chairman of the fund campaign and it is expected that the campaign will be underway by the end of the month.

The structure was designed by Donald Ritchie, Boston, Mass., architect, and is to be a four-story structure to house all modern hospital facilities and accommodate 75 patients. The site is along the Lincoln Highway midway between Bedford and Everett, and advantage is taken of the sloping terrain in the design. Approaches will be provided to two floor levels.

Two elevators with entrances on two sides will serve the four floors.

The entrance on the first floor level is so arranged as to avoid conflict in traffic or parking, with the out-patient, emergency and service entrances, which are approached on the ground level floor.

PROPOSED HOSPITAL-- The above sketch prepared by an architect shows how the proposed Memorial Hospital of Bedford County, Pa., will look when it is erected on the site selected for it at Bubbling Springs, midway between Bedford and Everett. The board of trustees has approved plans for the building and a fund raising campaign is being launched to help finance the building. The structure is to be four stories high with accommodations for 75 patients.

Health Department Head Is Lions Club Speaker

HYNDMAN — Herbert Carpenter had charge of the program for the recent Lions Club meeting in the Evangelical U. B. Church Social Room with Dr. Caldwell of the Pennsylvania State Health Department as speaker Dr. Caldwell showed the moving picture, "Know for Sure."

Coming events sponsored by the Lions Club include the annual minstrel show, scheduled for July 5, and a donkey baseball game on July 14.

James Owen and Kenneth Burkett were delegates from the local club to the Pennsylvania state convention in Reading, Pa.

Market Stumbles In Late Trading, Declines For First Time In Week

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP) — A rising stock market stumbled in late trading today and closed lower, on the average, for the first time in a week.

Volume tended to contract as prices dipped, but expanded earlier as prices rose. Total for the day was 1,750,000 shares, which compared with 1,520,000 Friday.

On the losing side were Bethlehem Steel 37½, General Motors 64⅛. Montgomery Ward 61⅞, Caterpillar Tractor 61½, Schenley 3½, American Telephone 155⅞, Westinghouse 32⅝, General Electric 41½, Johns-Manville 41⅝, Southern Pacific 58⅛, Atlantic Coast Line 57½, Gulf Oil 78⅝, and Twentieth Century Fox 21½.

Managing to hold small gains were United States Steel, Studebaker, Glenn Martin, Kennecott Copper, Radio Corporation, Standard Oil (NJ), and Pacific Western.

A heavy demand for Missouri Pacific loans headlined the bond market for the third successive trading session.

Trading in Missouri Pacific issues made up a good part of the day's volume as more than $1,000,000 of the general 4s changed hands.

The market generally edged ahead and advances were substantial in a new selected railroad issues.

Missouri Pacific general 4s were up 1¾ at 49¼ with $1,028,000 of the issue selling, while the convertible 5½s remained steady at 28¾ on a turnover of $337,000. Others of the road's loans went ahead as much as 2¼ on smaller volume of sales.

United States government bonds were narrowly mixed in over-the-counter dealings.

Market Stumbles In Late Trading, Declines For First Time In Week

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—A rising stock market stumbled in late trading today and closed lower, on the average, for the first time in a week.

Volume tended to contract as prices dipped, but expanded earlier as prices rose. Total for the day was 1,750,000 shares, which compared with 1,520,000 Friday.

On the losing side were Bethlehem Steel 37½, General Motors 64¼, Montgomery Ward 61⅞, Caterpillar Tractor 61½, Schenley 3½, American Telephone 155⅞, Westinghouse 32⅝, General Electric 41½, Johns-Manville 41⅝, Southern Pacific 58½, Atlantic Coast Line 57½, Gulf Oil 78⅝, and Twentieth Century Fox 21½.

Managing to hold small gains were United States Steel, Studebaker, Glenn Martin, Kennecott Copper, Radio Corporation, Standard Oil (NJ), and Pacific Western.

A heavy demand for Missouri Pacific loans headlined the bond market for the third successive trading session.

Trading in Missouri Pacific issues made up a good part of the day's volume as more than $1,000,000 of the general 4s changed hands.

The market generally edged ahead and advances were substantial in a new selected railroad issues.

Missouri Pacific general 4s were up 1¾ at 49¼ with $1,028,000 of the issue selling, while the convertible 5½s remained steady at 28¾ on a turnover of $337,000. Others of the road's loans went ahead as much as 2¼ on smaller volume of sales.

United States government bonds were narrowly mixed in over-the-counter dealings.

NLRB Blocks Celanese Move In Withdrawal

Negotiations To Be Resumed Today

A move by the Celanese Corporation of America to withdraw its consent to a union security election scheduled to be conducted June 23, 24 and 25, was "in substance" denied by the National Labor Relations Board yesterday, Ross Madden, NLRB official, said.

Madden said telegrams were sent to Edward R. Allan, company personnel manager, and to the union advising them of the NLRB action. Last night, however, Allan said he had not yet been advised of "any further action" by NLRB.

Union officials, informed of Madden's statement, said they received a copy of the decision about 7:30 p. m. and Playford Aldridge, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, said negotiations will be resumed for a new contract with the company this morning at 10 a. m.

Aldridge declined to discuss contents of the telegram and would not say if the union's decision to resume negotiations, which were halted after a brief period yesterday, were being resumed on basis of the decision.

Received Telegram Friday

Madden said the Baltimore office of the NLRB received a telegram from the Celanese Friday advising the government body that the company was withdrawing consent previously given for the election, which is a "must" under provisions of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law, if union-company contracts contain union security clauses.

The company action, according to Madden, was based on a recent decision handed down in Louisiana, known as the "Greyhound decision," which permitted company withdrawal from consent to an election.

Madden explained that the telegram signed by Allen defined the decision as coinciding with Maryland law and said that the company took the position that both Louisiana law and the Little-Norris Laguardia Act passed in Maryland in 1935 made union security agreements contrary to public policy.

Applies To Individuals

Madden said the NLRB decision held that the Maryland Law does not make union shop agreements opposed to public policy. The NLRB found that the law applies to individuals, Madden declared.

Yesterday morning negotiations between the company and union for a contract replacing one expiring June 26 adjourned and James A. Dundon, a national official of the TWUA, declared the local plan committed a "breach of good faith" in seeking to withdraw consent previously given for the union security election.

The election, union officials said, would permit the union to negotiate for either a union shop or a maintenance of membershop clause.

The former would require all employes to join the union after a designated period while the latter permits members of the union to withdraw from the organization within a specified period after a new contract is signed.

Aldridge said that while only 30 per cent of the company employes need sign a petition for a union security election, the local petition was signed by over 80 per cent of the personnel employed at the Amcelle plant of the company.

BEAUTY HELPERS-- Mrs. Winnie Moore, (standing), wife of Jack Moore, and Mrs. Dixie Rafter Ballard, (seated), wife of Carl Ballard, are assisting the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce in the staging of the Miss Cumberland and Miss Maryland pageants to be presented at Fort Hill High School auditorium. The two young women, both experienced in staging productions of this type, will also take part in the entertainment program of the Miss Maryland pageant. Mrs. Ballard is remembered as Miss Washington of 1943. Mrs. Moore accompanied Miss Jean Dixon, Miss Maryland of 1947, to Atlantic City, N. J., last year for the Miss America contest.

Emery Drivers To Act On Offer This Morning

Early Meeting Is Called By Committee

Further developments in the Emery Lines bus strike early this morning hinged on union membership action to be taken on a company offer which resulted from a union-company meeting also attended by a state labor department representative and a Public Service Commission official yesterday.

Following the company offer at 10 o'clock last night, John M. Elliott, international union representative, said the negotiating committee was attempting to call the membership to an early morning meeting to act on the company offer.

Elliott declined to discuss terms of the proposal, nor would he indicate what action the membership is likely to take on the company offer. Company officials could not be reached nor could the government representatives.

The approximately 20 bus drivers called a strike when they contended the company refused to discuss six minor grievances and later Elliott announced that the company had agreed to correct the grievances but demanded the dismissal of three drivers.

Long a stalemate, negotiations were resumed yesterday at 3 p. m. with company officials, the union committee and Mrs. Margaret Kimble, deputy commissioner of the Maryland Labor Department and W. Joseph Tewes, Public Service Commission representative, attending.

Elliott said the union committee was experiencing difficulty in calling a meeting of the members since many of the drivers are now operating a "jitney" service for former patrons of the struck company.

The union representative predicted that the members would not act on the proposal before early this morning and said the decision would then have to be taken back to the company for ratification or a resumption of negotiations.

Meanwhile, the executive board of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, yesterday appealed to the Mayor and Council to take action with a view to ending the strike.

In a letter to city officials, Playford Aldridge, president of the local, asked that a panel be appointed by the city and the Board of County Commissioners "to examine into this situation and make its recommendations."

Aldridge pointed out that since May 5, "several hundred of our members have been deprived of the transportation services of the Emery Motor Coach Lines due to the strike of its employes." He added that numerous other area residents have also been inconvenienced because of the strike.

On a motion made by Street Commissioner Edgar Reynolds, the Mayor and Council named Mayor Thomas S. Post, City Attorney Thomas B. Finan and City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson to serve as city representatives on the panel.

No meeting with the county commissioners has been arranged as yet.

VISITORS ARRIVE-- Can you imagine waking up in the morning and finding a stray dog had given birth to 10 puppies during the night in your basement? Well, that is exactly what happened Sunday night at the Lester W. Harvey home, 224 Massachusetts Avenue. It seems that the Harveys are excavating their basement and the large collie dog must have wandered in during the night, where she could be sheltered from the weather. Earlier in the night, she was asked politely to leave the premises, but after dark crept back to the sheltered area where she gave birth to the healthy puppies. At last reports, the family was doing nicely.

Blue Ridge Sues Bus Union After 'Quickie' Strike

Company Asks $5,000 For Alleged Damage

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 14, (AP)—Blue Ridge Transportation Company today asked $5,000 damages from a union representing its bus drivers and maintenance men because of a "quickie" strike last month.

The company charged in a damage suit that the union violated a no-strike agreement incorporated in the work contract it negotiated with the bus line last August.

The suit was filed in Washington County Circuit Court against Division 1335 of the AFL Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America.

About 185 Blue Ridge drivers and maintenance men who belong to the union stopped work at 8:30 p. m. May 20, halting traffic west from Baltimore on U. S. 40 through Hagerstown to Pittsburgh, Cumberland, and points in Virginia and West Virginia.

The union said it called a "continuous meeting" to protest the suspension of a driver. The company announced he had been dropped for filing incorrect reports.

The men went back to work about noon the next day after about a hundred of them at the meeting voted 2-1 to return.

In its petition, Blue Ridge said because of the union's disregard of the no-strike provision the bus line "completely lost the large volume of operating revenue it otherwise would have received during the period" of the strike.

The company said it "will continue to lose a large volume of operating revenues by reason of public feeling as to the uncertainty as to the regularity of its schedules after such strike had ended.

"The defendants," said the petition, "did permit and encourage and authorize and direct its members to strike in disregard of its agreement and as the result thereof bus drivers and maintenance employes did strike and refused en masse by concert of action to report for work and to work."

Blue Ridge has its headquarters and main operating terminal here.

Training Course For Playleaders To Start Tonight

Sessions Will Be Held At City Hall

A training program for the 25 playground leaders appointed June 7 by the Mayor and Council will open tonight and continue through Friday, Mrs. Harry S. Anderson, playground supervisor, announced last night.

The three-hour sessions will begin at 7 p. m. and will be held in the council chamber at City Hall. Playleaders will go on the city payroll as of today so that they will be compensated for attending the sessions.

At a preliminary meeting of the playleaders last night at City Hall, Mrs. Anderson said that among the topics to be discussed during the training course are first aid, discipline, arts and crafts, and formation of a planned program of activities for each of the 13 city playgrounds.

Adam To Be Speaker

The playgrounds will open for the summer season next Monday. With the exception of Pine Avenue, two leaders have been assigned to each playground, with one to be on duty from 9 a. m. until 3 p. m. and the other from 3 p. m. until 9 p. m.

Tomorrow night Winfield H. Adam, acting general secretary of Central YMCA, will address the playleaders on types of play activities and parent and neighborhood relationships to the playground.

Considerable discussion was held last night regarding the need for another playground for colored children. Mrs. Daisy Darr, playleader at Pine Avenue Playground, said no new equipment has been placed there in eight years. She said the children would remain on that playground if they had sufficient play equipment.

Mrs. Marguerite Findlay, a member of the Park Board, said Street Commissioner Edgar Reynolds has informed her that new equipment has been ordered for Pine Avenue this summer, and that the swimming pool there has been repainted.

Mrs. John Cooper said members of the Gephart Recreation Association believe another playground for colored children should be established near Carver High School because there are a number of colored families in that section.

Meeting May Be Held

At the suggestion of the playground supervisor, Mrs. Darr agreed to contact Carver parents in an effort to arrange a meeting with representatives of the Gephart group, which has offered to aid in establishing such a playground.

Mrs. Anderson announced that tentative plans are being made with A. H. Gehauf, manager of the Constitution Park swimming pool, to arrange for free swimming periods for children attending the various playgrounds, subject to parents' consent.

She added that plans are also being considered to begin daily activities at the playgrounds with opening exercises, including a brief prayer and salute to the flag.

A schedule of activities will be posted at each playground. Age limits, which will vary according to the size and facilities of the respective playgrounds, will be decided later.

Flood Control, Savage Dam Bill Go To Truman

Local Projects To Get $90,000 Funds

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The Senate today approved a record $573,000,000 money bill for flood control and navigation projects, sending the measure to the White House.

The bill covers several hundred construction projects in about 40 states.

The total amount is $67,000,000 less than President Truman recommended in his January budget message to Congress. It is $158,000,000 more, however, than the current appropriation.

The Waterways Appropriation is part of a $641,000,000 measure for civil functions of the Army. Other items in the bill include the Panama Canal and national cemeteries.

Projects for the Maryland-West Virginia-Tennessee Area approved by the Senate:

Flood Control (construction):

Kentucky and Tennessee—Center Hill Reservoir, $9,000,000; Dale Hollow Reservoir, $200,000.

Maryland and West Virginia — Cumberland, Md., and Ridgeley, W. Va., $500,000.

North Carolina and Virginia — Buggs Island reservoir, $9,000,000.

Maryland — Savage River Dam, $400,000.

Virginia—Philpott Reservoir, $2,000,000.

West Virginia—Bluestone Reservoir, $5,713,800; Parkersburg, $2,450,000; Point Pleasant, $800,000.

Rivers and Harbors (Construction):

Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Kentucky—Ohio River open channel work, $199,500.

Pennsylvania and West Virginia —Monongahela River, Lock No. 2, $1,000,000.

Maryland—Baltimore Harbor and Channels, $871,400; Black Walnut Harbor, $28,000; Duck Point Cove, $26,000; Lower Thoroughfare, at or near Wenona, Deals Island, $28,500; Pocomoke River, $6,000; Town Creek, $32,500.

Virginia—Broad Creek, $32,700; Crane's Creek, $7,500; Hoskins Creek, $25,000; Norfolk Harbor, $108,000.

West Virginia—Morgantown Lock and Dam, Monongahela River, $3,000,000.

Council Appoints Accounting Firm

The Mayor and Council yesterday appointed the firm of Berman, Goldman, Levin and Company as certified public accountants for the city and Memorial Hospital for two years, at a salary not to exceed $1,500 annually.

Walter F. Miller, 446 Central Avenue, was ordered refunded $20.64 for double payment of 1947 taxes on a property at 443 Central Avenue.

A refund of $4.50 was ordered paid to Raymond G. Wilson, 47 Blackiston Avenue, for two years' taxes paid in error on Lot 102, Blackiston Avenue.

Street Commissioner Edgar Reynolds was authorized to purchase oil to be used in oiling unpaved streets in the city, at a cost of 9½ cents per gallon, plus freight charges. Amount of oil needed has not yet been determined.

The Yellow Top Cab Company, through its manager, William L. Carpenter, applied for a one-cab permit for taxi stands at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, the Blue Ridge bus terminal on Frederick Street and a stand on South Mechanic Street near Pershing Street.

The application was referred to Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan and Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn.

City officials also approved an order to sell narrow abandoned strips of ground in Lots 10 and 11 on the south side of Fayette Street to Marie K. Holzshu for a nominal price.

Water consumption for the week ending June 13 was 87,510,000 gallons as compared to 83,900,000 gallons for the same period last year. The daily average was 12,501,000 gallons as compared to 11,980,000 in 1947. Lake Gordon is three inches below the crest of the spillway and Lake Koon is one-half inch above the crest.

Famed Economist Will Address Engineers' Club

Dr. Elmer C. Bratt Here Tomorrow

Dr. Elmer Clarke Bratt will be the guest speaker at the June meeting of the Engineers' Club of Cumberland to be held at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, Wednesday.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m., after which Dr. Bratt will speak on the subject "Prevention of Deep Depressions."

Dr. Bratt is well qualified to discuss this subject. For several years he was chief economic analyst, Department of Commerce. Prior to that assignment, he was industrial economist for the National Bureau of Economic Research, and statistical consultant to the Bethlehem Steel Company. He is the author of many articles on economic subjects, including "Business Cycles and Forecasting" which has run to three editions and is used as a textbook in a large number of universities. Dr. Bratt is also a frequent contributor to the better known business magazines, including "Harvard Business Review," "American Management Review," and the "American Economic Review."

Before appointment to his present position as professor of economics at Lehigh University, Dr. Bratt also taught at the University of California and the University of Wisconsin, where he received his doctor's degree.

Dr. Bratt is currently a Life Fellow of the Royal Economic Society, a member of the American Economic Association, and a number of other professional societies and fraternities.

He is also listed in "Who's Who in America" and in "Who's Who in Commerce and Industry."

Plans Being Completed For Annual Miss Cumberland Pageant June 21

Two Local Women Helping Stage Show

Entrants in the Miss Cumberland pagent will be in charge of Mrs. Dixie Rafter Ballard and Mrs. Jack Moore. They will be at all rehearsals to train the girls in the correct way to walk, pose and how to make their entrances and exits. They will also be available at all times to assist in any way they may be needed, such as advising the girls about the type gown to wear, helping with makeup and all the countless details that go into staging a show of this type.

Mrs. Ballard and Mrs. Moore are particularly well fitted for their work on the pagent by their ability and past experience. Both have made numerous public appearances and enjoy working on any type of stage production in any capacity.

Dixie Ballard climaxed her training in dramatics, singing and dancing by winning the title of Miss Washington, D. C. in 1943, was one of the 10 top finalists that year and was fourth runnerup to Miss America that year. She has maintained her interest in the Miss America pageant and was a big factor in promoting the first Miss Maryland pageant here a year ago.

Mrs. Moore is well known here in amateur stage circles, and was active in the Town Hall Players. She worked on the staging of last year's two pageants here and accompanied Miss Jean Dixon, Miss Maryland of 1947, to Atlantic City, N. J., as her chaperone.

Will Apear In Show

Both Mrs. Ballard and Mrs. Moore are wives of local Jaycees, sponsoring organization of the pageants. Both young women will have parts in the entertainment features of the state finals here August 2.

The Miss Cumberland pageant will be held next Monday night at Fort Hill auditorium, with at least 10 local entries. At this pageant Miss Cumberland will be

H. R. Brett Named Archaeological Trip Photographer

After completing his junior year at Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pa., Henry R. Brett, son of Mrs. Sue McEvoy Brett, spent one week at his home, 220 Washington Street, and left Sunday night for Ann Arbor, Mich.

There he will join an archaeological expedition being organized by the University of Michigan's Museum of Anthropology. Work will be adjacent to the St. James River in Southwest Michigan, seeking further evidence of the culture and life of the North American Indians in that area.

Brett will be the photographer for the museum for the field trip which will be about two months. Upon his return he will cover an assignment for the J. C. Winston Publishing Company, Philadelphia, publishers of school and college textbooks.

East Side Group Requests Repairs

Repairs to an alley beside the East Side School building were requested yesterday in a letter to the Mayor and Council, signed by Miss Agnes Carroll, principal of the school, and three other East Side residents.

The letter said the alley, located between 11 East Street and the school, is not in usable condition although many of the 480 pupils use it as an entrance to the school and during fire drills the alley is used as an exit.

The group also reported that the approach to the steps leading from East Street to the playground has been undermined. They suggested replacing the steps with a ramp. The slope has not been terraced and shale is continually sliding onto the playground, they added.

A large pipe "evidently draining Eastern Avenue" empties onto the playground and creates a health hazard, the letter added.

Other signers were Mrs. Albert Kliffner, chairman of the lay health group in that section; Robert Taylor, president of the East Side Playground Association, and William A. Deremer, president of the East Side Parent-Teacher Association.

The letter was referred to Street Commissioner Edgar Reynolds and City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer.

Old C. Of C. Bulletin Shows 12 Years' Action

A bulletin published by the local Chamber of Commerce in 1936 was being recirculated to prospective members yesterday by the C. of C. which pointed out that of seven "needs in Cumberland" listed in the bulletin, two have definitely materialized and others are in the working stage.

Topping the list of the "needs" was a flood control project, and second was the Savage River Dam project. The United States Senate yesterday approved funds for both project.

Also listed as needed was an airport for the city, a project which is now completed and in operation. The Industrial program has also born results with two industries locating here employing approximately 700 persons since the bulletin was issued.

The industries are the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory and the Cumberland Undergarment Factory. Other projects that are now receiving attention are the city's parking problem and the retail business program.

New Bicycle Licenses Are Now Available

Bicycle riders of Cumberland, or those who may expect to ride their vehicle in the city limits, may now secure their new license tags, it was announced yesterday at Police Headquarters.

The new licenses, which became available yesterday, are maroon background with white letters and numerals. A total of 169 were given out on Monday. Price of the license is 25 cents.

31 Eligible For Legion Boys State

The faculties of Allegany, Fort Hill and LaSalle High School have suggested the names of 31 youths as candidates for the Department of Maryland's Boys State to be held at Camp Meade July 5 through 19, Thomas F. Conlon, Sr., chairman for Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, announced yesterday.

The 12 scholarships which have already been sponsored by local groups will be awarded to youths from the recommended list, Conlon said.

Fort Cumberland Post will send three, the Forty and Eight another five, and the Knights of Columbus, the City of Cumberland, Moose and Red Men will each sponsor one local youth, he added.

Plans call for the attendance of at least 30 local youths at the camp which will provide an inexpensive vacation since $25 will cover the entire cost including transportation.

Conlon said that any parents who wish to send their own boys may do so by paying the cost of the vacation. Individuals who would like to provide the training for some worthy youth may send either an eligible youth of their own choice or select a boy from the recommended list.

Candidates should be high school juniors, not under 16, possess leadership and be in good health.

Detectives Make Bicycle Search

City Police Detectives Thomas J. See and E. M. Powell have found seven stolen bicycles and a like number of young boys have been questioned in the last 48 hours, it was learned last night.

The bicycles had been reported stolen on different days. One of the youths was prosecuted yesterday morning. He was William Sponaugle, 743 Maryland Avenue, who was given a three-months suspended sentence.

The Weather

It looks like summer weather is here to stay, after the last few days of warmish conditions, but showers can be expected at almost any interval, the weatherman says, as he predicts scattered showers for today. The high for the day was 80 degrees, coming up from a low of 49 during the night. At 11 o'clock last night, the mercury stood at 68. The forecast for today, selected at random from the almanac, calls for a cloudy day, but with about the same amount of warmth as Monday —but with the usual, unforecastable showers.

Death Claims Power Worker

Herman B. Derlan, 60, engineer in charge of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad power plant, Virginia Avenue, met death by drowning and scalding, Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county examiner, said last night.

Derlan was found by fellow workers after he had fallen into a 50,000 gallon tank of 170 degree water. He had not been seen for about a half hour before his body was found.

The tank was immediately drained by the workmen, after W. J. Logsdon, an employe, found a trap door open and believed the body might be in the bottom.

Workmen in the plant expressed the opinion that Derlan possibly lost his balance and fell into the water, or else suffered a fainting spell. The victim had been employed by the railroad for over 30 years.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Rose C. Riggleman Derlan, one daughter, Mrs. Leota Bland, city; two sons, Walter E. Derlan and William D. Derlan, both of this city, one step-son, Revier Riggleman, West Union, W. Va., and one sister, Mrs. Catherine Barnett, Philadelphia.

A funeral service will be conducted at the home, 325 Arch Street, Wednesday at 2 p. m. Rev. Arthur Scrogum, pastor of Livingstone Church of the Brethren, will officiate.

Interment will be in Hillcrest cemetery.

License Transferred

A beer and wine license for 649 North Mechanic Street, formerly held by Guy F. Long, Carl L. Twigg and Alfred A. Carr, was transferred yesterday by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board to Harold F. Devault, Guy F. Long and Carl L. Twigg.

Maryland Sailor Faces Four Bigamy Charges; One Bride Cumberlander

BALTIMORE, June 14 (AP)—Louis J. Moore, 24-year-old Navy seaman home on leave, was stranded on a legal reef today, his progress fouled by four charges of bigamy.

Magistrate Frank J. Schap held him in $3,000 bail for grand jury action after police testified they have records of only one final divorce decree in five marriages.

Two of the young women Moore is charged with having married illegally—one a blonde and another a brunette—broke into sobs at the sailor was committed to jail.

Moore was given a preliminary hearing on three charges today. Essex, Md., police told the magistrate they have a warrant charging a fourth bigamous marriage.

Detective Lt. Edward Dunn testified that, as best he could piece it together, Moore's marital log went something like this:

August, 1942, married Ina Mae Carson, Folsom, W. Va. She divorced him in November, 1943.

In between those dates, married Veva Hudson, Cumberland, Md. (July, 1943) and Mary Elizabeth Maxwell, Baltimore County (October, 1943).

September, 1945, married Catherine L. Howard, Edgemere, Md.

January, 1948, married Betty Bowers, Essex, Md.

In a statement admitted in evidence, Moore said he believed his second marriage was annuled while he was overseas, that he had received notice that wife No. 3 was

Mrs. Bishop To Conduct Two-Weeks Clothing Construction Class Here

The art of sewing as taught in county high schools will in all probability be easier, quicker and more productive as the result of a two-weeks workshop which Mrs. Edna Bishop, noted clothing expert, will conduct here beginning June 21.

During the program, to be presented at Fort Hill High School, Mrs. Bishop, whose name has long been associated with the Amos Parisher Fashion Clinic, New York City, will present her own technique for simple, fast and better constructed garments.

The class will include 15 Home Economic teachers and four adult class instructors of Allegany County, along with 20 teachers and supervisors of 12 other counties in the state and one teacher from the University of Maryland.

Mrs. Bishop, who now resides in Pittsburgh, began work in the clothing construction field over 20 years ago and has since worked in

Woman Takes Sleeping Pills, Police Report

A Springdale Street garment worker has recuperated after taking an overdose of sleeping pills Saturday afternoon, it was revealed last night by R. Emmett Flynn, Chief of Police.

According to Flynn, Mrs. Edith Grapes, 32, 126 Springdale Street, was found by her husband, Homer Grapes, in an unconscious condition early Saturday afternoon. Upon investigation it was found that the wife has taken from eight to ten sleeping pills. She was rushed to Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and later released.

Apparently Mrs. Grapes was suffering from a nervous condition, but had worked that morning. She had no explanation for taking the pills except that she was "sick." Detectives Thomas J. See and E. M. Powell investigated.

New Automatic Stamp Dispenser Will Be Placed In Postoffice

An automatic stamp vending machine to dispense postage stamps at face value will soon be placed in operation by the U.S. Postoffice Department in the lobby of the Cumberland Postoffice, William C. McDermott, acting postmaster, has announced.

By inaugurating the new convenience, which is part of the department's plan to continually improve and expand its service to patrons, the postal authorities expect to alleviate any waiting in line for stamps.

The new machine will be installed at a convenient place in the lobby and will dispense common denominations of postage stamps. Automatically operated by the insertion of a coin, the machine issues five 1c stamps for a nickel, two 5c Air Mail stamps for a dime and five 3c stamps for a nickel and dime. It is equipped with a sensitive detector mechanism which rejects surplous coins and is rendered inoperative when the supply of stamps is exhausted.

Development and perfection of the machine to meet the specifications set up by the Department and the exacting requirements of the National Bureau of Standards was accomplished by Commercial Controls Corporation, Rochester, N. Y.

Initially, the machine is being placed in postoffices throughout the country, but it can be expected that soon it will be used wherever stamps are commonly sold, as a service to patrons or employes.

NLRB Blocks Celanese Move In Withdrawal

Negotiations To Be Resumed Today

A move by the Celanese Corporation of America to withdraw its consent to a union security election scheduled to be conducted June 23, 24 and 25, was "in substance" denied by the National Labor Relations Board yesterday, Ross Madden, NLRB official, said.

Madden said telegrams were sent to Edward R. Allan, company personnel manager, and to the union advising them of the NLRB action. Last night, however, Allan said he had not yet been advised of "any further action" by NLRB.

Union officials, informed of Madden's statement, said they received a copy of the decision about 7:30 p. m. and Playford Aldridge, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, said negotiations will be resumed for a new contract with the company this morning at 10 a. m.

Aldridge declined to discuss contents of the telegram and would not say if the union's decision to resume negotiations, which were halted after a brief period yesterday, were being resumed on basis of the decision.

Received Telegram Friday

Madden said the Baltimore office of the NLRB received a telegram from the Celanese Friday advising the government body that the company was withdrawing consent previously given for the election, which is a "must" under provisions of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law, if union-company contracts contain union security clauses.

The company action, according to Madden, was based on a recent decision handed down in Louisiana, known as the "Greyhound decision," which permitted company withdrawal from consent to an election.

Madden explained that the telegram signed by Allen defined the decision as coinciding with Maryland law and said that the company took the position that both Louisiana law and the Little-Norris Laguardia Act passed in Maryland in 1935 made union security agreements contrary to public policy.

Applies To Individuals

Madden said the NLRB decision held that the Maryland Law does not make union shop agreements opposed to public policy. The NLRB found that the law applies to individuals, Madden declared.

Yesterday morning negotiations between the company and union for a contract replacing one expiring June 26 adjourned and James A. Dundon, a national official of the TWUA, declared the local plan committed a "breach of good faith" in seeking to withdraw consent previously given for the union security election.

The election, union officials said, would permit the union to negotiate for either a union shop or a maintenance of membership clause.

The former would require all employes to join the union after a designated period while the latter permits members of the union to withdraw from the organization within a specified period after a new contract is signed.

Aldridge said that while only 30 per cent of the company employes need sign a petition for a union security election, the local petition was signed by over 80 per cent of the personnel employed at the Amcelle plant of the company.

BEAUTY HELPERS-- Mrs. Winnie Moore, (standing), wife of Jack Moore, and Mrs. Dixie Rafter Ballard, (seated), wife of Carl Ballard, are assisting the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce in the staging of the Miss Cumberland pageant to be presented at Fort Hill High School auditorium. The two young women, both experienced in staging productions of this type, will also take part in the entertainment program of the Miss Maryland pageant. Mrs. Ballard is remembered as Miss Washington of 1943. Mrs. Moore accompanied Miss Jean Dixon, Miss Maryland of 1947, to Atlantic City, N. J., last year for the Miss America contest.

Emery Drivers To Act On Offer This Morning

Early Meeting Is Called By Committee

Further developments in the Emery Lines bus strike early this morning hinged on union membership action to be taken on a company offer which resulted from a union-company meeting also attended by a state labor department representative and a Public Service Commission official yesterday.

Following the company offer at 10 o'clock last night, John M. Elliott, international union representative, said the negotiating committee was attempting to call the membership to an early morning meeting to act on the company offer.

Elliott declined to discuss terms of the proposal, nor would he indicate what action the membership is likely to take on the company offer. Company officials could not be reached nor could the government representatives.

The approximately 20 bus drivers called a strike when they contended the company refused to discuss six minor grievances and later Elliott announced that the company had agreed to correct the grievances but demanded the dismissal of three drivers.

Long a stalemate, negotiations were resumed yesterday at 3 p. m. with company officials, the union committee and Mrs. Margaret Kimble, deputy commissioner of the Maryland Labor Department and W. Joseph Tewes, Public Service Commission representative, attending.

Elliott said the union committee was experiencing difficulty in calling a meeting of the members since many of the drivers are now operating a "jitney" service for former patrons of the struck company.

The union representative predicted that the members would not act on the proposal before early this morning and said the decision would then have to be taken back to the company for ratification or a resumption of negotiations.

Meanwhile, the executive board of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, yesterday appealed to the Mayor and Council to take action with a view to ending the strike.

In a letter to city officials, Playford Aldridge, president of the local, asked that a panel be appointed by the city and the Board of County Commissioners "to examine into this situation and make its recommendations."

Aldridge pointed out that since May 5, "several hundred of our members have been deprived of the transportation services of the Emery Motor Coach Lines due to the strike of its employes." He added that numerous other area residents have also been inconvenienced because of the strike.

On a motion made by Street Commissioner Edgar Reynolds, the Mayor and Council named Mayor Thomas S. Post, City Attorney Thomas B. Finan and City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson to serve as city representatives on the panel.

No meeting with the county commissioners has been arranged as yet.

VISITORS ARRIVE-- Can you imagine waking up in the morning and finding a stray dog had given birth to 10 puppies during the night in your basement? Well, that is exactly what happened Sunday night at the Lester W. Harvey home, 224 Massachusetts Avenue. It seems that the Harveys are excavating their basement and the large collie dog must have wandered in during the night, where she could be sheltered from the weather. Earlier in the night, she was asked politely to leave the premises, but after dark crept back to the sheltered area where she gave birth to the healthy puppies. At last reports, the family was doing nicely.

Flood Control, Savage Dam Bill Go To Truman

Local Projects To Get $90,000 Funds

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—The Senate today approved a record $573,000,000 money bill for flood control and navigation projects, sending the measure to the White House.

The bill covers several hundred construction projects in about 40 states.

The total amount is $67,000,000 less than President Truman recommended in his January budget message to Congress. It is $134,000,000 more, however, than the current appropriation.

The Waterways Appropriation is part of a $641,000,000 measure for civil functions of the Army. Other items in the bill include the Panama Canal and national cemeteries.

Projects for the Maryland-West Virginia-Tennessee Area approved by the Senate:

Flood Control (construction):

Kentucky and Tennessee—Center Hill Reservoir, $9,000,000; Dale Hollow Reservoir, $200,000.

Maryland and West Virginia — Cumberland, Md., and Ridgeley, W. Va., $500,000.

North Carolina and Virginia — Buggs Island reservoir, $9,000,000.

Maryland — Savage River Dam, $400,000.

Virginia—Philpott Reservoir, $2,000,000.

West Virginia—Bluestone Reservoir, $5,713,800; Parkersburg, $2,450,000; Point Pleasant, $800,000.

Rivers and Harbors (Construction):

Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Kentucky—Ohio River open channel work, $199,500.

Pennsylvania and West Virginia—Monongahela River, Lock No. 2, $1,000,000.

Maryland—Baltimore Harbor and Channels, $871,400; Black Walnut Harbor, $28,000; Duck Point Cove, $26,000; Lower Thoroughfare, at or near Wenona, Deals Island, $28,600; Pocomoke River, $6,000; Town Creek, $32,500.

Virginia—Broad Creek, $32,700; Crane's Creek, $7,500; Hoskins Creek, $25,000; Norfolk Harbor, $108,000.

West Virginia—Morgantown Lock and Dam, Monongahela River, $3,000,000.

Blue Ridge Sues Bus Union After 'Quickie' Strike

Company Asks $5,000 For Alleged Damage

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 14, (AP)—Blue Ridge Transportation Company today asked $5,000 damages from a union representing its bus drivers and maintenance men because of a "quickie" strike last month.

The company charged in a damage suit that the union violated a no-strike agreement incorporated in the work contract it negotiated with the bus line last August.

The suit was filed in Washington County Circuit Court against Division 1235 of the AFL Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America.

About 185 Blue Ridge drivers and maintenance men who belong to the union stopped work at 8:30 p. m. May 20, halting traffic west from Baltimore on U. S. 40 through Hagerstown to Pittsburgh, Cumberland, and points in Virginia and West Virginia.

The union said it called a "continuous meeting" to protest the suspension of a driver. The company announced he had been dropped for filing incorrect reports.

The men went back to work about noon the next day after about a hundred of them at the meeting voted 2-1 to return.

In its petition, Blue Ridge said because of the union's disregard of the no-strike provision the bus line "completely lost the large volume of operating revenue it otherwise would have received during the period" of the strike.

The company said it "will continue to lose a large volume of operating revenue by reason of public resting as to the uncertainty as to the regularity of its schedule after such strike has ended.

The defendants," said the petition, "the period was necessary and authority and duty to endeavor to settle a disregard of its agreement and as the result thereof the drivers and maintenance employes did strike and refused en masse by concert of action to report for work and to work."

Blue Ridge has its headquarters and main operating terminal here.

Training Course For Playleaders To Start Tonight

Sessions Will Be Held At City Hall

A training program for the 25 playground leaders appointed June 7 by the Mayor and Council will open tonight and continue through Friday, Mrs. Harry S. Anderson, playground supervisor, announced last night.

The three-hour sessions will begin at 7 p. m. and will be held in the council chamber at City Hall. Playleaders will go on the city payroll as of today so that they will be compensated for attending the sessions.

At a preliminary meeting of the playleaders last night at City Hall, Mrs. Anderson said that among the topics to be discussed during the training course are first aid, discipline, arts and crafts, and formation of a planned program of activities for each of the 13 city playgrounds.

Adam To Be Speaker

The playgrounds will open for the summer season next Monday. With the exception of Pine Avenue, two leaders have been assigned to each playground, with one to be on duty from 9 a. m. until 3 p. m. and the other from 3 p. m. until 9 p. m.

Tomorrow night Winfield H. Adam, acting general secretary of Central YMCA, will address the playleaders on types of play activities and parent and neighborhood relationships to the playground.

Considerable discussion was held last night regarding the need for another playground for colored children. Mrs. Daisy Dacy, playleader at Pine Avenue Playground, said no new equipment has been placed there in eight years. She said the children need room to play. playground if they had sufficient

Mrs. Marguerite Bailey, a member of the Park Board, said there seemed to be two separate problems involved. One was concerned with the need for more playground space in the area, and the other was concerned with how the present playground could be improved. Mrs. John Cooper said members of the Cuphart Recreation Association believe another playground for colored children should be established near Carver High School because there are a number of colored families in that section.

Meeting May Be Held

At the suggestion of the playground supervisor, Mrs. Dacy agreed to contact Carver officials in an effort to arrange a meeting with representatives of the Cuphart group, which has offered to aid in organizing such a playground.

Mrs. Anderson announced that tentative plans are being made with A. B. Cohen, manager of the Constitution Park swimming pool, to arrange for free swimming periods for children attending the various playgrounds, subject to parents' consent.

She added that plans are also being considered to begin daily activities at the playgrounds with opening exercises, including a brief prayer and salute to the flag.

A schedule of activities will be posted at each playground. Age limits, which will vary according to the size and facilities of the respective playgrounds, will be announced later.

Famed Economist Will Address Engineers' Club

Dr. Elmer C. Bratt Here Tomorrow

Dr. Elmer Clarke Bratt will be the guest speaker at the June meeting of the Engineers' Club of Cumberland to be held at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, Wednesday.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m., after which Dr. Bratt will speak on the subject "Prevention of Deep Depressions."

Dr. Bratt is well qualified to discuss this subject. For several years he was chief economic analyst, Department of Commerce. Prior to that assignment, he was industrial economist for the National Bureau of Economic Research, and statistical consultant to the Bethlehem Steel Company. He is the author of many articles on economic subjects, including "Business Cycles and Forecasting" which has run to three editions and is used as a textbook in a large number of universities. Dr. Bratt is also a frequent contributor to the better known business magazines, including "Harvard Business Review," "American Management Review," and the "American Economic Review."

Before appointment to his present position as professor of economics at Lehigh University, Dr. Bratt also taught at the University of California and the University of Wisconsin, where he received his doctor's degree.

Dr. Bratt is currently a Life Fellow of the Royal Economic Society, a member of the American Economic Association, and a number of other professional societies and fraternities.

He is also listed in "Who's Who in America" and in "Who's Who in Commerce and Industry."

Plans Being Completed For Annual Miss Cumberland Pageant June 21

Two Local Women Helping Stage Show

Entrants in the Miss Cumberland pageant will be in charge of Mrs. Dixie Rafter Ballard and Mrs. Jack Moore. They will be at all rehearsals to train the girls in the correct way to walk, pose and how to make their entrances and exits. They will also be available at all times to assist in any way they may be needed, such as advising the girls about the type gown to wear, helping with makeup and all the countless details that go into staging a show of this type.

Mrs. Ballard and Mrs. Moore are particularly well fitted for their work on the pageant by their ability and past experience. Both have made numerous public appearances and enjoy working on any type of stage production in any capacity.

Dixie Ballard climaxed her training in dramatics, singing and dancing by winning the title of Miss Washington, D. C. in 1943, was one of the 10 top finalists that year and was fourth runnerup to Miss America that year. She has maintained her interest in the Miss America pageant and was a big factor in promoting the first Miss Maryland pageant here a year ago.

Mrs. Moore is well known here in amateur stage circles, and was active in the Town Hall Players. She worked on the staging of last year's two pageants here and accompanied Miss Jean Dixon, Miss Maryland of 1947, to Atlantic City, N. J., as her chaperone.

Will Appear In Show

Both Mrs. Ballard and Mrs. Moore are wives of local laymen, sponsoring organization of the pageants. Both young women will have parts in the entertainment features of the state finals here August 2.

The Miss Cumberland pageant will be held next Monday night at Fort Hill auditorium, with at least 10 local entries. At this pageant Miss Cumberland will be

H. R. Brett Named Archaeological Trip Photographer

After completing his junior year at Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pa., Henry R. Brett, son of Mrs. Sue McEvoy Brett, spent one week at his home, 220 Washington Street, and left Sunday night for Ann Arbor, Mich.

There he will join an archaeological expedition being organized by the University of Michigan's Museum of Anthropology. Work will be adjacent to the St. James River in Southwest Michigan, seeking further evidence of the culture and life of the North American Indians in that area.

Brett will be the photographer for the museum for the field trip which will be about two months. Upon his return he will cover an assignment for the J. C. Winston Publishing Company, Philadelphia, publishers of school and college textbooks.

East Side Group Requests Repairs

Repairs to an alley beside the East Side School building were requested yesterday in a letter to the Mayor and Council, signed by Miss Agnes Carroll, principal of the school, and three other East Side residents.

The letter said the alley, located between 11 East Street and the school, is not in usable condition although many of the 480 pupils use it as an entrance to the school and during fire drills the alley is used as an exit.

The group also reported that the approach to the steps leading from East Street to the playground has been undermined. They suggested replacing the steps with a ramp. The slope has not been terraced and shale is continually sliding onto the playground, they added.

A large pipe "evidently draining Eastern Avenue" empties onto the playground and creates a health hazard, the letter added.

Other signers were Mrs. Albert Kliffner, chairman of the lay health group in that section; Robert Taylor, president of the East Side Playground Association, and William A. Deremer, president of the East Side Parent-Teacher Association.

The letter was referred to Street Commissioner Edgar Reynolds and City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer.

Old C. Of C. Bulletin Shows 12 Years' Action

A bulletin published by the local Chamber of Commerce in 1936 was being reinstituted to prospective members yesterday by the C. of C. which pointed out that of seven "needs in Cumberland" listed in the bulletin, two have definitely materialized and others are in the working stage.

Topping the list of the "needs" was a flood control project, and second was the Savage River Dam project. The United States Senate yesterday approved funds for both projects.

Also listed as needed was an airport for the city, a project which is now completed and in operation. The industrial program line also bore results with two industries locating here employing approximately 700 persons since the bulletin was issued.

The industries are the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory and the Cumberland Underground Products. Other projects that are now receiving attention are the city's parking problem and the small business program.

New Bicycle Licenses Are Now Available

Bicycle riders of Cumberland, or those who may expect to ride their vehicle in the city limits, may now secure their new license tags. It was announced yesterday at Police Headquarters.

The new licenses, which became available yesterday, are maroon background with white letters and numerals. A total of 389 were given out on Monday. Price of the license is 25 cents.

Council Appoints Accounting Firm

The Mayor and Council yesterday appointed the firm of Berman, Goldman, Levin and Company as certified public accountants for the city and Memorial Hospital for two years, at a salary not to exceed $1,500 annually.

Walter F. Miller, 447 Central Avenue, was ordered refunded $20.96 for double payment of 1947 taxes on a property at 449 Central Avenue.

A refund of $6.60 was ordered paid to Raymond E. Wiant, of Bowman Street, for two years paid in 1946 in the Baltimore County.

Street Commissioner Edgar Reynolds reported that the city is using magnesium chloride to keep down dust on the city streets at a cost of 90 cents per gallon, plus freight charges. Amount of oil needed has not yet been determined.

The Yellow Top Cab Company, through its manager, William L. Carpenter, applied for a one-cab permit for taxi stands at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, the Blue Ridge Bus terminal on Frederick Street and a stand on South Mechanic Street near Bowling Street.

The application was referred to Police and Fire Commissioner William A. Deemer and Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn.

City officials also approved an offer to sell certain abandoned strips of ground in Lots 3 and 10 on the south side of Fayette Street to Doris E. Rosario for a consideration.

Water consumption for the week ending June 11 was 2,100,000 gallons as compared to 2,000,000 gallons for the same period last year. The daily average was 2,100,000 gallons as compared to 2,000,000 in 1947. Lake Gordon is three inches below the crest of the spillway and Lake Koon is one-half inch above the crest.

Death Claims Power Worker

Herman B. Derlan, 60, engineer in charge of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad power plant, Virginia Avenue, met death by drowning and scalding, Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county examiner, said last night.

Derlan was found by fellow workers after he had fallen into a 50,000 gallon tank of 170 degree water. He had not been seen for about a half hour before his body was found.

The tank was immediately drained by the workmen, after W. J. Logsdon, an employe, found a trap door open and believed the body might be in the bottom.

Workmen in the plant expressed the opinion that Derlan possibly lost his balance and fell into the water, or else suffered a fainting spell. The victim had been employed by the railroad for over 30 years.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Rose C. Riggleman Derlan, one daughter, Mrs. Leota Bland, city; two sons, Walter E. Derlan and William D. Derlan, both of this city, one step-son, Revier Riggleman, West Union, W. Va., and one sister, Mrs. Catherine Barnett, Philadelphia.

A funeral service will be conducted at the home, 325 Arch Street, Wednesday at 2 p. m. Rev. Arthur Scrogum, pastor of Livingstone Church of the Brethren, will officiate.

Interment will be in Hillcrest cemetery.

License Transferred

A beer and wine license for 649 North Mechanic Street, formerly held by Guy F. Long, Carl L. Twigg and Alfred A. Carr, was transferred yesterday by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board to Harold F. Devault, Guy F. Long and Carl L. Twigg.

Woman Takes Sleeping Pills, Police Report

A Springdale Street garment worker has recuperated after taking an overdose of sleeping pills Saturday afternoon, it was revealed last night by R. Emmett Flynn, Chief of Police.

According to Flynn, Mrs. Edith Grapes, 32, 126 Springdale Street, was found by her husband, Homer Grapes, in an unconscious condition early Saturday afternoon. Upon investigation it was found that the wife has taken from eight to ten sleeping pills. She was rushed to Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and later released.

Apparently Mrs. Grapes was suffering from a nervous condition, but had worked that morning. She had no explanation for taking the pills except that she was "sick." Detectives Thomas J. See and E. M. Powell investigated.

31 Eligible For Legion Boys State

The faculties of Allegany, Bel-Air and Labale High School have suggested the names of 31 youths as candidates for the Department of Maryland's Boys State to be held at Camp Steele July 3 through 10. Thomas F. Conlon, Jr., chairman for Fort Cumberland Post No. 16, American Legion, announced yesterday.

The 12 scholarships which have already been sponsored by local posts will be awarded to youths from the recommended list, Conlon said.

Fort Cumberland Post will send three, the Post and Eight another five, and the Knights of Columbus, the City of Cumberland, Wiess and Post Nine will each sponsor one local youth, he added.

Plans call for the attendance of at least 30 local youths at the camp which will provide an inexpensive vacation since $25 will cover the entire cost including transportation.

Conlon said that any parents who wish to send their own boys may do so by paying the cost of the vacation. Individuals who would like to provide the training for some worthy youth may send either an eligible youth of their own choice or select a boy from the recommended list.

Candidates should be high school juniors, not under 16, possess leadership and be in good health.

Detectives Make Bicycle Search

City Police Detectives Thomas J. See and E. M. Powell have found seven stolen bicycles and a the number of young boys have been questioned in the last 48 hours, it was learned last night.

The bicycles had been reported stolen on different days. One of the youths was prosecuted yesterday morning. He was William Spurgeon, 703 Maryland Avenue, who was given a three-months suspended sentence.

The Weather

It looks like summer weather is here to stay, after the last few days of warmish conditions, but showers can be expected at almost any interval, the weatherman says, as he predicts scattered showers for today. The high for the day was 90 degrees, coming up from a low of 69 during the night. At 11 o'clock last night, the mercury stood at 68. The forecast for today, selected at random from the almanac, calls for a cloudy day, but with about the same amount of warmth as Monday —but with the usual, unforecastable showers.

New Automatic Stamp Dispenser Will Be Placed In Postoffice

An automatic stamp vending machine to dispense postage stamps at face value will soon be placed in operation by the U.S. Postoffice Department in the lobby of the Cumberland Postoffice, William C. McDermott, acting postmaster, has announced.

By inaugurating the new convenience, which is part of the department's plan to continually improve and expand its service to patrons, the postal authorities expect to alleviate any waiting in line for stamps.

The new machine will be installed at a convenient place in the lobby and will dispense common denominations of postage stamps. Automatically operated by the insertion of a coin, the machine issues five 1c stamps for a nickel, two 5c Air Mail stamps for a dime and five 3c stamps for a nickel and dime. It is equipped with a sensitive detector mechanism which rejects surplous coins and is rendered inoperative when the supply of stamps is exhausted.

Development and perfection of the machine to meet the specifications set up by the Department and the exacting requirements of the National Bureau of Standards was accomplished by Commercial Controls Corporation, Rochester, N. Y.

Initially, the machine is being placed in postoffices throughout the country, but it can be expected that soon it will be used wherever stamps are commonly sold, as a service to patrons or employes.
